Capital Propjet Dives 600 Feet To Avoid B47

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A Capital Airlines plane carrying 37 persons almost collided with a big military jet bomber near here Thursday.

Passengers were shaken up when the propjet dived 600 feet to avoid the six-engine B47 bomber, but no one was hurt.

Robert Spink, pilot of the commercial plane, said upon landing in Washington that the near miss occurred 30 miles northeast of Charlotte at 9:55 a.m.

Another Near Miss

It was the second near miss of an airlines plane and a military craft reported during the day.

At Cleveland, American Airlines pilot Robert E. Lewis reported he had to make a tight bank to avoid a collision with a Navy jet trainer near Indianapolis. Both planes were flying at 7,000 feet.

In the Charlotte incident, Spink reported immediately to the airways traffic control station in Atlanta. The pilot of the military plane also did so. He was Maj. George R. Erks, 30, of Langhorne, Pa. The plane was from Homestead Air Force Base in Florida.

The bomber and other B47s were in the Charlotte area awaiting clearance to higher altitudes.

Under Traffic Control

The Capital plane, with 34 passengers and crew of three, was flying on instruments at about 19,000 feet and therefore was under traffic control from the ground.

The B47s were under visual flight rules, and under regulations were responsible for special alertness to avoid ground-controlled traffic.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration traffic control station in Atlanta takes no action in such cases. They are investigated by the air carrier safety district office in Winston-Salem, N.C.

U.S. Planning 30 Satellites Next 2 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian space experts said Thursday their plans for satellites, a man-in-orbit and other space adventures will cost billions of dollars over the next few years.

Dr. T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said it is planned to launch 30 satellites and some 140 probing rockets this year and next.

Asked whether there will be a pay-off on these costly efforts, Glennan said he is positive there will be.

Glennan appeared before a Senate Space subcommittee to testify in support of NASA's request for authority to spend $485,300,000 in the next fiscal year.

He said this is the last time, at least in the foreseeable future, that the agency will be asking for less than half a billion.

Testimony disclosed that NASA and its companion military agency in the Pentagon, the Advanced Research Projects Agency, are spending 450-500 million dollars this year and will need 800 millions or more next year.

Glennan said he would not be surprised if just the civilian side, NASA, will cost a billion or more after two years.

He said 15 experimental satellites will be launched this year and the same number in 1960. He said 40 sounding or probing rockets will be fired into space in 1959 and about 100 in 1960.

As examples Glennan said:

The manned-space flight program — project mercury — will cost 200 million dollars "before we have completed this first U.S. effort to put man into space."

The efforts to build a 1½-million-pound trhrust engine of a single chamber eventually will cost another 200 million dollars.

A booster program for rocket motors for space programs will be more than two billion dollars.

Small Plane Missing On W.Va.-Ohio Flight

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —A single engine plane piloted by Roy H. Hinson, 38, Houston, Tex., was missing Thursday on a scheduled flight from here to Akron, Ohio.

The Civil Air Patrol alerted units in West Virginia and Ohio to look for the craft. They used ground vehicles Thursday night to determine if Hinson, an airplane mechanic and operator of a small business in Houston, might have made an emergency landing at a small field.

Ex-Slave, 100, Starts Drawing Social Security

MARBURY, Md. (AP)—A former slave who says she'll be 101 on March 12 started drawing social security Thursday.

The $78.60 check was presented to Mrs. Delcena Jordan, believed the oldest resident of Charles County.

Born a slave not far from the home were she now lives with a niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Dean, the Negro centenarian explained she'd spent most of her life as midwife. She estimated she has helped bring 3,000 to 4,000 babies into the world.

On hand to give Mrs. Jordan her first monthly check was William R. Spates, manager of the Silver Spring social security office.

Although she does not have a birth certificate, social security officials accepted a wedding certificate for the purpose. It showed she was married in 1898.

Mrs. Jordan survives her husband by some 50 years. None of her seven children are living.

She formerly was dependent on a son, Edward, who died in 1955. His widow got a pension under existing regulations, but the law now provides Mrs. Jordan as the surviving dependent mother may draw old age benefit payments.

Macmillan May Visit U.S. After Moscow Jaunt

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said Thursday night he may go to Washington on his return from his Moscow trip with a view to developing a united Western policy

Macmillan emphasized the visit to Moscow was not for direct negotiations but "to try to break the ice and get some feeling of the general situation before the next stages."

The Prime Minister told a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons:

"The next stages must be a visit to Bonn, to Paris and perhaps to Washington with a view to formation of the Western Allied Policy."

When that policy is formulated, Macmillan went on, "great decisions will have to be taken."

"We shall have to face, in the next period, the supreme test of direct negotiations with the Soviet government," Macmillan said.

Macmillan leaves Saturday for Moscow and expects to spend about 10 days in the Soviet Union.

An official announcement last week said he will visit Paris March 9-10 and Bonn March 12-13 to report to the French and West German governments on his talks.

Macmillan will be accompanied by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Loyd for what the Prime Minister has described as exploratory talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Communications Commission Thursday described as "premature" application by Press Wireless, Inc, of New York to set up communications with U.S. and Soviet space ships.

Ike, Mexico's Chief Confer

U.S. Friendship Is Reaffirmed By Eisenhower

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — President Eisenhower said Thursday he will always meet neighboring Mexico more than halfway in solving problems because he never wants the U.S.-Mexican border defended by guns.

"We want it to be guarded by the friendship that lives within the hearts of your people and ours," he said.

Eisenhower reaffirmed Mexican-American friendship as he arrived in this palm-ringed Pacific vacation resort for two days of good-will talks with Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

In welcoming him at the city's gaily decorated airport, the smiling 48-hear-old Mexican chief executive said relations between the two nations are truly satisfactory.

Throngs of cheering, flag-waving Mexicans, estimated at 30,000, gave Eisenhower such a rousing reception that they tied up the city streets in a gigantic traffic jam.

Confer Aboard Yacht

Eisenhower waved back cheerily from the limousine in which he and Lopez Mateos rode from the airport to Eisenhower's hotel.

Three hours after he flew in aboard the White House plane Columbine III from an overnight stop at the Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Tex., Eisenhower sailed off into the blue waters of Acapulco Bay for talks with Lopez Mateos aboard the white yacht Sotavento.

There had been advance indications that Communists and Red sympathizers might attempt to embarrass Eisenhower. But if they had any such intention, the Mexican police seemed to have quashed it completely.

Defense Caused Past Rift

As the talks got under way, U.S. officials said Eisenhower would avoid raising any of the touchy hemispheric defense problems that have caused some trouble in relations between the two countries in the past.

Communists had contended Eisenhower came here to convert Mexico into a satellite, that he was plotting to steal Mexico's oil and force the nation to sign a one-sided military pact.

Eisenhower was understood to be ready to promise American loan assistance to Mexico to help Lopez Mateos carry out his program for improving education, industrial development and agriculture.

White Students Still Boycott Va. School

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (AP) — Classes resumed Thursday at Warren County High School in Front Royal—theoretically Virginia's fourth locality with integrated public schools.

But, as at registration Wednesday, Negroes were the only students to enter the previously all white 1,000-pupil school. The only difference was that one of the 22 Negroes who had registered was absent.

Gasque said he is now convinced that no white students will show up. Relatively normal numbers of white pupils are attending 10 integrated public schools in Norfolk, Arlington and Alexandria.

However, most of the students who made up Warren County's student body when the school was closed under state laws last fall—nearly 800—now attend private classes conducted by the Warren County Educational Foundation.

Scared Witness Refuses To Talk About Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Kelly, an Elgin, Ill., vending machine operator, refused Thursday to say whether another man—sitting beside him—has used death threats to grab part of his business.

Senators said Kelly was too frightened to talk.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) called it "a tragic state when a man in the shadow of the Capitol of the country cringes in fear."

Summoned before the Senate Labor Management Committee, Kelly invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to testify. Specifically, he wouldn't say whether he had given Rocco Pranno half of his business because Pranno had threatened to have Kelly dropped from a bridge with concrete blocks tied to his feet.

The husky Pranno—linked earlier in the day with other threats—also invoked the Fifth Amendment on every question except ones about his home and business address, which he listed as in Elgin.

Occasionally, Pranno fixed Kelly with a hostile stare. On orders from Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark), Kelly looked at Pranno. Then he refused to say whether he knows him.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, described Pranno as a muscleman from Sam Giancana, saying Giancana once was the chief gunman for the old Capone mob.

Kennedy said Pranno wrested a half interest in Kelly's Aurora-Kane County Amusement Co. in 1957, without paying Kelly a cent. The counsel said records show that Kelly provided everything—machines, locations and knowhow.

Pact Giving Cyprus Independence Inked

LONDON (UPI)—Britain signed away its key Mediterranean colony of Cyprus Thursday night in a five-sided agreement establishing the strife-torn island as an independent republic.

The agreement, initialled by Britain, Greece, Turkey and Greek and Turkish Cypriot delegations, ended four years of virtual war which claimed hundreds of lives and engulfed the strategic Middle East bastioned in tension.

The compromise, based on the Greek-Turkish Zurich plan, also eliminated an internal squabble among three of NATO's key members—Britain, Greece and Turkey.

Informed sources said Britain retained the right to have air, sea and ground force bases on Cyprus "in perpetuity." Greece and Turkey renounced past claims on the island.

The Greek Cypriot majority on the island, which previously had demanded union with Greece (Enosis), accorded a power of veto over major legislation to representatives of the Turkish Cypriot minority.

Full terms of the agreement were to remain secret until Monday when texts will be published in the various capitals. The pact is subject to ratification by the British, Greek and Turkish parliaments.

For Britain, the key point was retention of the bases which provide one of the West's most important military centers in the explosive Middle East. Cyprus became Mideast military headquarters for Britain after the loss of Suez in 1956.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who will leave for Moscow Saturday, told a cheering House of Commons later that Britain agreed to transfer the sovereignty of the island with the exception of the bases and "providing our military requirements were met in a manner that could not be challenged." He said the rights of the Cypriots were taken into full account and the pact represented a "fair and honorable compromise between the interests of Greece and Turkey."

Bandit Invests $4, "Clears" $2,980

NEW YORK (AP)—A robber invested $4 in coins Thursday at the Chemical Coin Exchange Bank at Pennsylvania Station and walked out with a $2,980 profit.

The man, well-dressed and mustached, slid four rolls of pennies and one of nickels at teller John Gallagher, 23. With them was a note threatening the teller and demanding $5,000.

Gallagher scooped a pile of bills—later checked out in value at $2,984—over to the man. The bandit then walked out of the bank—leaving behind his $4 in coins.

Dynamite Cap Blast Injures 7 Students

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — Seven students in an elementary school were wounded Thursday when a dynamite cap used in a science demonstration exploded. Doctors transferred two of the students to the nearby Ft. Hood Army Hospital for further care after initial treatment at the Killeen Clinic. The other five injured received treatment at the clinic and were released. The explosion occurred in the science room at the school.

Ex-President Of Teamsters Plans Appeal

Pales At Verdict; Court Sets Feb. 27 For Sentencing

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Dave Beck, millionaire ex-president of the giant Teamsters' Union, was found guilty by a federal court jury Thursday of evading $240,000 in income taxes.

Beck was remanded to the custody of a U.S. marshal and taken to jail soon after the jury announced its verdict at 3 p.m. Beck's attorneys immediately announced they would appeal, but said their client probably would have to spend the night in jail while an appeal bond is being arranged.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge George Boldt set Feb. 27 for sentencing.

Beck, 64, could be sentenced to 30 years in prison and fined $60,000.

He was convicted on all six counts of tax evasion in two government indictments. Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine or both.

Beck Pales At Verdict

The portly Beck was eating a sandwich in his hotel room when notified the jury had reached a verdict. He arrived at the courtroom within 10 minutes and waited impassively.

When the verdict was read Beck paled visibly, but otherwise gave no sign of emotion.

The jury of eight men and four women received the case Wednesday at 1:22 p.m.

Jury foreman Warren Hale of Tacoma said the jurors were never in serious disagreement and took only 10 or 12 ballots.

Beck's chief counsel, Charles Burdell, had wound up the defense in about one hour. The government had taken 57 days and presented 115 witnesses.

Beck never took the stand.

"I told him the government didn't have a case, so to heck with it—let's wrap it up," Burdell said after resting the case.

Appeal Planned

After the verdict, Burdell said he was surprised.

"I will appeal on the issue of what constitutes taxable income, plus other issues," he said.

The government contended Beck "swelled the coffers" of the Teamsters Union while "about a million dollars stuck to his avaricious hands." The evasions, the government charged, covered 1950-53.

The defense claimed Beck borrowed the money and therefore the funds were not taxable.

Judge Boldt had instructed the jury it could convict Beck if it found he wilfully converted union expense money to his personal use; misappropriated union funds for his own benefit, knew he owed income taxes "substantially greater" than he paid, or wilfully tried to defraud the government by filing false tax returns.

Beck is already under sentence of not more than 15 years in the Washington State Penitentiary for conviction on a grand larceny charge in which he was accused of keeping $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned Cadillac. He has appealed.

Rep. Dan Reed Dies At Age 83

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Daniel Alden Reed, an apostle of oldtime Republicanism, died Thursday at the age of 83.

He had represented New York's 43rd District, in the state's extreme western tip, since 1919 and had become a landmark on the political scene. Generally speaking, he battled for higher tariffs and lower taxes.

A typical tribute came Thursday from Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill): "Dan Reed was a great old rugged warrior whose interest in the conservative tradition never faltered."

Death came after a heart attack at Walter Reed Medical Center, where the congressman had gone two weeks ago to undergo treatment for an infected foot. Reed had suffered a heart attack several years ago while in Rome with a congressional delegation, and spent months convalescing.

Reed was the top Republican, and onetime chairman, of the House Ways and Means Committee, which originates all federal tax legislation. With his death the ranking Republican becomes Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania.

Out of respect, the House laid aside all of its work until Monday.

Ban On African Dance Troupe Nudity May Provoke "International Incident"

NEW YORK (AP)—Can nudity claim diplomatic immunity?

That, said impresario Luben Vichey Thursday, is what he intends to find out. Vichey, along with assorted performers and aides, was busy expressing artistic indignation at a city ban on some bare bosom dancing in "Les Ballets Africains."

The show opened on Broadway Monday amid critical raves. The cover-up edict was issued Wednesday by License Commissioner Bernard O'Connell.

The order was directed against three girls, bare above the midriff, who are featured in four folk dances among the show's 25 scenes. Critics commented on the nonlascivious nature of their performance.

"This is a cultural exchange program, sent here under sponsorship of the African nation of Guinea," declared Vichey. He said he expects a diplomatic protest to be sent by Guinea to the U.S. State Department.

There's even a possibility, he continued, that the United Nations may get involved.

"Tomorrow the Guinean flag will be raised at the U.N. for the first time. Members of our ballet company have been invited and we are going to have the girls dressed as they cannot be dressed on the stage of the Martin Beck Theater."

The headquarters of the U.N. is a diplomatic enclave, outside the police regulations of the city.

The cause of the rumpus is simple, said Vichey, who as president of National Artists Corp., is usually concerned with the tours of such talents as James Melton, Mischa Elman and the Vienna Philharmonic. It is a matter of honestly showing another culture.

"I'm sure if O'Connell saw the show himself he wouldn't object," he declared. "It never was my intention for a moment to do a strip-tease show. When I was a child in school I saw many African culture films with similar undress."

Putting on brassieres, he added, is very inhibiting to the three girls affected. (Seven other distaff performers and 19 male members of the troupe were not involved in the more-clothes order.)

The African company has previously traveled without censoring across Europe and South America.

Marshall's Doctors More Optimistic

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall slept peacefully Thursday while Army physicians and civilian medical consultants kept 24-hour watch on his sickbed.

A late medical report on the condition of the 78-year-old five-star general was slightly more optimistic than two previous ones during the day.

However, Gen. George M. Powell, the Army doctor who is in charge of the case, said Marshall's condition still is considered serious.

Divorce And Possible $750,000 Won By Debbie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In a five-minute court hearing, actress Debbie Reynolds won a divorce and a possible $750,000 from singer Eddie Fisher Thursday.

"My husband became interested in another woman," she testified simply and tearlessly, never mentioning the name of Elizabeth Taylor.

The end to the once idyllic marriage came so swiftly that Fisher's attorney and manager arrived after it was all over.

Sedately dressed in a black suit with velvet collar, Miss Reynolds strode into the new county courthouse before her work day at 20th Century-Fox studios. Superior Court Judge Roger A. Pfaff heard her case immediately.

Replying calmly and quietly to her attorney, Frank Belcher, the actress told of her husband's interest in "another woman" beginning last September.

Q. Did he ever discuss with you the matter of divorce? A. Yes.

Q. What, briefly, did he say to you in that respect? A. He wished a divorce.

The cost of Fisher's romance with Liz Taylor? Newsmen and attorneys checked the complex property agreement and figured Eddie will pay at least three-quarters of a million. Fisher's own guess is a million dollars to Debbie over 10 years.

Among the provisions for Debbie: Ownership of their $125,000 house; a $100,000 insurance policy on Fisher's life; alimony as high as $41,000, depending on his earnings; support for Carrie Fisher, 2, and Todd Fisher, 1, starting at $4,500 a year and rising to $6,000 in three years; certain securities.

Karen Gunning (right), 16, of Mulberry, Ind., hugs her chaperone, Mrs. Fred Reichert, of Lafayette, Ind., after she won the 27th National Cherry Pie Baking Contest at Chicago yesterday. Karen said she baked 300 pies in the last four years to try out five or six recipes. Asked if she thought the judges were going to choose her entry as the best, Karen said, "No, I didn't think so. My pie ran; I saw it." (AP Photofax)

Scared Witness Refuses To Talk About Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Kelly, an Elgin, Ill., vending machine operator, refused Thursday to say whether another man—sitting beside him—has used death threats to grab part of his business.

Senators said Kelly was too frightened to talk.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) called it "a tragic state when a man in the shadow of the Capitol of the country cringes in fear."

Summoned before the Senate Labor Management Committee, Kelly invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to testify. Specifically, he wouldn't say whether he had given Rocco Pranno half of his business because Pranno had threatened to have Kelly dropped from a bridge with concrete blocks tied to his feet.

The husky Pranno—linked earlier in the day with other threats—also invoked the Fifth Amendment on every question except ones about his home and business address, which he listed as in Elgin.

Occasionally, Pranno fixed Kelly with a hostile stare. On orders from Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark), Kelly looked at Pranno. Then he refused to say whether he knows him.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, described Pranno as a muscleman from Sam Giancana, saying Giancana once was the chief gunman for the old Capone mob.

Kennedy said Pranno wrested a half interest in Kelly's Aurora-Kane County Amusement Co. in 1957, without paying Kelly a cent. The counsel said records show that Kelly provided everything—machines, locations and knowhow.

Pact Giving Cyprus Independence Inked

LONDON (UPI)—Britain signed away its key Mediterranean colony of Cyprus Thursday night in a five-sided agreement establishing the strife-torn island as an independent republic.

The agreement, initialled by Britain, Greece, Turkey and Greek and Turkish Cypriot delegations, ended four years of virtual war which claimed hundreds of lives and engulfed the strategic Middle East bastioned in tension.

The compromise, based on the Greek-Turkish Zurich plan, also eliminated an internal squabble among three of NATO's key members—Britain, Greece and Turkey.

Informed sources said Britain retained the right to have air, sea and ground force bases on Cyprus "in perpetuity." Greece and Turkey renounced past claims on the island.

The Greek Cypriot majority on the island, which previously had demanded union with Greece (Enosis), accorded a power of veto over major legislation to representatives of the Turkish Cypriot minority.

Full terms of the agreement were to remain secret until Monday when texts will be published in the various capitals. The pact is subject to ratification by the British, Greek and Turkish parliaments.

For Britain, the key point was retention of the bases which provide one of the West's most important military centers in the explosive Middle East. Cyprus became Mideast military headquarters for Britain after the loss of Suez in 1956.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who will leave for Moscow Saturday, told a cheering House of Commons later that Britain agreed to transfer the sovereignty of the island with the exception of the bases and "providing our military requirements were met in a manner that could not be challenged." He said the rights of the Cypriots were taken into full account and the pact represented a "fair and honorable compromise between the interests of Greece and Turkey."

Dynamite Cap Blast Injures 7 Students

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — Seven students in an elementary school were wounded Thursday when a dynamite cap used in a science demonstration exploded. Doctors transferred two of the students to the nearby Ft. Hood Army Hospital for further care after initial treatment at the Killeen Clinic. The other five injured received treatment at the clinic and were released. The explosion occurred in the science room at the school.

Bandit Invests $4, "Clears" $2,980

NEW YORK (AP)—A robber invested $4 in coins Thursday at the Chemical Coin Exchange Bank at Pennsylvania Station and walked out with a $2,980 profit.

The man, well-dressed and mustached, slid four rolls of pennies and one of nickels at teller John Gallagher, 23. With them was a note threatening the teller and demanding $5,000.

Gallagher scooped a pile of bills—later checked out in value at $2,984—over to the man. The bandit then walked out of the bank—leaving behind his $4 in coins.

Ex-President Of Teamsters Plans Appeal

Pales At Verdict; Court Sets Feb. 27 For Sentencing

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Dave Beck, millionaire ex-president of the giant Teamsters' Union, was found guilty by a federal court jury Thursday of evading $240,000 in income taxes.

Beck was remanded to the custody of a U.S. marshal and taken to jail soon after the jury announced its verdict at 3 p.m. Beck's attorneys immediately announced they would appeal, but said their client probably would have to spend the night in jail while an appeal bond is being arranged.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge George Boldt set Feb. 27 for sentencing.

Beck, 64, could be sentenced to 30 years in prison and fined $60,000.

He was convicted on all six counts of tax evasion in two government indictments. Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine or both.

Beck Pales At Verdict

The portly Beck was eating a sandwich in his hotel room when notified the jury had reached a verdict. He arrived at the courtroom within 10 minutes and waited impassively.

When the verdict was read Beck paled visibily, but otherwise gave no sign of emotion.

The jury of eight men and four women received the case Wednesday at 1:22 p.m.

Jury foreman Warren Hale of Tacoma said the jurors were never in serious disagreement and took only 10 or 12 ballots.

Beck's chief counsel, Charles Burdell, had wound up the defense in about one hour. The government had taken 57 days and presented 115 witnesses.

Beck never took the stand.

"I told him the government didn't have a case, so to heck with it—let's wrap it up," Burdell said after resting the case.

Appeal Planned

After the verdict, Burdell said he was surprised.

"I will appeal on the issue of what constitutes taxable income, plus other issues," he said.

The government contended Beck "swelled the coffers" of the Teamsters Union while "about a million dollars stuck to his avaricious hands." The evasions, the government charged, covered 1950-53.

The defense claimed Beck borrowed the money and therefore the funds were not taxable.

Judge Boldt had instructed the jury it could convict Beck if it found he wilfully converted union expense money to his personal use; misappropriated union funds for his own benefit, knew he owed income taxes "substantially greater" than he paid, or wilfully tried to defraud the government by filing false tax returns.

Beck is already under sentence of not more than 15 years in the Washington State Penitentiary for conviction on a grand larceny charge in which he was accused of keeping $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned Cadillac. He has appealed.

Rep. Dan Reed Dies At Age 83

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Daniel Alden Reed, an apostle of old-time Republicanism, died Thursday at the age of 83.

He had represented New York's 43rd District, in the state's extreme western tip, since 1919 and had become a landmark on the political scene. Generally speaking, he battled for higher tariffs and lower taxes.

A typical tribute came Thursday from Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill): "Dan Reed was a great old rugged warrior whose interest in the conservative tradition never faltered."

Death came after a heart attack at Walter Reed Medical Center, where the congressman had gone two weeks ago to undergo treatment for an infected foot. Reed had suffered a heart attack several years ago while in Rome with a congressional delegation, and spent months convalescing.

Reed was the top Republican, and onetime chairman, of the House Ways and Means Committee, which originates all federal tax legislation. With his death the ranking Republican becomes Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania.

Out of respect, the House laid aside all of its work until Monday.

Ban On African Dance Troupe Nudity May Provoke "International Incident"

NEW YORK (AP)—Can nudity claim diplomatic immunity?

That, said impresario Luben Vichey Thursday, is what he intends to find out. Vichey, along with assorted performers and aides, was busy expressing artistic indignation at a city ban on some bare bosom dancing in "Les Ballets Africains."

The show opened on Broadway Monday amid critical raves. The cover-up edict was issued Wednesday by License Commissioner Bernard O'Connell.

The order was directed against three girls, bare above the midriff, who are featured in four folk dances among the show's 25 scenes. Critics commented on the nonlascivious nature of their performance.

"This is a cultural exchange program, sent here under sponsorship of the African nation of Guinea," declared Vichey. He said he expects a diplomatic protest to be sent by Guinea to the U.S. State Department.

There's even a possibility, he continued, that the United Nations may get involved.

"Tomorrow the Guinean flag will be raised at the U.N. for the first time. Members of our ballet company have been invited and we are going to have the girls dressed as they cannot be dressed on the stage of the Martin Beck Theater."

The headquarters of the U.N. is a diplomatic enclave, outside the police regulations of the city.

The cause of the rumpus is simple, said Vichey, who as president of National Artists Corp., is usually concerned with the tours of such talents as James Melton, Mischa Elman and the Vienna Philharmonic. It is a matter of honestly showing another culture.

"I'm sure if O'Connell saw the show himself he wouldn't object," he declared. "It never was my intention for a moment to do a strip-tease show. When I was a child in school I saw many African culture films with similar undress."

Putting on brassieres, he added, is very inhibiting to the three girls affected. (Seven other distaff performers and 19 male members of the troupe were not involved in the more-clothes order.)

The African company has previously traveled without censoring across Europe and South America.

Marshall's Doctors More Optimistic

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall slept peacefully Thursday while Army physicians and civilian medical consultants kept 24-hour watch on his sickbed.

A late medical report on the condition of the 78-year-old five-star general was slightly more optimistic than two previous ones during the day.

However, Gen. George M. Powell, the Army doctor who is in charge of the case, said Marshall's condition still is considered serious.

Divorce And Possible $750,000 Won By Debbie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In a five-minute court hearing, actress Debbie Reynolds won a divorce and a possible $750,000 from singer Eddie Fisher Thursday.

"My husband became interested in another woman," she testified simply and tearlessly, never mentioning the name of Elizabeth Taylor.

The end to the once idyllic marriage came so swiftly that Fisher's attorney and manager arrived after it was all over.

Sedately dressed in a black suit with velvet collar, Miss Reynolds strode into the new county courthouse before her work day at 20th Century-Fox studios. Superior Court Judge Roger A. Pfaff heard her case immediately.

Replying calmly and quietly to her attorney, Frank Belcher, the actress told of her husband's interest in "another woman" beginning last September.

Q. Did he ever discuss with you the matter of divorce? A. Yes.

Q. What, briefly, did he say to you in that respect? A. He wished a divorce.

The cost of Fisher's romance with Liz Taylor? Newsmen and attorneys checked the complex property agreement and figured Eddie will pay at least three-quarters of a million. Fisher's own guess is a million dollars to Debbie over 10 years.

Among the provisions for Debbie: Ownership of their $125,000 house; a $100,000 insurance policy on Fisher's life; alimony as high as $41,000, depending on his earnings; support for Carrie Fisher, 2, and Todd Fisher, 1, starting at $4,500 a year and rising to $6,000 in three years; certain securities.

Obscene Book Ban Compromise Set

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A compromise has apparently cleared the way for enactment of a bill which would keep objectionable literature out of children's hands.

A change in wording suggested by Del. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd) is expected to satisfy both sides—those with doubts about the bill's constitutionality and Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro's Committee of Decency.

Gallagher's amendments would strike out a provision that the simple display of indecent books amounted to a presumption the shop owner intended to sell them to minors.

To satisfy the decency committee, Gallagher would add provisions making it illegal to allow minors to peruse such literature and forbidding its display where it could be seen from a public street.

Gallagher, a political ally of Mayor D'Alesandro, said he had convinced the chairman of the decency committee that this wording would accomplish her purpose.

Also satisfied was Del. Melvin (D-Anne Arundel), chairman of the judiciary committee. Melvin was chief among those concerned about the legal presumption of guilt in the original bill.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, was amended in the House Tuesday to remove the presumption-by-display provision. But the delegates reconsidered their vote Wednesday, with Mayor D'Alesandro in the gallery, and restored the controversial clause.

It was then sent back to the judiciary committee on Melvin's plea for a clarification of constitutional doubts.

Melvin and Del. Mathias (R-Frederick) said the presumption-by-display provision was contrary to the basic concept of law that a person is innocent until proven guilty.

Gallagher's suggested amendments, outlined at a committee meeting Thursday, are to be drafted and brought before the committee for a vote Friday.

"Big 3" Move Closer To Small Car Production

DETROIT (AP) — Production of smaller automobiles by the auto industry's big three of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler appeared Thursday to have moved a bit closer to the realm of certainty.

It has been an open secret for months that the three larger carmakers have their projected smaller models almost ready for presentation. Henry Ford II, President of Ford Motor Co., admitted Thursday for the first time that his company has such a vehicle under development for production in this country.

The Ford statement was prompted by a New York Times article that said Ford already was committed to such production, had ordered dies, and started pilot plant tests for the final assembly line. The paper said the planned smaller Ford car would sell for less than $2,000.

At about the same time, Chairman Frederic G. Donner and President John F. Gordon of General Motors told shareholders the corporation was continuing studies "to be prepared to produce smaller cars in this country in the event a demand for such automobiles develops which gives promise of being both permanent and profitable."

President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler Corp. made, in effect, a somewhat similar statement several months ago.

American Motors' Rambler sales have been soaring for many months. They accounted for approximately 200,000 of last year's total retail deliveries, exclusive of import sales.

Studebaker-Packard, with a new smaller car introduced last autumn, also has reported a climbing demand.

No Record Slain Trio In Country, Iraq Says

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Seven months after revolutionary mobs killed three Americans in Baghdad, Iraq's government is claiming it has no record the three were even in the country.

The Iraqi Foreign Ministry declared in a note to the U.S. Embassy a few days ago it found no documentary evidence of their entry and hence expressed doubt they were killed.

This replied to a new request from the embassy for official death certificates covering Robert Alcock, a businessman of Atladena, Calif.; George Colley, vice president of the Bechtel Corp., San Francisco; and Eugene Burns of Sausalito, Calif., director general of the Holy Land Foundation.

The embassy said death certificates were needed by the victims' families to collect life insurance and settle other property matters.

Woman Tavern Owner Kills Man

BALTIMORE (AP)— A woman tavern owner Thursday shot and killed a man she spotted behind the bar with a bottle of whisky in his hand.

Baltimore County police identified the dead man as Harold W. Joseph, 35, of Middle River.

Police said Joseph was shot by Mrs. Anna DeCato, 44, who is co-owner of a Baltimore County bar with her husband.

Mrs. DeCato fired an automatic pistol from the kitchen behind the bar, police said. The shot hit Joseph in the lower abdomen.

The woman was taken to the Parkville Police Station for questioning.

A Negro believed to have entered the tavern with Joseph and who fled after the shooting was arrested by police near Edgewood. He was held for questioning.

Freeman Held In $22,500 Bail

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Thomas Freeman, 40-year-old ex-convict on the FBI's "10 most wanted" list, was held in $22,500 bail Thursday pending arrival of warrants charging him with unlawful flight and auto theft.

U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart ordered Freeman held in $20,000 bail on the charge of fleeing from Missouri to escape prosecution for armed robbery.

Bail of $2,500 was set on the charge of transporting a stolen car from Wichita Falls, Texas, to Lebo, Kan.

The FBI said Freeman, who has a 22-year crime record, was captured Wednesday at Hillside near Washington, D.C. as he was about to drive away in a car outside his room.

He was wanted for the armed robbery in which $450 and narcotics were stolen from a Joplin, Mo., drugstore last Sept. 7. Freeman allegedly held up the store with Glen Roy Maynard, whose body was found stomped, strangled, shot and knifed in a woods near Fort Lauderdale, Fla. a few days later.

Man Is Indicted In Wife's Slaying

FREDERICK (AP)—A 32-year-old Frederick County man was indicted by the grand jury Thursday for first degree murder in the stabbing of his wife.

The indictment was returned against Robert Keeney of U.S. Route 1, Frederick, who was charged with killing his wife Saturday night. The woman, about 48, was the mother of five children by a previous marriage.

State Police picked up Keeney at his parents' home near Creagerstown shortly after the stabbing and after he had shot and critically wounded himself.

Keeney was still under guard at Frederick Memorial Hospital.

Swiss Calmly Await Town's Death In Slide

HERBRIGGEN, Switzerland (AP) — The blonde girl's eyes looked as if she had cried a lot lately. But her voice was steady as she talked Thursday of the doom that hangs over Herbriggen.

"There's no use being afraid," said Rosa Summermatter, 21.

Rosa runs the village grocery, owned by her father. It still opens for an hour or two a day, though there are few customers.

The store is at the very center of the area of danger from a million tons of rock, ice and earth which sooner or later will plunge from the Nadelhorn Mountain precipice overhanging Herbriggen.

"We will have to leave all our stock behind," Rosa said. "There is no room for it anywhere. Meanwhile, we intend to come back every day as long as we can. What else is there to do?"

Even as she spoke, her father was loading the family tableware on a sled to pull it out of reach of the avalanche.

A bright sun warmed the air to 50 degrees, a potentially hazardous temperature. If it prevailed long enough it would melt the mountain ice and trigger the slide.

Climbers who inspected the hanging mass reported no sight or sound of movement. They said at least one side seemed solidly entrenched on the slope and unlikely to fall for the time being.

The news was received without elation.

Victory Over Heart Disease Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ultimate decisive victory over heart disease, including large-scale prevention, is possible if research is highly accelerated and intensified, Dr. Howard Sprague, a Boston heart specialist, said Thursday.

From the same platform where Dr. Sprague made this prediction, Rep. John E. Fogarty (D-RI) accused the Eisenhower administration and its Budget Bureau of making cutbacks in medical research appropriations requests and of misleading the public as to the pace of medical research.

Fogarty said current budget requests for medical research are 12 to 13 million dollars less than the administration sought a year ago. He said the cutback includes a two-million-dollar drop in funds for heart disease research.

The congressman said he had reliable information that a 50-million-dollar increase is needed.

He and Dr. Sprague spoke at a symposium where some of the nation's top heart doctors gave a report to the nation on advances made in the last decade in treatment and diagnosis of heart disease.

Dr. Sprague, of Harvard Medical School, keynoted the reports by himself and the other doctors.

The theme developed was that new and better surgical and medical treatment and diagnostic methods as well as advances towards prevention can be expected, provided continuous and generous support is given for heart research.

Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, chief consultant in President Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack case, said that with a vigorous research program, "we should be able to accomplish much within a generation" in the field of prevention.

Speaking of heart attacks, Dr. White declared: "There is no reason to doubt, based on our experience of the past, that we can protect our young and middle-aged males by diet, exercise, medicines, and other measures from the ever-increasing threat of coronary heart disease, provided we support to the full medical and other scientific investigators working hard on this disease entity."

Victory Over Heart Disease Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ultimate decisive victory over heart disease, including large-scale prevention, is possible if research is highly accelerated and intensified, Dr. Howard Sprague, a Boston heart specialist, said Thursday.

From the same platform where Dr. Sprague made this prediction, Rep. John E. Fogarty (D-RI) accused the Eisenhower administration and its Budget Bureau of making cutbacks in medical research appropriations requests and of misleading the public as to the pace of medical research.

Fogarty said current budget requests for medical research are 12 to 13 million dollars less than the administration sought a year ago. He said the cutback includes a two-million-dollar drop in funds for heart disease research.

The congressman said he had reliable information that a 50-million-dollar increase is needed.

He and Dr. Sprague spoke at a symposium where some of the nation's top heart doctors gave a report to the nation on advances made in the last decade in treatment and diagnosis of heart disease.

Dr. Sprague, of Harvard Medical School, keynoted the reports by himself and the other doctors.

The theme developed was that new and better surgical and medical treatment and diagnostic methods as well as advances towards prevention can be expected, provided continuous and generous support is given for heart research.

Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, chief consultant in President Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack case, said that with a vigorous research program, "we should be able to accomplish much within a generation" in the field of prevention.

Speaking of heart attacks, Dr. White declared: "There is no reason to doubt, based on our experience of the past, that we can protect our young and middle-aged males by diet, exercise, medicines, and other measures from the ever-increasing threat of coronary heart disease, provided we support to the full medical and other scientific investigators working hard on this disease entity."

Dulles — Or Successor — Faces Problem Of Shifting U.S. - Soviet Power Balance

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The great problem which John Foster Dulles—or his successor at the State Department—must face in the next two years is the changing balance of power between the Soviet Union and the United States. In industrial and space-age military production, the Soviet Union is moving up very fast.

Since the beginning of the cold war United States political and military policy has been based on a power balance in favor of the Western Allies. The basic assumption has been that the Soviet Union would use its military power to promote political expansion if it dared, but it didn't dare. In January 1954 Dulles gave this concept a name: "massive retaliation."

About 18 months ago concern over the reliability of this doctrine as a mainstay of world peace spread through the Western camp. There were three reasons. In August 1957 the Soviet Union announced successful testing of an intercontinental ballistic missile. On the following Oct. 4 it launched its historic Sputnik, the first man-made moon. Then a hydrogen warhead of a new design.

The United States military response to these Soviet achievements has been to begin putting nuclear missiles into NATO territory in Europe, where Allied governments agreed to receive them, and to speed up missile and development production programs and ICBM bases in this country.

The direct answer to this condition of peril seems to be some form of disarmament backed up by international inspection against surprise attack. Dulles and President Eisenhower along with Allied leaders have tried to negotiate disarmament pacts with the Soviet Union. But all efforts have failed to date because Soviet leaders charge that any inspection system which would be effective in Western eyes is merely a device for spying in their country.

In meeting the 1958 Mideast and Quemoy crises Dulles followed a philosophy he expounded early in his term as secretary of state. It has come to be known as "brinkmanship" after he talked in a magazine interview about the necessity of going "to the brink" of war in order to make another nation back down when it threatened aggression.

"The time may come," Dulles said at the 1955 summit conference, "I believe it will come — when Russians of stature will patriotically put first their national security and the welfare of their people. They will be unable to have that security and that welfare subordinated to the world-wide ambitions of international communism.

"If their point of view should prevail, then indeed there could be a basis for worthwhile negotiation and practical agreement between the United States and the new Russia."

At a recent news conference, however, Dulles dealt with the other side of the coin. He said the move by the Soviets beginning last November to oust the Western Powers from Berlin demonstrated that they cannot be trusted to keep agreements. But agreements with the Soviets are acceptable if they can be made self-enforcing, he added, and the Western Powers must explore every opportunity for making such agreements as that.

Dulles has given United States foreign policy the deep imprint of these ingredients of his own thinking — long-range hope about winning out in the end, eternal vigilance against being lured into an unworkable agreement, and the will together with the arms to fight if the Soviet challenge ever goes that far. These fundamentals will carry over into the coming years whether his hand or another charts the course.

But whether the policies derived from them are adequate to meet the threat of growing Soviet power and to hold the Allies together is the question confronting Allied capitals. The evidence is that the Western world has only begun to face up to the implications of rapidly expanding Soviet power and Red China's ruthless determination to realize its own potential in the nuclear age.

Widow, 70, Sues Dance Studio For $35,000

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 70-year-old widow sued a dance studio Wednesday for nearly $35,000 she says she paid in a year for dance lessons and tours with instructors.

The suit contends that "flattery, over-attentiveness, artful deception and guile" weakened the elderly woman's mental resistance.

Mrs. Mary Jackson, widow of a Baltimore attorney, brought the action through her attorney against the Arthur Murray School of Dancing, also known as Arthur Murray Dance Studios.

The woman's suit said that in response to an advertisement she enrolled for a series of 50 hours of dance lessons for $620. This was on Jan. 16, 1958.

Seven subsequent contracts over a year's time brought the total dance lesson hours contracted for to 3,100 and the cost to $34,913, the suit said. The lessons, the suit said, were to cover a period of three years and also called for a "Manhattan holiday with teacher," a "Jamaican holiday with teacher," and an "European trip with teacher."

The money, the suit said, represented "a large majority" of the woman's financial security.

Baltimore Circuit Court Judge S. Ralph Warnken signed an order calling for the school and its officials to show cause by March 5 why the court should not set aside the contracts and require an accounting of money involved.

Also named as defendants were Robert P. John and Clair Beckham John, alleged operators of the Baltimore school, and Arthur Murray, Kathryn Murray and Arthur Murray Inc.

Racquet Wielder, 78, Routs Intruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles M. Chase found a tennis racquet can come in handy for off-court purposes, too. With a number of smash shots to the head, Chase used his racquet to rout an intruder from a fifth floor apartment.

Chase, an economistwho keeps in trim by playing tennis, swimming and wrestling, got in his hefty serves Tuesday by responding to the screams of a neighbor, Mrs. Mary A. Cockrill, 60.

As the intruder, carrying a tire iron, left the woman's apartment, Chase met him with the tennis racquet.

"I hit him on the left corner of his head, and blood began to spatter," Chase related. "He dropped his steel tire thing, and I hit him three times, just as fast and hard as I could."

The intruder fled down the stairs. Chase, now in possession of both racquet and tire iron, pursued him via elevator to the first floor but couldn't find him.

Incidentally, it was Chase's 78th birthday.

The railroad mail car was invented about 1862 by William Davis, St. Joseph, Mo., postmaster.

Racquet Wielder, 78, Routs Intruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles M. Chase found a tennis racquet can come in handy for off-court purposes, too. With a number of smash shots to the head, Chase used his racquet to rout an intruder from a fifth floor apartment.

Chase, an economistwho keeps in trim by playing tennis, swimming and wrestling, got in his hefty serves Tuesday by responding to the screams of a neighbor, Mrs. Mary A. Cockrill, 60.

As the intruder, carrying a tire iron, left the woman's apartment, Chase met him with the tennis racquet.

"I hit him on the left corner of his head, and blood began to spatter," Chase related. "He dropped his steel tire thing, and I hit him three times, just as fast and hard as I could."

The intruder fled down the stairs. Chase, now in possession of both racquet and tire iron, pursued him via elevator to the first floor but couldn't find him.

Incidentally, it was Chase's 78th birthday.

The railroad mail car was invented about 1862 by William Davis, St. Joseph, Mo., postmaster.

Girls 4-H Club Awards Projects Seals

Seals for projects completed were distributed and plans were formulated to visit various Homemaker clubs again this year, at a meeting of the Cumberland 4-H Girls Club, held at the home of Charlotte King, Louisiana Avenue.

Four seals were awarded to Patricia King for completion of projects in "Guides To Smart Sewing;" making a suit; "My Frozen Food Record," and "Let's Cook a Hearty Luncheon." Charlotte King received three seals for better storage of clothing, "Let's Cook a Hearty Luncheon," and guides to smart sewing. One seal each was awarded to Pauline Miltenberger for her home electric project; Patricia Campbell, use of a pattern; Jean Miltenberger and Joan Miltenberger, "Let's Cook Breakfast."

Club members will give demonstrations at the meeting of the Maple side Homemakers Club, March 19; the North Cumberland Homemakers, April 23 and the Valley Road Homemakers, April 1.

Charlotte King presided at the meeting at which roll call was answered by giving Valentine greetings. The constitution of the 4-H Girls Trail was read and approved. Miss Nancy Marsteller, assistant home demonstration agent, gave hints of what judges look for in a perfect garment. Skirts and aprons which members made and brought to the meeting were judged. Miss Marsteller also announced that the Trail is placing a display in the gas company window during 4-H Club Week February 28-March 7.

A demonstration on the proper method of washing a sweater was given by Mary Kimberlin. Concluding the meeting refreshments were served by Mary Kimberlin and Janet Powell. Ten members attended. Pauline Miltenberger was selected to give a demonstration at the next meeting and Charlotte and Patricia King, hostesses, at their home, March 13.

Mrs. Mabel Schaub and Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman gave the year's report of the auditing committee. Mrs. James Michael gave the sunshine report. Revisions were made to the by-laws and accepted by the group. Copies are to be printed before the March meeting. In conclusion, the group sang, "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party."

A demonstration on mosaic table tiles was given by Robert Schubert, after which he conducted a question period. A contest was held and the prize was won by Mrs. Oka Twigg.

Others present were Mrs. Leatha Burchard, Miss Dorothy Northcraft, Mrs. Hatta Connor, Mrs. Dorothy Norris, Mrs. Barbara Garland, Mrs. Virginia Clark, Mrs. Margaret Crowe, Mrs. Sara Rice, and four guests, Mrs. Ronald Rice, Mrs. Glen Northcraft, Mrs. Robert Cutshall and Miss Margaret Connor. The celebration will be held at the March 10 meeting, which will be at the home of Mrs. John Raines, Baltimore Pike at 7:30, and the 4-H Club is to give a demonstration.

Mrs. Edgar Rephan presided and led the group in the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Roy Smith read a poem, "Crossing the Bar" in memory of Miss Maude A. Bean, former home demonstration agent here, who died in Nebraska February 3. The hostess gave a spiritual reading in keeping with Lent. Mrs. Robert Alstetter gave the history of the hymn of the month, which was sung by the group.

Two short stories honoring Abraham Lincoln were read by Mrs. Marshal Deremer. Roll call was answered with favorite Valentine greetings. Do's and don'ts for TV viewing and food bulletins were distributed by Mrs. Lola Hebner. Mrs. Smith gave a clothing demonstration and distributed pamphlets on buying undergarments. After singing "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party," refreshments were served.

Girls 4-H Club Awards Projects Seals

Seals for projects completed were distributed and plans were formulated to visit various Homemaker clubs again this year, at a meeting of the Cumberland 4-H Girls Club, held at the home of Charlotte King, Louisiana Avenue.

Four seals were awarded to Patricia King for completion of projects in "Guides To Smart Sewing;" making a suit; "My Frozen Food Record," and "Let's Cook a Hearty Luncheon." Charlotte King received three seals for better storage of clothing, "Let's Cook a Hearty Luncheon," and guides to smart sewing. One seal each was awarded to Pauline Miltenberger for her home electric project; Patricia Campbell, use of a pattern; Jean Miltenberger and Joan Miltenberger, "Let's Cook Breakfast."

Club members will give demonstrations at the meeting of the Maple side Homemakers Club, March 19; the North Cumberland Homemakers, April 23 and the Valley Road Homemakers, April 1.

Charlotte King presided at the meeting at which roll call was answered by giving Valentine greetings. The constitution of the 4-H Girls Trail was read and approved. Miss Nancy Marsteller, assistant home demonstration agent, gave hints of what judges look for in a perfect garment. Skirts and aprons which members made and brought to the meeting were judged. Miss Marsteller also announced that the Trail is placing a display in the gas company window during 4-H Club Week February 28-March 7.

A demonstration on the proper method of washing a sweater was given by Mary Kimberlin. Concluding the meeting refreshments were served by Mary Kimberlin and Janet Powell. Ten members attended. Pauline Miltenberger was selected to give a demonstration at the next meeting and Charlotte and Patricia King, hostesses, at their home, March 13.

Club Has Lenten Program

"Lent" was the topic of the devotions at the meeting of the Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club, held earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. R. L. Schubert, Baltimore Pike. It was led by Mrs. Harry Wilson and each member discussed her idea of Lent, and what it meant to her in her church. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Howard Perrin.

The history of the opening hymn, "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past," was given by Mrs. Perrin and sung by the group. Roll call was answered with Valentine greetings. Mrs. Mabel Schaub and Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman gave the year's report of the auditing committee. Mrs. James Michael gave the sunshine report. Revisions were made to the by-laws and accepted by the group. Copies are to be printed before the March meeting. In conclusion, the group sang, "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party."

A demonstration on mosaic table tiles was given by Robert Schubert, after which he conducted a question period. A contest was held and the prize was won by Mrs. Oka Twigg.

Others present were Mrs. Leatha Burchard, Miss Dorothy Northcraft, Mrs. Hatta Connor, Mrs. Dorothy Norris, Mrs. Barbara Garland, Mrs. Virginia Clark, Mrs. Margaret Crowe, Mrs. Sara Rice, and four guests, Mrs. Ronald Rice, Mrs. Glen Northcraft, Mrs. Robert Cutshall and Miss Margaret Connor. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Schaub with Mrs. Sue Twigg cohostess.

16th Anniversary Plans Are Made

Pleasant Valley Homemakers discussed the 16th anniversary celebration of the club at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Charles Smith, Pleasant Valley Road. The celebration will be held at the March 10 meeting, which will be at the home of Mrs. John Raines, Baltimore Pike at 7:30, and the 4-H Club is to give a demonstration.

Mrs. Edgar Rephan presided and led the group in the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Roy Smith read a poem, "Crossing the Bar" in memory of Miss Maude A. Bean, former home demonstration agent here, who died in Nebraska February 3. The hostess gave a spiritual reading in keeping with Lent. Mrs. Robert Alstetter gave the history of the hymn of the month, which was sung by the group.

Two short stories honoring Abraham Lincoln were read by Mrs. Marshal Deremer. Roll call was answered with favorite Valentine greetings. Do's and don'ts for TV viewing and food bulletins were distributed by Mrs. Lola Hebner. Mrs. Smith gave a clothing demonstration and distributed pamphlets on buying undergarments. After singing "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party," refreshments were served.

Alpha Alpha Chapter, BSP Plans Four Activities

Plans for a social, demonstration and the regular business meeting were discussed by members of Alpha Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lucy Balsey, Valley Street.

The group will attend a demonstration on meal preparation at the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company on March 5 at 8 o'clock.

A hoagie party is to be held March 14 at the home of Mrs. Betty Barnes, Frederick Street. The committee named in charge of arrangements is composed of Mrs. Imogene Hixson, Mrs. Jane O'Rourke and Mrs. Eleanor DeVore. The next meeting will be March 3 at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Cooley, Holland Street. Plans also were formulated for a rummage sale the first part of April.

Preceding the meeting the group visited the Louis Young Antique shop for its cultural program. Mr. Young explained how to determine antiques and their value.

Others attending were Mrs. Katherine Samson, Miss Janet Stegmaier, Miss Ann Riggleman, Miss Kathleen Helker, Miss Betty Stegmaier, Mrs. Cooley, Mrs. O'Rourke, Mrs. Betty Imes, Mrs. Betty Fry, Mrs. Virginia Plummer, Mrs. Eleanor Devore, Mrs. Elaine Deal, Mrs. Jean Fradiska, Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Virginia Topper.

Mrs. Elrose Phillips, Carpenter's Addition, Ridgeley, has returned home after undergoing surgery in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Mrs. Robert Long, Narrows Park, is a medical patient in Memorial Hospital.

Pasternak Quoted As Saying He Won't Retract Word Of 'Dr. Zhivago'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Russian author Boris Pasternak was quoted Wednesday as saying that he would not retract a single word of his best-selling novel, "Dr. Zhivago" and that he was "grateful in my heart that the world is reading it."

Scripps - Howard correspondent Henry N. Taylor said in an exclusive interview with the Nobel Prize-winning author at Peredelkino, Russia, that Pasternak told him, "in every generation there has to be some fool who will speak the truth as he sees it."

"I do not retract a word of 'Dr. Zhivago,'" Taylor quoted the author as saying.

Taylor said in the uncensored interview, which was printed in the New York World - Telegram and Sun, that Pasternak told him he understood why the novel was not published in Russia and said he did not expect it to be.

"There would be too much misunderstanding now," Pasternak said.

"'Dr. Zhivago' was not a political book. But in the eyes of the Soviet state, a non-political book becomes negatively political. It is charged that the Nobel committee made a political decision. But I honestly believe they were judging the work of a man's life."

Taylor said the interview took place a few days before the most recent furore centering around the Russian author. That occurred after the London Daily Mail published a poem by Pasternak, in which he said "I am lost like a beast in an enclosure" but that he believed "the time will come when the spirit of good will conquer wickedness and infamy."

Pasternak accused Daily Mail correspondent Anthony Brown of publishing the poem without his permission. He said he gave the poem to Brown for delivery to a friend in Paris.

Taylor said Pasternak had copies of his novel in English, French, Danish, Swedish and American editions. He said there probably were fewer than 100 copies of the novel in the Soviet Union today.

The Scripps-Howard correspondent said he asked Pasternak whether he thought Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev had read the book.

"Probably not," Pasternak replied. "He's very busy."

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japan National Railway Corp., estimated Thursday that passengers sneaking rides on its trains robbed the corporation of nearly 14 million dollars annually.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Ministry officials busily lined up accommodations Thursday for an influx of foreign correspondents to cover the visit of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. More than 100 correspondents, most of them British, were expected to invade the capital for Macmillan's visit next week. Absolute uncensored freedom of communications has been promised on all coverage of Macmillan.

Teacher Introduces Woman's Club Idea To South Seas

NEW YORK (UPI) — An Irish-born, Scottish - educated teacher has been sent by American Protestant women to the South Seas to introduce a new way of life to native women through an established U.S. institution—the woman's club.

She will help underprivileged and overworked women get their start on the road to 20th Century equality by conducting sewing bees, giving handicraft lessons and delivering lectures on child care.

Basic instruction in housecleaning, sanitation and water purification also will be on the curriculum.

Many of the activities are of a sort never heard of in an American woman's club, or church circle but there will be social activities in the South Sea groups, largely to promote communication between women of scattered island villages.

To Conduct Pilot Project

The job of carrying out this program has gone to Miss Marjorie E. T. Stewart, 58, native of Belfast and veteran of many years of social work in Jamaica and Africa.

Miss Stewart will conduct a two-year pilot project, first on the romantic volcanic isle of Aitutaki, discovered by Captain Bligh in his famous mutinous "Bounty" in 1789, and then in the British Solomon Islands protectorate, which includes Guadalcanal.

She was sent to the area by the United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches, in response to urgent appeals by South Sea women for help in winning liberation from prejudice and backward way of life.

Mortality Rate High

The women are concerned over poor sanitation, a high infant mortality rate, continued spreading of tuberculosis and by the fact that they toil endlessly without receiving the recognition other members of their sex have won in other parts of the world.

As a woman's interest officer in the area, Miss Stewart will work among segments of a total population of about three million persons living at every stage of culture, from Stone Age Melanesians in New Guinea to the more advanced Polynesian islanders.

Her first assignment, on Aitutaki, will even entail teaching women about the use of money.

Aitutaki is a seven-mile square volcanic isle with a deep lagoon and a wide coral reef. Its eight villages have a total population of just under 2,500.

Have Made Start

The women there already had made a start toward the goals they hope eventually to reach through organizations dealing with housekeeping problems, diet, cooking, health, hygiene, dressmaking and other domestic skills.

But Miss Stewart also will find that the start is a very small one. She will establish central women's clubs to serve villages and districts and encourage the development of good educational systems.

The days of male supremacy in the romantic South Seas may be numbered, thanks to the United Church Women.

Operation "Noah"

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—Volunteers mapped emergency plans Thursday to rescue thousands of wild animals stranded by flood waters of the rampaging Zambezi River. Officials said dozens of small boat owners were interested in a plan to float the animals—from baboons and antelope to rabbits and snakes—out of the flooded area around Lake Kariba.

Teacher Introduces Woman's Club Idea To South Seas

NEW YORK (UPI) — An Irish-born, Scottish - educated teacher has been sent by American Protestant women to the South Seas to introduce a new way of life to native women through an established U.S. institution—the woman's club.

She will help underprivileged and overworked women get their start on the road to 20th Century equality by conducting sewing bees, giving handicraft lessons and delivering lectures on child care.

Basic instruction in housecleaning, sanitation and water purification also will be on the curriculum.

Many of the activities are of a sort never heard of in an American woman's club, or church circle but there will be social activities in the South Sea groups, largely to promote communication between women of scattered island villages.

To Conduct Pilot Project

The job of carrying out this program has gone to Miss Marjorie E. T. Stewart, 58, native of Belfast and veteran of many years of social work in Jamaica and Africa.

Miss Stewart will conduct a two-year pilot project, first on the romantic volcanic isle of Aitutaki, discovered by Captain Bligh in his famous mutinous "Bounty" in 1789, and then in the British Solomon Islands protectorate, which includes Guadalcanal.

She was sent to the area by the United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches, in response to urgent appeals by South Sea women for help in winning liberation from prejudice and backward way of life.

Mortality Rate High

The women are concerned over poor sanitation, a high infant mortality rate, continued spreading of tuberculosis and by the fact that they toil endlessly without receiving the recognition other members of their sex have won in other parts of the world.

As a woman's interest officer in the area, Miss Stewart will work among segments of a total population of about three million persons living at every stage of culture, from Stone Age Melanesians in New Guinea to the more advanced Polynesian islanders.

Her first assignment, on Aitutaki, will even entail teaching women about the use of money.

Aitutaki is a seven-mile square volcanic isle with a deep lagoon and a wide coral reef. Its eight villages have a total population of just under 2,500.

Have Made Start

The women there already had made a start toward the goals they hope eventually to reach through organizations dealing with housekeeping problems, diet, cooking, health, hygiene, dressmaking and other domestic skills.

But Miss Stewart also will find that the start is a very small one. She will establish central women's clubs to serve villages and districts and encourage the development of good educational systems.

The days of male supremacy in the romantic South Seas may be numbered, thanks to the United Church Women.

Operation "Noah"

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—Volunteers mapped emergency plans Thursday to rescue thousands of wild animals stranded by flood waters of the rampaging Zambezi River. Officials said dozens of small boat owners were interested in a plan to float the animals—from baboons and antelope to rabbits and snakes—out of the flooded area around Lake Kariba.

Business Opposes, Labor Backs More Idle Benefits

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Business representatives opposed liberalized benefits for the unemployed Thursday while labor leaders argued that proposals before the Maryland Legislature aren't generous enough.

An increase in the maximum weekly benefit from $35 to $40 and the duration of payments from 26 to 30 weeks were fought by the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce, the Maryland Council of Retail Merchants and other management interests.

W. F. Strong, president of the state AFL-CIO, announced the maximum should be $52 a week and for 39 weeks. Temporary extension to 39 weeks on account of the recession will expire April 1st.

Changes in the maximum weekly benefits and the duration were among 10 recommended to the legislature by Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the Department of Employment Security.

His other major proposals would hike the payroll base on which employers are taxed, eliminate benefits for dependent children, revise the formula on which part time workers receive benefits and revise the law disqualifying employes idle because of a labor dispute.

William S. Wilson Jr. of the Assn. of Commerce estimated that the benefit liberalizations would cost employers 5 million dollars more a year in taxes and two million more would have to be taken from a reserve to finance them.

He protested this was superimposing an increased tax since it was hiked under a bill passed earlier this session. The new tax formula will cost employers 35 million dollars a year. They had been paying 18 million.

"This would be a most inopportune and unfortunate time to overhaul the basic compensation laws," in the light of the already increased taxes and unfinished recession, said William G. Ewald of the retail merchants.

He said the Kimble recommendations might imperil the reserve fund.

$54.8 Million, New High, Paid State Jobless

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland unemployed received a record $54,856,493 in state benefits last year, the Department of Employment Security reported.

The department said this did not include nearly 7½ million dollars in federal monies paid out to Maryland jobless who had exhausted state benefits.

Executive Director Robert B. Kimble said the state benefits paid last year were over two times the 1957 total of $22,855,099. The previous high was $31,165,803 in 1954.

The department issued 1,856,456 checks to 119,637 claimants in 1958 and 28 per cent of these exhausted their benefits during the year.

Under the state program, all claimants are entitled to 26 weeks of benefits. Many of those who exhausted the state program continued to receive benefits for 13 weeks under a temporary federal program.

Kimble said the peak in checks paid was reached in April, tapering off thereafter through November. December showed a sharp rise in payments, due mainly to seasonal layoffs.

The state also sent benefit checks totaling $5,401,540 to out-of-state residents who formerly were employed in Maryland.

The director said the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund was reduced from $116,641,802 at the start of the year to $76,629,985 at the end. The fund is used to meet claims of employes in insured industry.

Baltimore Gas Rate Hike Excessive, Judge Rules

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Joseph L. Carter ruled Thursday that rate increases granted the Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. last summer were excessive.

The judge next will be asked to order refunds to customers. This could be delayed by an appeal by the company. Officials of the firm declined comment pending a study of Judge Carter's ruling.

Rates went up about 88 cents a month for the average utility customer. Gas heating customer's bill went up considerably more.

Wilfred T. McQuaid, people's counsel to the Public Service Commission, contends more than 2 million dollars collected since last August should be refunded. He said he will ask the judge to order the refund.

Not all of the rate boost would be knocked out by Judge Carter's ruling.

He said 32 million dollars worth of proposed company construction should not have been considered by the PSC in figuring the rate boost. It affected gas, electric and steam customers.

"There is little doubt that the gas company was entitled to relief," Judge Carter ruled, "but it is my opinion that the PSC exceeded its statutory authority in allowing the $32.2 million in proposed construction to be included in the rate base."

He ordered the PSC rate boost action "reversed with respect to inclusion of the. . .$32.2 million in the rate base."

Maryland law permits a "fair return" only on utility property "used and useful in rendering service to the public."

Escapees Captured

BALTIMORE (AP) — Five of seven escapees from Rosewood State Training School were captured Thursday. A sixth boy gave himself up.

The seven overpowered a guard and fled the institution near Baltimore Wednesday.

Mother Of Boy Slain By Policeman Sues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Addie Mae Tucker has filed a $150,000 damage suit in the fatal shooting of her 16-year-old son by a Capitol policeman last August.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court Wednesday, charges negligence on the part of the policeman, Pvt. Gregory M. LaCoss, and those the suit said were responsible for hiring him.

Those named beside LaCoss are Joseph C. Duke, Senate sergeant at arms; Zeake Johnson, House sergeant at arms; J. George Stewart, architect of the capitol, and the Federal government.

LaCoss later was exonerated by a coroner's jury and a grand jury.

FIVE FISHERMEN DROWNED

OPORTO, Portugal (UPI)—Five fishermen drowned Thursday when two boats capsized off the Douro River bar. Two others swam to safety. The boats were putting out to sea when a wave caught them and toppled the men into the water.

Stripper Free Under Bond In Shooting

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., (AP) —A 19-year-old striptease dancer is free under $5,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to kill Robert F. McCuddy, 22, of Charlottesville, Va.

Geneva Gerrard, also known as Jean Lewis and Honey B. Darling, was released from Prince Georges County jail after Circuit Judge John R. Fletcher reduced her bond from $10,000 to $5,000. She faces a preliminary hearing tentatively set for March 20.

McCuddy was shot and dangerously wounded as the couple sat in his parked car on a dirt road near Laurel early the morning of Feb. 10. Police said McCuddy had met her the night before at a Washington night club where she performed under the name of Honey B. Darling.

Two Cabs Driven By Friends Collide

BALTIMORE (AP) — Theodore Meade drives taxi No. 120 for a Baltimore firm. His friend, Calvert Johnson, drives No. 121 for the same firm.

They met with a resounding crash Thursday at an intersection.

Meade's cab careened into a pole and 19-year-old Joyce Woten was thrown out. Three other women in the cab also were treated at Provident Hospital.

Meade, also treated at a hospital, was charged with failure to obey a traffic signal.

Frederick Contractor Succumbs

BALTIMORE (AP) — T. Edgie Russell, Frederick contractor whose firm specialized in highway construction, died today of brain cancer in a Baltimore hospital. He was 67.

Funeral services were incomplete.

After attending Crisfield High School and Baltimore City College, he graduated from the Maryland Agricultural College.

After serving nine years as an engineer with the State Roads Commission, he entered the contracting business with Harry E. Baster of Hagerstown and H. E. Gosnell of Frederick under the firm name of Best, Gosnell and Russell, with offices in Frederick.

In 1926 he withdrew from the firm to go into business for himself. He built roads, airports and similar projects.

In 1931 he formed a partnership with R. H. Richardson of Bel Air under the firm name of T. Edgie Russell Co. The firm operated until 1941 when the partnership was dissolved, and a new company organized with his three sons under the present name of his firm, T. Edgie Russell, General Contractor.

The new concern expanded its operations to include heavy excavation, paving and bridges as well as roads and airports.

One son, Dr. T. Edgie Russell Jr. of Baltimore withdrew from the firm to give full time to medical practice. The other two sons, Robert and Donald, continue actively in the business.

He was a president of the Maryland Highway Contractors Assn. for two terms.

Steel produced by the bessemer process began replacing iron rails after the Civil war.

Stripper Free Under Bond In Shooting

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., (AP)—A 19-year-old striptease dancer is free under $5,000 bond on a charge of assault with intent to kill Robert F. McCuddy, 22, of Charlottesville, Va.

Geneva Gerrard, also known as Jean Lewis and Honey B. Darling, was released from Prince Georges County jail after Circuit Judge John R. Fletcher reduced her bond from $10,000 to $5,000. She faces a preliminary hearing tentatively set for March 20.

McCuddy was shot and dangerously wounded as the couple sat in his parked car on a dirt road near Laurel early the morning of Feb. 10. Police said McCuddy had met her the night before at a Washington night club where she performed under the name of Honey B. Darling.

Frederick Contractor Succumbs

BALTIMORE (AP) — T. Edgie Russell, Frederick contractor whose firm specialized in highway construction, died today of brain cancer in a Baltimore hospital. He was 67.

Funeral services were incomplete.

After attending Crisfield High School and Baltimore City College, he graduated from the Maryland Agricultural College.

After serving nine years as an engineer with the State Roads Commission, he entered the contracting business with Harry E. Baster of Hagerstown and H. E. Gosnell of Frederick under the firm name of Best, Gosnell and Russell, with offices in Frederick.

In 1926 he withdrew from the firm to go into business for himself. He built roads, airports and similar projects.

In 1931 he formed a partnership with R. H. Richardson of Bel Air under the firm name of T. Edgie Russell Co. The firm operated until 1941 when the partnership was dissolved, and a new company organized with his three sons under the present name of his firm, T. Edgie Russell, General Contractor.

The new concern expanded its operations to include heavy excavation, paving and bridges as well as roads and airports.

One son, Dr. T. Edgie Russell Jr. of Baltimore withdrew from the firm to give full time to medical practice. The other two sons, Robert and Donald, continue actively in the business.

He was a president of the Maryland Highway Contractors Assn. for two terms.

85 Register To Take Machine Course

Allegany County Board of Education officials were amazed yesterday at the registration for the machine shop course for unemployed adults of this area.

Eighty-five men signed up for the instruction Wednesday and Tuesday at the Allegany Trades School, according to J. D. Lonnholm, director of vocational education for the board.

Lonnholm said that due to the facilities available at the trade school only 24 can be handled at one time.

The Cumberland office of the State Department of Employment Security will cooperate with Board of Education officials in selecting the first class.

Those not taken in at this time will have their applications kept on file. These will be given preferred treatment when the next one is started, Lonnholm pointed out.

Instruction will be conducted for the purpose of enabling technologically displaced adult persons from local industries obtain training in a new field and become eligible for employment.

Instruction will be given in the operation of metal lathes, drill presses, shapers, grinding machines, metal cutting saws and milling machines. Also related trade instruction in blueprint reading and shop mathematics will be given.

The training program has been approved by the State Department of Education and will run for six months. It is to get underway on March 1 or 2, Lonnholm said.

Instructor will be Wallace M. Walker.

Lonnholm said the applicants were from 18 to 50 years of age, and represented a wide range of educational background.

GI SENTENCED

TOKYO (UPI) — Airman 1-C Don Anderson of Fort Walton, Fla., was sentenced to four years in prison on a conviction of assaulting his 19-year-old Japanese maid.

A Japanese court at Aomiri rejected the 27-year-old airman's plea he was suffering from a mental disorder when the assault occurred. His wife was in the hospital at the time.

City, County To Discuss Maintenance Of Road

Maintenance of the road to the city dump will be one of the problems which will be discussed at the next meeting of city officials with members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday.

The road was termed in deplorable condition by the mayor, who said he felt some assistance is due from the county since the road is not only used by city vehicles, but also by contractors and residents of the county traveling to the dump.

A formal request that the road be included in the county system was made by the Mayor and Council to the former county commissioners. The request was made on the basis that the county would then be paid gasoline tax revenues which would be used for maintaining the road.

The request was turned down on the recommendation of Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, who explained that the road did not meet required specifications for inclusion in the county system. Skelly also pointed out that a hard-surface road such as the city recommended would cost approximately $45,000.

The roads supervisor said he considered the cost prohibitive in view of the revenue which would be available from the State Roads Commission and in face of the fact that the city spokesmen indicated the impending need of a new site for a city dump.

Skelly said he would be in favor of a written agreement whereby the county would assist in maintaining the road, with the county's obligation spelled out.

GI SENTENCED

TOKYO (UPI) — Airman 1-C Don Anderson of Fort Walton, Fla., was sentenced to four years in prison on a conviction of assaulting his 19-year-old Japanese maid.

A Japanese court at Aomiri rejected the 27-year-old airman's plea he was suffering from a mental disorder when the assault occurred. His wife was in the hospital at the time.

City, County To Discuss Maintenance Of Road

Maintenance of the road to the city dump will be one of the problems which will be discussed at the next meeting of city officials with members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday.

The road was termed in deplorable condition by the mayor, who said he felt some assistance is due from the county since the road is not only used by city vehicles, but also by contractors and residents of the county traveling to the dump.

A formal request that the road be included in the county system was made by the Mayor and Council to the former county commissioners. The request was made on the basis that the county would then be paid gasoline tax revenues which would be used for maintaining the road.

The request was turned down on the recommendation of Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, who explained that the road did not meet required specifications for inclusion in the county system. Skelly also pointed out that a hard-surface road such as the city recommended would cost approximately $45,000.

The roads supervisor said he considered the cost prohibitive in view of the revenue which would be available from the State Roads Commission and in face of the fact that the city spokesmen indicated the impending need of a new site for a city dump.

Skelly said he would be in favor of a written agreement whereby the county would assist in maintaining the road, with the county's obligation spelled out.

The human body contains enough phosphorous to make 2,200 matches.

Murder Case Trial Is Set

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) —A trial date of March 10 was set Wednesday for Charles Andrew Gregory, 21, accused of murdering and hacking up the body of Otis Poole, 40, of Berkeley Springs.

Gregory, who lives near Martinsburg, pleaded innocent at his arraignment today Wednesday in Berkeley County Circuit Court.

After Gregory said he had no funds for a lawyer, Judge D. H. Rodgers appointed Morgan V. Martin as defense counsel.

Gregory was indicted for murder Tuesday by the county grand jury.

State Police have said they have a statement from Gregory saying he killed Poole last July after an argument, hacked the body to pieces and buried it in three graves on the farm of his mother near Martinsburg.

Policesaid Gregory led them to the remains last Dec. 23.

3 Farmers Apply For FHA Loans

Applications of three farmers who are seeking Farmers Home Administration loans for improvement work around the farm were reviewed here this week at the office of Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent.

B. Beeson Snyder, FHA supervisor of Allegany and Garrett counties, met with the county committee to consider the applications.

The committee will meet again at 10 a. m. March 3, at which time applications will be reviewed and inspection tours will be made in the county.

Mr. Snyder pointed out that the committee must certify in writing that an applicant is eligible for a loan. Loans may be used to construct, improve, alter, replace or repair farm homes or farm service buildings or provide water for farmstead and household use.

Committee members are Floyd Buser, Oldtown; Wilbur Perrin, Flintstone, and Harry Delbrook, Mt. Savage.

The roll top desk was invented about 1850 by Abner Cutler.

PTA Plans Nomination

John Kreidler, past president of the Parent-Teachers Association of SS. Peter and Paul School, has been named chairman of a committee which will nominate new officers.

The committee will report at the March meeting of the association and the annual election will be held the following month with an installation slated for May.

During a recent meeting, the members were shown a movie on cancer entitled "The Other City." Mrs. Anthony Cioni, secretary of the Allegany Chapter of the Cancer Society, introduced Dr. Carlton Brinsfield, who conducted a question and answer period.

The meeting was in charge of Herman Grabenstein, vice president. Opening prayer was by Rev. Marius Elsener, OFM, Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul parish.

Mrs. Edward Finan read the minutes of the past meeting and a financial report was given by James Robinette. There were two committee reports.

Mrs. George Miller reported on the PTA dinner, and Edward Rider reported on the PTA dance. Father Marius said the closing prayer of the meeting.

Parsons Renamed Head Of Trainmen Brotherhood

Van H. Parsons, 427 Cumberland Street, has been re-elected to his third four-year term as general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen members on the Western Maryland Railway.

His jurisdiction as chief bargaining agent on wages and working conditions covers 600 conductors, trainmen, yardmen and switch tenders in four lodges in Baltimore, Cumberland, Hagerstown and Elkins.

His election through a referendum was confirmed this week by international brotherhood headquarters in Cleveland.

He won over four other candidates from Baltimore, Hagerstown and Cumberland.

Parsons, in addition to his BRT duties, is a conductor on the Cumberland to Connelsville run of the railroad.

Parsons and his wife, the former Anna Catherine Geatz, have three children, Van Parsons, a student at University of Miami; Cindy, a student at Ursuline Academy, and Steven, a pupil at SS. Peter and Paul School.

Parsons is a native of Tucker County and was an outstanding athlete at Parsons High School.

British Cut Army

LONDON (UPI) — Britain announced Thursday it would reduce its army from 312,000 men to 252,000 during the coming year. A government white paper and a report by War Minister Christopher Soames said the estimated cost of the "atomic age" army for 1959-60 would be $1,207,780,280, or $140,000 less than for 1958-59. Soames said the army was being re-equipped on the basis of mobility and maximum striking power, to be able to meet any demands on it anywhere in the world.

KILLS SUPERIOR OFFICER

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — The Republic of Korea Defense Ministry announced Thursday that Battalion Commander Lt. Col. Chung Koo Hyun shot and killed Brig. Gen. Suh Chung Chul during an inspection.

The subordinate officer fired seven times at point-blank range when Suh struck him with a swagger stick for his "haughty attitude" during the inspection, the announcement said.

Jungle comes from a Hindu word meaning waste land. In India, it is applied to great tracts of uncultivated land — usually damp — covered with trees and a dense undergrowth of shrubs, vines and grass.

Licenses Suspended

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two Weirton establishments had their retail beer licenses suspended for 30 days each by State Beer Commissioner R. D. Platt Thursday.

Platt said American Legion Post No. 10 was charged with liquor violations and selling beer after hours. Moose Club No. 683 was charged with liquor violations and exhibiting gaming devices.

Both suspensions take effect Saturday, Platt said.

Justice Of Peace Bills Get Committee Approval

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The House Judiciary Committee Thursday approved two of four bills relating to the West Virginia Justice of the Peace system.

Approved was a bill to allow Kanawha County to place its justices on salary, instead of the present statewide fee system. It would provide salaries of $3,600 to $7,200 a year depending on the size of the magisterial district.

The measure called for handling of JP court receipts and dockets by deputy circuit clerks. The committees also gave its approval to a bill to require all JPs to collect fees in advance before starting civil proceedings.

Tabled were two bills to require that any future JP candidate be a high school graduate and a resident for two previous years of the magisterial district where he seeks office.

The committee also reported out a bill that would make the accidental killing of another person by a hunter a felony punishable by 1-to-10 years in prison.

However, it was amended to allow the judge to decide whether the case should be treated as a felony or misdemeanor.

In other action, the committee pigeon-holed bills to free cities of 50,000 and over from public service commission regulation of municipally-operated utility services, and to make the telephoning of a fake bomb threat a felony punishable by 1-to-10 years in prison.

WALKER CHOSEN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The appointment of Charles M. Walker as Kanawha County prosecuting attorney succeeding the late J. Blackburn Watts was announced Thursday. Walker, who had been Watts' assistant since 1953, will serve until the 1960 general election.

The service said there were 2,599,000 chickens on hand last month, an increase of 1 per cent over last year. Cattle decreased 1 per cent to 541,000 while the number of hogs increased 4 per cent to 110,000.

Apology Brings Withdrawal Of $75,000 Suit

PINEVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) — Three prominent Wyoming County attorneys withdrew a $75,000 damage suit Thursday when County Commissioner C. H. Bower issued a public apology for attack he made on them during the 1958 election campaign.

The suit was brought by former Judge R. D. Bailey. Prosecutor Robert R. Bailey and former prosecutor Clarence Worrell after Bower implied in a campaign document that "they had stolen all the money in the Wyoming County courthouse."

In his letter of apology, Bower said the attacks were made "in the heat of the election. . ."

"I publicly acknowledge the incorrectness of, and retract, everything in the article that reflects upon the character, integrity or professional ethics of you three gentlemen," he wrote.

The Circuit Court suit was dismissed at the request of all parties.

By Consent, Not By Force

Where it's voluntary instead of imposed, avers Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, school desegregation will work better. So his civil rights bill provides federal "conciliation service" to states and localities in "disagreements or difficulties" over the federal laws or Constitution.

For precedent, the Senate majority leader points to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. This unquestionably prevents many strikes and lockouts, by persuading management and labor to agree on disputes between them. Some state labor mediation bodies have been similarly successful.

Voluntary consent is also the weapon chiefly used by state commissions working against discrimination in employment. Yet retiring chairman Charles Abrams of the New York commission recently reported that complaints of job discrimination in the state had risen sharply. His agency may intervene only on complaint, not of its own initiative.

President Eisenhower is skeptical, he said on January 21, about the Johnson plan proving "fruitful." The Administration's own civil rights bill offers federal funds to help meet the costs of desegregating school programs.

However, would Deep South states request federal aid for school programs that they call entirely their own affair? In 1950 Southern Senators filibustered to death a House-passed bill for a federal commission against discrimination in employment (FEPC). And the Commission could have tried only to persuade, not enforce.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Formation Of Policy

The world is getting to be too complicated for any one man to know it all; nevertheless the formation of national policy must be centralized somewhere or it is bound to become chaotic. Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt, men of sure egotism, centralized national policy in themselves, reducing the State Department to an annex of the White House. In both instances, the results for the United States were unfortunate.

President Eisenhower has thus far had the good fortune of having an excellent Secretary of State and an astonishingly capable organization in the State Department—men who are not governed by personal whim but by craftsmanly objectivity as much as that is attainable in human beings. President Eisenhower has also been fortunate in that during his term in office, thus far, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has not permitted itself to forget that the foreign policy of the country and its conduct are constitutionally the function of the President.

The illness of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the elevation of Senator Fulbright to the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee may force upon the President many unforeseeable difficulties. The matter of appointing a successor to Dulles cannot be taken lightly at this moment when an ultimatum (May 27) stares at us. A Secretary of State today must be compatible to the British, French and West German governments, acceptable to the American people, cognizant of the whole gamut of relations with Soviet Russia, and capable of dealing with the ambitious gentlemen on the Hill who, so close to 1960, are psychologically disposed to permit their candidacies for President Eisenhower's job to affect their judgment.

It may be so that President Eisenhower will permit the office of Secretary of State to be unfilled while John Foster Dulles lives so that those who regard themselves as plausible successors must, out of respect, continue to serve in their present positions. The four top men in the State Department, Christian Herter, C. Douglas Dillon, Robert Murphy and Loy Henderson, are capable of doing the business of the Department if President Eisenhower will assume greater responsibility for policy-making. Also, John Foster Dulles can do considerable work from his hospital bed.

Murphy and Henderson are career men of exceptional ability. Both are familiar with the record during and since World War II. They command the respect of their colleagues, the career men whom the American people ought to regard more favorably than they do. Herter and Douglas have come into the Department from outside: Herter was Governor of Massachusetts; Dillon was a banker who became ambassador to France. Both are more able than such appointees usually are. The four ought to produce a working team of high order.

The President may like to appoint an outsider to succeed Dulles. Few men in the United States are capable of preparing themselves for the forthcoming negotiations over Germany in the short time available. It is doubtful whether such men as General Gruenther, Thomas E. Dewey or John J. McCloy could jump into such negotiations without devoting a prolonged period to reading the texts of our current commitments. It was unfortunate for Harry Truman that he was required to attend the Potsdam Conference so soon after President Roosevelt died, and that Prime Minister Attlee replaced Churchill in the midst of that Conference. It gave Stalin an enormous advantage to deal with the unavoidably inadequately informed.

Some stupid and self-serving suggestions have been made. Representative Emanuel Celler has proposed that the President appoint Adlai Stevenson and thus achieve a true bi-partisanship. This is a very serious moment in our history, one that causes thoughtful men to pause. Such levity as Celler's ceases to be fun when one realizes the full peril of the moment.

What must cause everyone to wonder is what Senator Fulbright will do. He regards himself as an expert on international relations. He does not come up for re-election in 1960 and therefore does not anticipate being eliminated from the Senate during the Eisenhower term. He is willful and favorably influenced by the British parliamentary system, under which he would be in charge of foreign affairs now. While he cannot be accused of being pro-Russian, he can be judged unrealistic on the subject. He may become as difficult to deal with at the present time as Senator Borah was in the Administration of Herbert Hoover.

Only A Russian Revolution Could End Cold War

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — What's the use of having a foreign ministers' conference about Berlin or anything else with the Soviet government, when it has deliberately told the world a lie about the murderous assault on 17 American airmen aboard an unarmed transport plane last September?

Again the Soviet government has refused to listen to a tape recording which reveals in detail the conversation of the Soviet airmen as they killed the 17 Americans. Though the Moscow government calls the tape recording a "fake," it doesn't explain why it will not permit any of its representatives in this country to listen to the tape or why it has consistently refused to let any American representative visit the scene of the crash to examine the wreckage.

The State Department has challenged the Soviet government to listen to the tape recording, and there can be only one influence from the Kremlin's refusal —that the Soviets do not wish to acknowledge the existence of such a tape because they know they cannot deny everything in it.

Thus, in an article published in a Soviet aviation journal just after the tragedy, there is a story about a so-called "practice flight" of Soviet airmen, but it is significant that some of the numbers used in identifying the planes in that episode are mentioned in the tape recording made at the time the American plane was shot down.

The Soviets think there is never going to be any further proof available and that hence they can continue to call the tape recording a "fake." But what is very much more important is that the United States government knows the tape isn't a "fake." This means that another piece of evidence has been presented in the long list of incidents in which the Soviet government has falsified the truth.

Moscow dispatches say that the Soviet government is disturbed because the United States revealed the story of the tape recording at all, and that this action supposedly aggravates the tension of the "Cold War." But tension is something produced when one side doesn't trust the other. It is removed only when both sides begin to trust one another.

Here was an opportunity really to take away some of the tension of the "Cold War" by admitting the truth. There was no good reason for concealment. To have admitted the facts might have been the start of an era of mutually satisfactory relations.

Now, however, with the United States in full possession of facts which the Soviet government denies, everyone must take with a grain of salt the statements or promises or pledges made by the Moscow regime or its ambassadors or agents abroad. There is evidently a blindness in the Kremlin to the true state of opinion throughout the world about the veracity of the official statements issued by the Soviet government.

The only possible conclusion that can be drawn is that the Communists think propaganda is a substitute for truth, and that, if a distorted statement is widely enough publicized and then repeated often enough, it will serve the purposes of an evil-minded diplomacy.

But, if any more proof were needed that the Communist propaganda is not getting by in America, it can be noted in the comments made throughout the country after the Mikoyan visit, especially since the American government revealed the truth about the cold-blooded murder of the 17 airmen, whose unarmed plane lost its course and strayed across the Turkish-Soviet border into Russia.

The American government is convinced, moreover, that false radio beacons lured the United States aircraft into Russian territory. More evidence on the fake signals being used by the Soviets is bound to be forthcoming, together with the transcripts of other conversations of Soviet airmen engaged in this tricky business.

Unfortunately, the current talk about "negotiating" a settlement of the status of West Berlin is proceeding on the assumption that the West will be dealing with a Communist government that conceivably would honor an agreement. But the massacre of the 17 American airmen is proof that the leopard hasn't changed its spots and that "negotiation" with the Kremlin isn't going to lead anywhere.

About the only thing that is certain is the continuance of the "Cold War" until such time as the people behind the Iron Curtain get tired of being enslaved and exert their united will to get rid of their despotic rulers, just as happened in 1917 when the czarist regime was overthrown. To continue to expose the duplicity and criminal nature of the Soviet government is to assure the people in the Soviet empire, including the people of the satellite countries, that the Western powers are not being taken in and are not going to be deceived in the future by the barbarians in temporary command in Moscow.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON — The world's most unusual speedometer is clicking and flashing away here in the lobby of the United States Department of Commerce at a rate that has the demographers—authorities on population — in a dither.

Every seven and a half seconds a blue light flashes denoting a birth in the U.S.; every 20 seconds a purple light indicates a death; every one and a half minutes a green light heralds arrival of an immigrant, and every 20 minutes a red light records the relatively infrequent event of an emigrant leaving the U.S.

The net result is that a dazzling white light flashes every 11 seconds to show a net increase of one in the total population, and the big speedometer-type indicator clicks forward another number.

The nation's population is approximately 178,500,000, and is mounting at a steadily increasing rate of nearly three million added persons annually. The gain since the last census in 1950 has been more than 24,500,000.

How X-Rays Are Used To Show Soft Tissues

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

X-rays pass through soft tissues but not hard structures such as bone. As a result, the skeleton casts a shadow on the film in much the same way as a tree or any other solid object casts a shadow when struck by the sun's rays.

Our pioneer roentgenologists must have been disappointed when the stomach, intestines, gall bladder, and other abdominal organs failed to show up under X-rays. They soon discovered, however, that an outline of the organ could be obtained on the film when these organs were filled with an opaque substance that casts a shadow.

In current use are 19 opaque substances in more than 60 separate forms. Some are injected and others are swallowed. Barium sulfate is the oldest and best known. It is swallowed when the stomach and small intestine are to be studied; and given as an enema to outline the large intestine and rectum. Barium fills every nook and cranny of the stomach and, by taking films from various angles, a detailed outline is obtained.

When peptic ulcer exists, for example, barium enters the crater and shows up as a filling defect in the wall. It takes time for barium to be propelled along the passageway. Roentgenologists watch the material carefully as it travels from one part of the area to another, looking for abnormalities including tumors, polyps, pockets, or narrowed or obstructed areas.

A new water-soluble preparation, Gastrografin, is more liquid than barium and is used when obstruction is suspected. It passes through narrowed openings that otherwise would be plugged with barium.

Most of the other organs are visualized with products containing iodine. They reach their destination via the blood stream and are injected hypodermically or taken orally. These agents are used to fill the gall bladder and to visualize the renal structures, including the kidneys. They are injected into blood vessels to determine whether obstruction exists, and into the spinal canal for evidence of a protruding disk.

Many infections are not severe enough to produce fever. Apparently there was no absorption of toxins and other by-products of inflammation in your case.

You must be a stoic or a cold potato if you don't know this answer. Many internal changes occur, such as churning of the stomach, increased gastric secretions, rise in blood pressure, overactivity of the kidneys, and increased pumping of adrenalin into the blood stream.

Usually he can't, unless he operates. The exception is when peritonitis develops. This complication occurs when the appendix has ruptured and the contents pour into the abdominal cavity, leading to inflammation.

Alabama Tax Case Involving High Officials Is Shrouded In Secrecy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Members of the Cabinet have been revealing highly important facts about the American defense program which European military attaches in Washington have cabled in great detail back to their own defense departments. Meanwhile, the Justice Department has lowered a strict curtain of secrecy around the Alabama tax case in which the ex-Governor of Alabama, Gordon Persons, brother of Gen. Wilton Persons who replaced Sherman Adams, is indirectly involved.

If a newspaperman asks the Justice Department regarding this tax scandal, he is greeted with the stony stares of one who is trying to pry into the atomic secrets of the USA.

The case was considered by the Treasury Department to be airtight and was recommended for criminal prosecution. But almost a year ago, on March 10, the Justice Department refused to go along with the Treasury and marked the case "closed." This means that it goes into the limbo of forgotten things and gathers dust in Justice Department files.

The Justice Department has had an interesting record during the last six years of prosecuting Democrats and not prosecuting Republicans. Since almost everyone is a Democrat in Alabama and since the ABS liquor board appointees of ex-Governor Persons are Democrats, and since some of the money involved went to pay the Alabama campaign expenses of Adlai Stevenson, it was presumed that the Justice Department would leap upon the Alabama case with gusto and glee.

Highly Embarrassing

However, just the reverse happened. Ex-Governor Persons when queried by this column stated that he did not ask his brother in the White House to intervene, though he admitted that some of the money involved had been spent on his behalf politically. Obviously, the case was embarrassing to those in high places in Washington—even though Democrats were involved. So the case has become a super-super secret.

When my assistant, Jack Anderson, approached the Justice Department, he was not permitted to talk to Joseph M. Howard, chief of the Tax Division's Criminal Section, who had signed the letter of March 10, 1958 telling the Treasury why the case could not be prosecuted. He was also refused access to Willard McBride, the hearing officer who had listened to the defense arguments of ex-Governor Persons' henchmen.

Luther Huston, efficient press relations officer, stated flatly that the case was under consideration in the department, and therefore no comment could be made.

"When was the case reopened?"

"I don't know," Huston replied. (Actually it was reopened the same week this column began publishing the facts regarding suppression of the case.)

They Can't Talk

"Will you permit me to see Howard and McBride?" Anderson asked.

"They would be happy to see you, but they can't discuss the case."

"What would be your answer if we inquired about a less embarrassing case?"

"The answer would be the same if the case involved Joe Doaks."

Anderson pointed out that when he had previously talked to Howard on the telephone, Howard had not refused to discuss the case but merely insisted that an interview be arranged through channels.

"He cannot talk about the case," Huston reiterated. "The department would not authorize him to discuss it."

"Who issued the order?"

"Charles Rice, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Tax Division."

Huston was reminded that the case had once been closed.

"What would be the rules if the case were not pending but still closed?" he was asked.

"I would have to say that while the case is there in its present status no one in the department can discuss it," Huston replied.

Huston, a former New York Times man, has done a conscientious job in the Justice Department. He was only carrying out orders.

A revolution is reported near in Haiti, to sweep out General Duvalier. Another uprising is also brewing in Panama. . . . Attorney General Rogers believes his antitrust case against General Motors may remove the big business tag from the Republican Party for the next election. (Four General Motors executives or agents have served in the Eisenhower Cabinet.) . . . Ben Regan, head of a nation-wide food service, threw a gala birthday party for Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, new Republican leader. (Regan runs the Senate restaurant—a concession arranged for him each year by Senator Dirksen.) . . . . . Ambassador "Chip" Bohlen is urging quick financial help to the Philippines to keep the country from collapsing in a sea of graft and corruption. Bohlen warns that the anti-American trend in the Philippines is certain to grow unless we do something to show the Filipinos we are not taking them for granted. . . . Dr. James Killian, the President's scientific adviser, will report to Congress that engineering students have dropped off alarmingly. Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

You hear a lot on television about agents these days. Most of it is gently disparaging. It is amusing to kid the theatrical agent — a no-talent man who gets ten per cent of the star's earnings. He is described as a leech who stands in the wings waiting for his check, a well dressed heel with a pedicure.

This is a libel. The agent — whether he is big like Music Corporation of America and William Morris — or small and independent like Maria Horch and Kenneth Littauer — is a catalyst who finds work for talent. Most of our great actors and writers would still be starving in the provinces if it were not for their agents.

I know. Once upon a time, I was a literary agent and, as I was also a writer at the time, I was the only agent who had an agent. I sold stuff to book publishers and to the magazine editors — always trying for the best price and the best terms. In all, I had 180 clients, among whom were Nevil Shute and Dashiell Hammett and Irwin Shaw and Walter Van Tilburg Clark.

Most of the time I was the buffer between the client and his ego. The men mentioned above afforded me no trouble, but there were others who made me listen to their troubles in writing, in living, in loving, in paying, in envy, in frustration.

Normally, I am a tough Mick. I do not bruise easily. But, after two years of abuse, I went back to writing. Being a cipher does not hurt a man, but being a cipher in debt does. That was my category. I wrote a 700-word outline on a book to be called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." I took it to an agent.

She is Phyllis Jackson of MCA. "I must confess," she said, "that I know very little about your writing, but, if you can do a good job on this book, it will sell and it will sell big."

"Will you represent me?" I said. She nodded. I had an agent. The book, in time, was written. It was turned down by five publishers. That made it unanimous. "They're nuts," Miss Jackson said in a ladylike way. "This is a great book."

She kept trying. Harper and Brothers bought it. The book became lucky. Lights were flickering everywhere, like hitting the jackpot in a pinball machine. It became a Book of the Month and a lot of other things.

I knew all the publishers pretty well before I met Miss Jackson. If I had been marketing the book myself, I'd have given up after three turn-downs. The story of agents — theatrical and literary — is not confined to Miss Jackson. When Martin Jurow was at the William Morris Office (long before he became a motion picture producer), I saw him sell a quarter of a million dollar movie at a $4 luncheon.

Kay Brown of MCA, a coiled spring of a woman, sold a movie to Hal Wallis over the telephone while I sat waiting to talk to her. Herbert Rosenthal and Bullets Durgom, a theatrical manager, picked a fat kid named Jackie Gleason out of the night club gutter and made him a $10,000 per performance comedian.

It is fashionable to despise the men who made you great. One of the exceptions is Jack Webb. He will not make a move without consulting Lew Wasserman, his agent. Wasserman, I guess, comes pretty close to being the ideal agent. He is the client's critical self. He views each project from your angle, but with complete detachment.

For example, it may be profitable for Jack Webb to make a guest appearance on a top television show, but Wasserman may shake his head no to the deal on the ground that any spoofing of Dragnet will hurt the product. He turns it down, and then argues with the client to convince him. This is agenting.

Are there any poor agents? Of course. There are as many poor agents, per capita, as there are lawyers or engineers. These are misfits. To be an agent one needs savvy and sympathy, an understanding of the client and his talent, and a vast knowledge of the market place.

Richard Mealand once wrote a funny book about agents. It had the best title of the year. It was called "Let Me Do The Talking." The agents read it and laughed so hard they almost swallowed their martini olives.

The next time you see a big ham onstage, rapping his agent, bear in mind that, offstage, there is a little man who found out how to slice him and sell him. . .

By Consent, Not By Force

Where it's voluntary instead of imposed, avers Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, school desegregation will work better. So his civil rights bill provides federal "conciliation service" to states and localities in "disagreements or difficulties" over the federal laws or Constitution.

For precedent, the Senate majority leader points to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. This unquestionably prevents many strikes and lockouts, by persuading management and labor to agree on disputes between them. Some state labor mediation bodies have been similarly successful.

Voluntary consent is also the weapon chiefly used by state commissions working against discrimination in employment. Yet retiring chairman Charles Abrams of the New York commission recently reported that complaints of job discrimination in the state had risen sharply. His agency may intervene only on complaint, not of its own initiative.

President Eisenhower is skeptical, he said on January 21, about the Johnson plan proving "fruitful." The Administration's own civil rights bill offers federal funds to help meet the costs of desegregating school programs.

However, would Deep South states request federal aid for school programs that they call entirely their own affair? In 1950 Southern Senators filibustered to death a House-passed bill for a federal commission against discrimination in employment (FEPC). And the Commission could have tried only to persuade, not enforce.

These Days

The Formation Of Policy

The world is getting to be too complicated for any one man to know it all; nevertheless the formation of national policy must be centralized somewhere or it is bound to become chaotic. Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt, men of sure egotism, centralized national policy in themselves, reducing the State Department to an annex of the White House. In both instances, the results for the United States were unfortunate.

President Eisenhower has thus far had the good fortune of having an excellent Secretary of State and an astonishingly capable organization in the State Department—men who are not governed by personal whim but by craftsmanly objectivity as much as that is attainable in human beings. President Eisenhower has also been fortunate in that during his term in office, thus far, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has not permitted itself to forget that the foreign policy of the country and its conduct are constitutionally the function of the President.

The illness of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the elevation of Senator Fulbright to the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee may force upon the President many unforeseeable difficulties. The matter of appointing a successor to Dulles cannot be taken lightly at this moment when an ultimatum (May 27) stares at us. A Secretary of State today must be compatible to the British, French and West German governments, acceptable to the American people, cognizant of the whole gamut of relations with Soviet Russia, and capable of dealing with the ambitious gentlemen on the Hill who, so close to 1960, are psychologically disposed to permit their candidacies for President Eisenhower's job to affect their judgment.

It may be so that President Eisenhower will permit the office of Secretary of State to be unfilled while John Foster Dulles lives so that those who regard themselves as plausible successors must, out of respect, continue to serve in their present positions. The four top men in the State Department, Christian Herter, C. Douglas Dillon, Robert Murphy and Loy Henderson, are capable of doing the business of the Department if President Eisenhower will assume greater responsibility for policy-making. Also, John Foster Dulles can do considerable work from his hospital bed.

Murphy and Henderson are career men of exceptional ability. Both are familiar with the record during and since World War II. They command the respect of their colleagues, the career men whom the American people ought to regard more favorably than they do. Herter and Douglas have come into the Department from outside: Herter was Governor of Massachusetts; Dillon was a banker who became ambassador to France. Both are more able than such appointees usually are. The four ought to produce a working team of high order.

The President may like to appoint an outsider to succeed Dulles. Few men in the United States are capable of preparing themselves for the forthcoming negotiations over Germany in the short time available. It is doubtful whether such men as General Gruenther, Thomas E. Dewey or John J. McCloy could jump into such negotiations without devoting a prolonged period to reading the texts of our current commitments. It was unfortunate for Harry Truman that he was required to attend the Potsdam Conference so soon after President Roosevelt died, and that Prime Minister Attlee replaced Churchill in the midst of that Conference. It gave Stalin an enormous advantage to deal with the unavoidably inadequately informed.

Some stupid and self-serving suggestions have been made. Representative Emanuel Celler has proposed that the President appoint Adlai Stevenson and thus achieve a true bi-partisanship. This is a very serious moment in our history, one that causes thoughtful men to pause. Such levity as Celler's ceases to be fun when one realizes the full peril of the moment.

What must cause everyone to wonder is what Senator Fulbright will do. He regards himself as an expert on international relations. He does not come up for re-election in 1960 and therefore does not anticipate being eliminated from the Senate during the Eisenhower term. He is willful and favorably influenced by the British parliamentary system, under which he would be in charge of foreign affairs now. While he cannot be accused of being pro-Russian, he can be judged unrealistic on the subject. He may become as difficult to deal with at the present time as Senator Borah was in the Administration of Herbert Hoover.

Only A Russian Revolution Could End Cold War

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — What's the use of having a foreign ministers' conference about Berlin or anything else with the Soviet government, when it has deliberately told the world a lie about the murderous assault on 17 American airmen aboard an unarmed transport plane last September?

Again the Soviet government has refused to listen to a tape recording which reveals in detail the conversation of the Soviet airmen as they killed the 17 Americans. Though the Moscow government calls the tape recording a "fake," it doesn't explain why it will not permit any of its representatives in this country to listen to the tape or why it has consistently refused to let any American representative visit the scene of the crash to examine the wreckage.

The State Department has challenged the Soviet government to listen to the tape recording, and there can be only one influence from the Kremlin's refusal —that the Soviets do not wish to acknowledge the existence of such a tape because they know they cannot deny everything in it.

Thus, in an article published in a Soviet aviation journal just after the tragedy, there is a story about a so-called "practice flight" of Soviet airmen, but it is significant that some of the numbers used in identifying the planes in that episode are mentioned in the tape recording made at the time the American plane was shot down.

The Soviets think there is never going to be any further proof available and that hence they can continue to call the tape recording a "fake." But what is very much more important is that the United States government knows the tape isn't a "fake." This means that another piece of evidence has been presented in the long list of incidents in which the Soviet government has falsified the truth.

Moscow dispatches say that the Soviet government is disturbed because the United States revealed the story of the tape recording at all, and that this action supposedly aggravates the tension of the "Cold War." But tension is something produced when one side doesn't trust the other. It is removed only when both sides begin to trust one another.

Here was an opportunity really to take away some of the tension of the "Cold War" by admitting the truth. There was no good reason for concealment. To have admitted the facts might have been the start of an era of mutually satisfactory relations.

Now, however, with the United States in full possession of facts which the Soviet government denies, everyone must take with a grain of salt the statements or promises or pledges made by the Moscow regime or its ambassadors or agents abroad. There is evidently a blindness in the Kremlin to the true state of opinion throughout the world about the veracity of the official statements issued by the Soviet government.

The only possible conclusion that can be drawn is that the Communists think propaganda is a substitute for truth, and that, if a distorted statement is widely enough publicized and then repeated often enough, it will serve the purposes of an evil-minded diplomacy.

But, if any more proof were needed that the Communist propaganda is not getting by in America, it can be noted in the comments made throughout the country after the Mikoyan visit, especially since the American government revealed the truth about the cold-blooded murder of the 17 airmen, whose unarmed plane lost its course and strayed across the Turkish-Soviet border into Russia.

The American government is convinced, moreover, that false radio beacons lured the United States aircraft into Russian territory. More evidence on the fake signals being used by the Soviets is bound to be forthcoming, together with the transcripts of other conversations of Soviet airmen engaged in this tricky business.

Unfortunately, the current talk about "negotiating" a settlement of the status of West Berlin is proceeding on the assumption that the West will be dealing with a Communist government that conceivably would honor an agreement. But the massacre of the 17 American airmen is proof that the leopard hasn't changed its spots and that "negotiation" with the Kremlin isn't going to lead anywhere.

About the only thing that is certain is the continuance of the "Cold War" until such time as the people behind the Iron Curtain get tired of being enslaved and exert their united will to get rid of their despotic rulers, just as happened in 1917 when the czarist regime was overthrown. To continue to expose the duplicity and criminal nature of the Soviet government is to assure the people in the Soviet empire, including the people of the satellite countries, that the Western powers are not being taken in and are not going to be deceived in the future by the barbarians in temporary command in Moscow.

When my assistant, Jack Anderson, approached the Justice Department, he was not permitted to talk to Joseph M. Howard, chief of the Tax Division's Criminal Section, who had signed the letter of March 10, 1958 telling the Treasury why the case could not be prosecuted. He was also refused access to Willard McBride, the hearing officer who had listened to the defense arguments of ex-Governor Persons' henchmen.

Luther Huston, efficient press relations officer, stated flatly that the case was under consideration in the department, and therefore no comment could be made.

"When was the case reopened?"

"I don't know," Huston replied. (Actually it was reopened the same week this column began publishing the facts regarding suppression of the case.)

They Can't Talk

"Will you permit me to see Howard and McBride?" Anderson asked.

"They would be happy to see you, but they can't discuss the case."

"What would be your answer if we inquired about a less embarrassing case?"

"The answer would be the same if the case involved Joe Doaks."

Anderson pointed out that when he had previously talked to Howard on the telephone, Howard had not refused to discuss the case but merely insisted that an interview be arranged through channels.

"He cannot talk about the case," Huston reiterated. "The department would not authorize him to discuss it."

"Who issued the order?"

"Charles Rice, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Tax Division."

Huston was reminded that the case had once been closed.

"What would be the rules if the case were not pending but still closed," he was asked.

"I would have to say that while the case is there in its present status no one in the department can discuss it," Huston replied.

Huston, a former New York Times man, has done a conscientious job in the Justice Department. He was only carrying out orders.

Personal And Confidential

A break in the mysterious kidnapping of Professor Galindez is expected soon. The professor disappeared from a Columbia University class three years ago and has never been heard of since. He is supposed to have been kidnapped by agents of dictator Trujillo. The FBI has now discovered the typewriter on which certain incriminating messages were written. . . . A revolution is reported near in Haiti, to sweep out General Duvalier. Another uprising is also brewing in Panama. . . . Attorney General Rogers believes his antitrust case against General Motors may remove the big business tag from the Republican Party for the next election. (Four General Motors executives or agents have served in the Eisenhower Cabinet.) . . . Ben Regan, head of a nation-wide food service, threw a gala birthday party for Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, new Republican leader. (Regan runs the Senate restaurant—a concession arranged for him each year by Senator Dirksen.) . . . . . Ambassador "Chip" Bohlen is urging quick financial help to the Philippines to keep the country from collapsing in a sea of graft and corruption. Bohlen warns that the anti-American trend in the Philippines is certain to grow unless we do something to show the Filipinos we are not taking them for granted. . . . Dr. James Killian, the President's scientific adviser, will report to Congress that engineering students have dropped off alarmingly. Despite the government's urging that we catch up with Russia, the nation's colleges have reported almost 8 per cent fewer engineering students enrolled this year than last.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

You hear a lot on television about agents these days. Most of it is gently disparaging. It is amusing to kid the theatrical agent — a no-talent man who gets ten per cent of the star's earnings. He is described as a leech who stands in the wings waiting for his check, a well dressed heel with a pedicure.

This is a libel. The agent — whether he is big like Music Corporation of America and William Morris — or small and independent like Maria Horch and Kenneth Littauer — is a catalyst who finds work for talent. Most of our great actors and writers would still be starving in the provinces if it were not for their agents.

I know. Once upon a time, I was a literary agent and, as I was also a writer at the time, I was the only agent who had an agent. I sold stuff to book publishers and to the magazine editors — always trying for the best price and the best terms. In all, I had 180 clients, among whom were Nevil Shute and Dashiell Hammett and Irwin Shaw and Walter Van Tilburg Clark.

Most of the time I was the buffer between the client and his ego. The men mentioned above afforded me no trouble, but there were others who made me listen to their troubles in writing, in living, in loving, in paying, in envy, in frustration.

Normally, I am a tough Mick. I do not bruise easily. But, after two years of abuse, I went back to writing. Being a cipher does not hurt a man, but being a cipher in debt does. That was my category. I wrote a 700-word outline on a book to be called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." I took it to an agent.

She is Phyllis Jackson of MCA. "I must confess," she said, "that I know very little about your writing, but, if you can do a good job on this book, it will sell and it will sell big."

"Will you represent me?" I said. She nodded. I had an agent. The book, in time, was written. It was turned down by five publishers. That made it unanimous. "They're nuts," Miss Jackson said in a ladylike way. "This is a great book."

She kept trying. Harper and Brothers bought it. The book became lucky. Lights were flickering everywhere, like hitting the jackpot in a pinball machine. It became a Book of the Month and a lot of other things.

I knew all the publishers pretty well before I met Miss Jackson. If I had been marketing the book myself, I'd have given up after three turn-downs. The story of agents — theatrical and literary — is not confined to Miss Jackson. When Martin Jurow was at the William Morris Office (long before he became a motion picture producer), I saw him sell a quarter of a million dollar movie at a $4 luncheon.

Kay Brown of MCA, a coiled spring of a woman, sold a movie to Hal Wallis over the telephone while I sat waiting to talk to her. Herbert Rosenthal and Bullets Durgom, a theatrical manager, picked a fat kid named Jackie Gleason out of the night club gutter and made him a $10,000 per performance comedian.

It is fashionable to despise the men who made you great. One of the exceptions is Jack Webb. He will not make a move without consulting Lew Wasserman, his agent. Wasserman, I guess, comes pretty close to being the ideal agent. He is the client's critical self. He views each project from your angle, but with complete detachment.

For example, it may be profitable for Jack Webb to make a guest appearance on a top television show, but Wasserman may shake his head no to the deal on the ground that any spoofing of Dragnet will hurt the product. He turns it down, and then argues with the client to convince him. This is agenting.

Are there any poor agents? Of course. There are as many poor agents, per capita, as there are lawyers or engineers. These are misfits. To be an agent one needs savvy and sympathy, an understanding of the client and his talent, and a vast knowledge of the market place.

Richard Mealand once wrote a funny book about agents. It had the best title of the year. It was called "Let Me Do The Talking." The agents read it and laughed so hard they almost swallowed their martini olives.

The next time you see a big ham onstage, rapping his agent, bear in mind that, offstage, there is a little man who found out how to slice him and sell him. . .

Some Basic Rules For Fish Cookery

Variety is one of the keys to successful meal planning. Very few people realize how many varieties of fish are available on the market. Only about seven species of fish are well known to the average consumer from coast to coast, although there are actually about 160 varieties sold in the United States. Your dealer will be glad to give helpful information on the species that are currently available and will fillet or dress them as desired.

Although the flavor, texture, appearance, and size vary according to the species, the fundamental rules for cooking most fish are few and easy to follow. For this reason, the use of basic recipes, such as frying, broiling, baking, planking, boiling, and steaming is recommended.

The principal differentiation in types of fish, as related to fish cookery, is the variation in fat content. As a rule, fat fish, such as salmon, or shad, are most desirable for baking, broiling, and planking because their fat content will keep them from becoming dry. Lean fish, such as cod and haddock, are preferred by some for boiling and steaming as their flesh is firm, and will not easily fall apart while cooking. Both fat and lean fish are suitable for frying.

There are, however, so many exceptions to these rules that actually all fish may be cooked by any of the basic methods with excellent results if allowances are made for the fat content. For example, lean fish, such as halibut, may be broiled or baked if basted frequently with melted fat; otherwise they will have a tendency to become dry.

The most important thing to remember in cooking fish is that it is too often overcooked. Just enough cooking to enable the flesh to be flaked easily from the bones will leave the fish moist and tender and bring out its delicate flavor.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — In late 1939, Senator Taft said that the Federal budget must be balanced if national bankruptcy were to be avoided, and that it could be balanced in two years. President Roosevelt's response was to this effect, "nonsense, impossible," and he offered a handsome prize if the Senator from Ohio would show him how it could be done. Senator Taft's recommendations, of course, were ignored, and the promise of a prize was forgotten.

Now, the politico-economic picture is even more confused. President Eisenhower has submitted to the Congress what purports to be a balanced budget of $77.1 billion in expected income and $77 billion in anticipated expenditures. But, the free spenders say "nonsense, impossible," and characterize this record-high peacetime budget as penny-pinching and insufficient. Already nonduplicating spending proposals introduced by this group since the start of the year would quickly raise the Federal budget to over $100 billion.

These self-styled fiscal wizards espouse an economic philosophy which is clearly reminiscent of the New-Fair Deal. They imply that the size of the budget is of no consequence as long as funds to pay the interest on the national debt can be found. The falsity of this argument is demonstrated by the fact that 10 per cent, or more than $7 billion of the estimated expenditures in the next fiscal year will cover interest on the national debt. So, it should be readily apparent that as deficits increase ($13 billion more this year), interest costs rise continually, and that a time will come when it will be more difficult to meet this heavy burden.

To continue to add to the national debt is to return to the New-Fair Deal dogma of deficit financing. Inflation then becomes more malignant. Governmental economy is ridiculed. And, with the corresponding devaluation of the dollar, savings, insurance policies, fixed incomes, pensions —the hopes and aspirations of the American people decrease in value. The alternatives are to increase taxes or reduce expenses.

If any increase in taxes is to be avoided, logic dictates that a balanced budget should have universal support. There must be a genuine desire and solid determination in equal measure on the part of the Government, the Congress and the public to achieve a balanced budget and fiscal stability. And, let no one say that a sound fiscal policy works against the more unfortunate among our people. It is the poor who will be cared for by a solvent Government. It is the poor who will suffer most when the Government is bankrupt.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — In late 1939, Senator Taft said that the Federal budget must be balanced if national bankruptcy were to be avoided, and that it could be balanced in two years. President Roosevelt's response was to this effect, "nonsense, impossible," and he offered a handsome prize if the Senator from Ohio would show him how it could be done. Senator Taft's recommendations, of course, were ignored, and the promise of a prize was forgotten.

Now, the politico-economic picture is even more confused. President Eisenhower has submitted to the Congress what purports to be a balanced budget of $77.1 billion in expected income and $77 billion in anticipated expenditures. But, the free spenders say "nonsense, impossible," and characterize this record-high peacetime budget as penny-pinching and insufficient. Already nonduplicating spending proposals introduced by this group since the start of the year would quickly raise the Federal budget to over $100 billion.

These self-styled fiscal wizards espouse an economic philosophy which is clearly reminiscent of the New-Fair Deal. They imply that the size of the budget is of no consequence as long as funds to pay the interest on the national debt can be found. The falsity of this argument is demonstrated by the fact that 10 per cent, or more than $7 billion of the estimated expenditures for the next fiscal year will cover interest on the national debt. So, it should be readily apparent that as deficits increase ($13 billion more this year), interest costs rise continually, and that a time will come when it will be more difficult to meet this heavy burden.

To continue to add to the national debt is to return to the New-Fair Deal dogma of deficit financing. Inflation then becomes more malignant. Governmental economy is ridiculed. And, with the corresponding devaluation of the dollar, savings, insurance policies, fixed incomes, pensions —the hopes and aspirations of the American people decrease in value. The alternatives are to increase taxes or reduce expenses.

If any increase in taxes is to be avoided, logic dictates that a balanced budget should have universal support. There must be a genuine desire and solid determination in equal measure on the part of the Government, the Congress and the public to achieve a balanced budget and fiscal stability. And, let no one say that a sound fiscal policy works against the more unfortunate among our people. It is the poor who will be cared for by a solvent Government. It is the poor who will suffer most when the Government is bankrupt.

Some Basic Rules For Fish Cookery

Variety is one of the keys to successful meal planning. Very few people realize how many varieties of fish are available on the market. Only about seven species of fish are well known to the average consumer from coast to coast, although there are actually about 160 varieties sold in the United States. Your dealer will be glad to give helpful information on the species that are currently available and will fillet or dress them as desired.

Although the flavor, texture, appearance, and size vary according to the species, the fundamental rules for cooking most fish are few and easy to follow. For this reason, the use of basic recipes, such as frying, broiling, baking, planking, boiling, and steaming is recommended.

The principal differentiation in types of fish, as related to fish cookery, is the variation in fat content. As a rule, fat fish, such as salmon, or shad, are most desirable for baking, broiling, and planking because their fat content will keep them from becoming dry. Lean fish, such as cod and haddock, are preferred by some for boiling and steaming as their flesh is firm, and will not easily fall apart while cooking. Both fat and lean fish are suitable for frying.

There are, however, so many exceptions to these rules that actually all fish may be cooked by any of the basic methods with excellent results if allowances are made for the fat content. For example, lean fish, such as halibut, may be broiled or baked if basted frequently with melted fat; otherwise they will have a tendency to become dry.

The most important thing to remember in cooking fish is that it is too often overcooked. Just enough cooking to enable the flesh to be flaked easily from the bones will leave the fish moist and tender and bring out its delicate flavor.

Toasted California Sardine-Cheese Sandwiches

- 1 can (15 ounces) California sardines
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 6 slices bread
- Paprika

Drain sardines. Separate into fillets. Cream butter and blend in mustard. Spread bread with mustard-butter. Place sardine fillets on bread and cover with cheese. Sprinkle with paprika. Place sandwiches on a cooky sheet, 15½x' inches. Bake in a very hot oven, 450°F., for 8 to 10 minutes or until cheese melts and bread toasts. Serves 6.

Baked Fillets In Spanish Sauce

- 2 pounds fillets, fresh or frozen
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 3 tablespoons butter or other fat, melted
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups canned tomatoes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- Dash pepper
- 1 whole bay leaf
- 1 whole clove

Thaw frozen fillets. Cut fillets into serving-size portions. Place in a single layer in a well-greased baking pan. Cook onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Blend in flour. Add tomatoes and seasonings and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove bay leaf and clove. Cover fish with the sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

Planked Fish

- 3 to 4 pounds dressed fish
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- Dash pepper
- ¼ cup butter or other fat, melted
- Seasoned mashed potatoes
- Seasoned cooked vegetables (peas, carrots, cauliflower, tomatoes, or onions)

If hardwood plank is used, oil well and place in a cold oven to heat while oven preheats. Clean, wash, and dry fish. Sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper. Brush with butter. Place fish on plank or well-greased oven glass platter. Bake in a hot oven, 400° F., for 35 to 45 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove from oven; quickly arrange border of hot mashed potatoes around fish. Place in broiler until potatoes are slightly browned, about 5 minutes. Remove; arrange two or more hot vegetables around fish. Serves 6.

Purchasing Fresh Fish

Most varieties of fish, like many other types of food products, are particularly abundant fresh during some one season of the year. Local fish dealers will gladly furnish information concerning seasonal offerings, and indicate those varieties that can be used to the best advantage, including the less familiar varieties. If it is desired to save time in preparation and cooking, fish should be purchased as fillets, steaks, or dressed.

How To Select Fresh Fish

In buying fish in the round, the following points should be observed to insure freshness:

Eyes: bright, clear, full and bulging.

Quantity To Purchase

Servings of fish are generally based on one-third to one-half pound of the edible flesh per person. When serving steaks, fillets, or sticks, allow one-third pound per person or two pounds for six people. For dressed fish allow one-half pound per person or three pounds for six people. For whole fish allow about one pound per person or five pounds for six people.

Storing Of Fresh Fish:

Fish, like many other food products, will spoil easily if not handled with care. When fish is received from the market, it should be wrapped in moisture proof paper or placed in a tightly covered dish and stored immediately in the refrigerator. Stored in this manner, the odor of fish will not penetrate other foods. If fish cannot be thoroughly refrigerated, it should be cooked at once and reheated for serving.

Chicken Livers al Jerez

Excellent for either hot hors d'oeuvres or as an entree are chicken livers prepared in the Spanish manner, especially when served with glasses of chilled Spanish sherry. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in chafing dish or skillet, brown 1 pound of chicken livers in the butter, sprinkling with ½ teaspoon salt. When livers are browned on both sides, add 1 cup seedless white grapes, fresh or canned (drained), simmer about 3 minutes. Then add ½ cup fino or amontillado sherry and simmer 3 minutes longer. Makes about 20 hors d'oeuvres servings or 4 entree servings. As an entree, serve in a ring of rice.

Smoked Fish Kedgeree

2 cups flaked smoked fish
2 cups cooked rice
4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
⅓ cup butter or margarine
½ cup milk
Dash pepper
Salt, to taste

Flake the fish. Combine rice, eggs, butter, milk, pepper and fish in top of double boiler, heat over hot water. Add salt to taste. Serves 6.

Tuna-Stuffed Baked Potatoes

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna
6 medium baking potatoes
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
1½ tablespoons grated onion
½ cup chopped parsley
¾ to 1 cup hot milk
¾ cup grated cheese

Drain tuna. Flake. Bake potatoes in a hot oven, 425°F., for 45 to 60 minutes or until soft. Cut a slice off the top of each potato; scoop out insides. Mash potatoes. Add butter, seasonings, and hot milk; blend well. Mix in tuna. Stuff shells with the tuna-potato mixture. Sprinkle cheese over the top of each potato. Bake in a hot oven, 400°F., for 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Low Calorie Refreshment

If you wish to offer refreshments to guests who drop in after dinner, give them a calorie break and keep the offering light. In Spain fruit is often served with glasses of sherry, a refreshing and welcome combination at any time of the day. Make it a bowl of mixed fruit, easy to eat with fingers (such as grapes, tangerines, plums or apples), and for the sherry serve what the Spanish call an oloroso type, or what in this country is more commonly called cream sherry.

Time For Tapas

Every country seems to have its own favorite "nibble food" to serve with drinks. In Spain the hors d'oeuvres served at cafe tables with the inevitable glasses of Spanish sherry are called "tapas." Usually the tapas include green olives, salted almonds, bowls of shrimp with a mayonnaise dip and a kind of tuna salad. To make a Spanish tuna tapas, drain a can of tuna fish, rinse it well with water, then marinate in ½ cup of very dry Spanish sherry with sliced onion and minced parsley. Serve on crackers or black bread, sprinkled with a little lemon juice.

We've cooked this combination in the oven for ease of planning. It's a complete dish, with a wealth of nutritive value and pretty wonderful eating! Especially wonderful in front of a roaring fire.

Serve crisp toasted French bread slices as a go-with. For dessert, fresh winter fruit and cookies, with lots of coffee.

Sauerkraut-Beans-And-Franks Bake

2 cans (1 pound each) pork and beans with tomato sauce
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut, drained
1 pound frankfurters, slashed diagonally
Ketchup (about ½ cup)

Spread beans evenly in a shallow baking dish (about 12 x 8 x 2"). Arrange sauerkraut in a layer over beans; top with frankfurters. Spread frankfurters generously with ketchup. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) for 25 minutes or until beans are bubbling and frankfurters are lightly browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

If you and your family rate canned condensed chicken noodle soup as one of your three favorite canned soups . . . you're "in the lead section" of the soup parade in the U.S.A. It's interesting to note that studies reveal that chicken noodle soup is a family favorite, and ranks particularly high with kids. Kids ask for, and eat this kind, with relish. Facts? On the basis of all times that soup was served, in a two week analysis period, 15% was chicken noodle. Of the people eating (young and old) 44% were kids, 12 years old or under.

Now there is a new improved formula. You who like canned condensed chicken noodle soup, will go for it even more! Those who are not in the lead section of the parade, will join in and go for it in a big way. The improved formula is richer, heartier, and even has more chicken flavor!

Serve this soup plain, according to directions on the can label, or vary your menu planning with this recipe. Be sure to include a large selection of crisp crackers as a go-with during these winter months!

Mid-Winter Soup

1 can (2 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed chicken noodle soup
1 soup can water
1 tablespoon sherry, if desired
Buttered croutons

In saucepan, cook mushrooms and parsley in butter until mushrooms are lightly browned. Add soup, water, and sherry; heat. Top each serving with croutons. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Salmon Souffle

1 can (16 ounces) salmon
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash nutmeg
1 cup salmon liquid and milk
3 egg yolks, beaten
3 egg whites, beaten

Drain salmon and save liquid. Flake. Melt butter; blend in flour and seasonings. Add salmon liquid gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Stir a little of the hot sauce into egg yolk; add to remaining sauce, stirring constantly. Add salmon. Fold into egg white. Pour into a well-greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., for 45 minutes or until souffle is firm in the center. Serves 6.

Broiled Steaks

2 pounds fish steaks
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup butter or other fat, melted

Cut fish into serving-size portions. Sprinkle both sides with salt and pepper. Place on a greased broiler pan about 2 inches from source of heat, skin side up. Brush with butter and broil 5 to 8 minutes or until slightly browned. Baste with butter and turn carefully. Brush other side with butter and broil 5 to 8 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

Because everything's in them but . . . These individual ramekins contain a savory blend of vegetables, seasoning and bread crumbs. Topped with eggs and smoked skinless pork sausage links, they'd make a fine splash at the brunch table as well as the supper table.

Children Love 'Sparkle A Plenty' Chicken Salad

A birthday party luncheon is appropriate for older youngsters . . . and a fine place to practice table manners. Serve a salad . . . full of moist tender chicken and sparkling cranberry cubes: Dice 2 cans (5 ounces each) boned chicken or turkey. Toss with 1 cup diced celery, ¼ cup mayonnaise, and 1 tablespoon orange juice. Chill. At serving time, fold in 1 cup cubed jellied cranberry sauce. Serve on crisp salad greens. Makes 4 servings.

Drain tuna. Flake. Bake potatoes in a hot oven, 425°F., for 45 to 60 minutes or until soft. Cut a slice off the top of each potato; scoop out insides. Mash potatoes. Add butter, seasonings, and hot milk; blend well. Mix in tuna. Stuff shells with the tuna-potato mixture. Sprinkle cheese over the top of each potato. Bake in a hot oven, 400°F., for 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Low Calorie Refreshment

If you wish to offer refreshments to guests who drop in after dinner, give them a calorie break and keep the offering light. In Spain fruit is often served with glasses of sherry, a refreshing and welcome combination at any time of the day. Make it a bowl of mixed fruit, easy to eat with fingers (such as grapes, tangerines, plums or apples), and for the sherry serve what the Spanish call an oloroso type, or what in this country is more commonly called cream sherry.

Time For Tapas

Every country seems to have its own favorite "nibble food" to serve with drinks. In Spain the hors d'oeuvres served at cafe tables with the inevitable glasses of Spanish sherry are called "tapas." Usually the tapas include green olives, salted almonds, bowls of shrimp with a mayonnaise dip and a kind of tuna salad. To make a Spanish tuna tapas, drain a can of tuna fish, rinse it well with water, then marinate in ½ cup of very dry Spanish sherry with sliced onion and minced parsley. Serve on crackers or black bread, sprinkled with a little lemon juice.

Is the man of your house requesting menu variety with his favorite foods?

Sauerkraut-Beans-And-Franks Bake

2 cans (1 pound each) pork and beans with tomato sauce
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut, drained
1 pound frankfurters, slashed diagonally
Ketchup (about ½ cup)

Spread beans evenly in a shallow baking dish (about 12 x 8 x 2"). Arrange sauerkraut in a layer over beans; top with frankfurters. Spread frankfurters generously with ketchup. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) for 25 minutes or until beans are bubbling and frankfurters are lightly browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

If you and your family rate canned condensed chicken noodle soup as one of your three favorite canned soups . . . you're "in the lead section" of the soup parade in the U.S.A. It's interesting to note that studies reveal that chicken noodle soup is a family favorite, and ranks particularly high with kids. Kids ask for, and eat this kind, with relish. Facts? On the basis of all times that soup was served, in a two week analysis period, 15% was chicken noodle. Of the people eating (young and old) 44% were kids, 12 years old or under.

Now there is a new improved formula. You who like canned condensed chicken noodle soup, will go for it even more! Those who are not in the lead section of the parade, will join in and go for it in a big way. The improved formula is richer, heartier, and even has more chicken flavor!

Serve this soup plain, according to directions on the can label, or vary your menu planning with this recipe. Be sure to include a large selection of crisp crackers as a go-with during these winter months!

Mid-Winter Soup

1 can (2 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed chicken noodle soup
1 soup can water
1 tablespoon sherry, if desired
Buttered croutons

Salmon Souffle

1 can (16 ounces) salmon
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash nutmeg
1 cup salmon liquid and milk
3 egg yolks, beaten
3 egg whites, beaten

Drain salmon and save liquid. Flake. Melt butter; blend in flour and seasonings. Add salmon liquid gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Stir a little of the hot sauce into egg yolk; add to remaining sauce, stirring constantly. Add salmon. Fold into egg white. Pour into a well-greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350°F., for 45 minutes or until souffle is firm in the center. Serves 6.

Broiled Steaks

2 pounds fish steaks
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup butter or other fat, melted

Cut fish into serving-size portions. Sprinkle both sides with salt and pepper. Place on a greased broiler pan about 2 inches from source of heat, skin side up. Brush with butter and broil 5 to 8 minutes or until slightly browned. Baste with butter and turn carefully. Brush other side with butter and broil 5 to 8 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

Because everything's in them but . . . These individual ramekins contain a savory blend of vegetables, seasoning and bread crumbs. Topped with eggs and smoked skinless pork sausage links, they'd make a fine splash at the brunch table as well as the supper table.

Children Love 'Sparkle A Plenty' Chicken Salad

A birthday party luncheon is appropriate for older youngsters . . . and a fine place to practice table manners. Serve a salad . . . full of moist tender chicken and sparkling cranberry cubes: Dice 2 cans (5 ounces each) boned chicken or turkey. Toss with 1 cup diced celery, ¼ cup mayonnaise, and 1 tablespoon orange juice. Chill. At serving time, fold in 1 cup cubed jellied cranberry sauce. Serve on crisp salad greens. Makes 4 servings.

Baked Sole Amontillado

Frozen fillets of flounder or sole can become an elegant offering, prepared in the Spanish manner. Cut the frozen block in 3 squares, place in a casserole with ¼ cup each amontillado sherry and olive oil and ½ teaspoon salt. Top each square with mixture of crushed almonds (put through food grinder or electric blender) and fine dry crumbs; dot with butter. Bake at 350°, without previous defrosting, until fish flakes easily, about 40 minutes. During baking, baste once or twice with the Spanish sherry mixture in the bottom of the baking dish. One pound package of the fillets serves 3; to serve 6 use 2 packages of the fillets, double other ingredients. To make the meal extra special, serve glasses of the amontillado sherry with the dinner.

Lobster In Sour Cream

1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 tablespoon horseradish
½ teaspoon powdered mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 egg, beaten
Toast points

Cut lobster meat into ½-inch pieces. Combine the next 6 ingredients and heat. Stir a little of the hot sauce into egg; add to remaining sauce, stirring constantly. Add lobster meat and heat. Serve on toast points. Serves 6.

Haddock Dinners Are Perfect For Lent

From the beginning of time, fishing has been the source of much of man's food. Progressing from simple nets to modern day trawlers, it has also meant a livelihood for thousands of families. Fish has been pickled, salted, dried, canned, and frozen whole. Now in the mid-twentieth century it comes to us in a popular new form . . . a complete frozen prepared dinner.

Try a haddock dinner tonight. Flaky, tender fish in a golden cream sauce. You'll find two vegetables in the container, too. Fluffy mashed potatoes and green peas are topped with fresh creamery butter making a perfect dinner for the Lenten season. And it heats in just 25 minutes in a 425°F. oven!

A salad to accompany your haddock dinners . . . is this one for:

Crystal Vegetable Mold

1 package (3 ounces) lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
Dash salt
1 teaspoon grated onion
½ cup diced cucumber
¼ cup sliced tuffed olives

In bowl, dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water, salt, and onion. Chill until syrupy. Fold in cucumber and olives. Pour into a 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve on crisp greens. Makes 4 servings.

For meals without meat . . . during Lent . . . choose frozen prepared haddock dinners often. Here you'll find fish at its best . . . flaky, tender, and of course, completely free from bones. Part of the dinners . . . a snowy white mound of potatoes and plump green peas . . . ideal companions to the fish.

New Cocktail From Spain

Americans visiting Spain have discovered a new cocktail, made with the driest type of Spanish sherry, which the Spanish call "fino," and vodka, in proportions of three or four parts vodka to one part fino sherry. It's the same type of drink as a martini but smoother and drier. Its name: a "Matador": one drink and you'll feel like fighting the brave bulls.

Eggs Are Easy To Cook

Basic egg cookery is something a youngster can master, it is so easy and uncomplicated. For the experienced cook, this means that eggs can be appetizingly prepared in minutes, in a variety of ways from soft-cooked to shirred. Eggs are ideally combined with sauces, salad ingredients, poultry and other seafood and meat foods that satisfy eager appetites without stretching the food budget . . . because eggs are economical, too!

It's Oyster Vegetable Chowder Tonight

You don't have to live near the shore nor do you have to spend half the day making a good chowder for Saturday night's supper. Try this one made with frozen oyster stew: In saucepan, cook 2 slices (halved) bacon until crisp; remove and drain. Pour off all but about 1 tablespoon drippings. Add ¼ cup chopped onion and ¼ cup chopped celery leaves; cook until just tender. Add 1 can (2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained, 1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew, and 1 soup can milk. Heat; stir now and then. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Garnish with crumbled bacon. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

People "Like Eggs"

In many consumer egg studies, it was found that people frequently purchased and used eggs "because we like them." This points up the wide acceptance of an egg's flavor, its versatility and ease of cooking. The egg, a breakfast "mainstay," is also widely used as a hearty luncheon dish, for sandwich fillings, and in combination with other foods for satisfying dinners.

From the Far East comes Egg Foo Yung, given zip by the addition of shredded cervelat. This kind of meal, besides being rich in protein, is a grand way to break the family in gradually to exotic tastes. "Serve-a-lot" with fluffy rice, crunchy relishes, and tea.

Flavor Hint For Frozen Fish

While frozen fish fillets are defrosting, brush generously with Spanish olive oil and sprinkle with a little minced chives, parsley or dried oregano and salt. The olive oil, penetrating into the fillets, tenderizees and moistens them so that the texture is more like that of fresh fish. When fillets are completely defrosted, place under broiler and cook until delicately browned on each side; during last few moments, brush 2 or 3 tablespoons of heavy sweet cream or sour cream over the fish, continue cooking until flesh flakes easily with fork.

Yams Oriental

(Makes 4-6 servings)

⅓ cup vegetable oil
4 medium-sized Louisiana yams pared and thinly sliced
1 pound ground ham
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
1 cup chicken stock or bouillon
Salt and pepper to taste
1 1-pound can bean sprouts, drained
1 5¼-ounce can water chestnuts, drained
1 10-ounce package frozen peas
¼ cup chopped chives
¼ cup blanched almonds

Heat oil. Add yams, ham and onion and cook over low heat until lightly browned. Add stock or bouillon and salt and pepper; mix well. Cook, covered, over low heat 20 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Oyster Pie

1 pint oysters
1 cup pastry mix
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
2 cups oyster liquor and milk
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Prepare pastry mix as directed on package. Roll pastry to fit top of a 9-inch pie pan. Cook oysters in their liquor for 5 minutes or until their edges begin to curl. Drain and save liquor. Cook celery and green pepper in butter until tender. Blend in flour. Add oyster liquor and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add oysters and seasonings; heat. Pour into pie pan. Top with pastry. Bake in a hot oven, 425°F., for 15 minutes or until crust is brown. Serves 6.

Franks split, stuffed with cheese and wrapped in bacon are grilled to mouthwatering doneness for an ideal luncheon or supper dish. With salad, potato chips and relishes, they complete a "fork" meal; pop them into buns for a sandwich meal the kids will love.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

More spending, more taxes — President Eisenhower said at his news conference that if Congress wants to increase spending over and above his budget proposals, and thus unbalance the budget, it should provide for the increased cost by increasing taxes. He added that we should not have higher taxes and he believed the people of the United States agrees with him. This means, he said, that we must avoid unnecessary spending and live within our income.

Unfortunately, news stories from Washington have tended to separate the sheep from the goats. Everyone who is against the Eisenhower budget is labeled a "spender," and those who are for it are called "savers." This name-calling does not produce much economic light.

Of course, whatever is spent by the Government has to be paid by the taxpayers. A recent editorial in the Baltimore Sun draws an analogy between government spending and ordering a meal in an expensive restaurant:

"Some people think that the way to proceed is to order everything on the menu that tempts the appetite and let the cost go hang. Others, as for instance the present Administration, are unable to disregard those great big figures in the right-hand column and try to keep the cost of the meal within the capacity to pay. The first method is more fun, in a way, but can be needlessly expensive. The second method, though stodgy, avoids future embarrassment and is better for the digestion.

In presenting a balanced budget, the President did not slight our defense. As a matter of fact, the defense section of the budget was worked on personally by the President, one of the greatest military authorities of all time.

Reassurance from our defense chief—Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congressional committees last week that our combination of nuclear delivery systems gives the United States superiority over any potential enemy. By maintaining the variety of retaliatory forces, he said, the United States will continue to have superiority.

The Nation's defense chief cited Strategic Air Command's heavy and medium bomber fleets as the backbone of our retaliatory striking power to deliver big atomic payloads. Supplementing these, he pointed out, are fighter-bomber units of the Tactical Air Force which can deliver heavy nuclear charges from their advanced positions. Aboard each of our carriers are high performance aircraft capable of flying large warheads from sea bases in forward positions. In addition, we have submarines equipped to launch missiles and we have missile bases on the European continent.

Military construction in Maryland—This past week the Pentagon requested of Congress authorization for large-scale military construction in various States. Itemized projects in Maryland come to a total of $30,565,000. The Army will spend $3,530,000 on construction work in Maryland; the Navy, $4,562,000; the Air Force, $21,810,000; the Army Reserve, $448,000; the National Guard, $215,000.

The proposed military construction is urgently needed, and I believe Congress will not delay in giving the requested authorization.

Reward for brains—The Senate Committee on Armed Services, of which I am a member, has received for consideration a bill designed to encourage and stimulate inventive contributions to national defense. The bill (S. 898), introduced by Senator Saltonstall (R., Mass.), would authorize the Secretary of Defense to make monetary awards to persons whose contributions improve management methods and technical and scientific advances, and would apply to both Government employes and private citizens.

Loans for students — A new Government program of loans on easy terms to finance a college education now gets into operation. The U. S. Office of Education announces that it has parceled out 6 million dollars in funds to colleges and universities to loan to students. Each school sets its own eligibility rules, but financial need and ability to make good marks are important qualifications. The Government requires that special consideration be given students who plan to study teaching, science, mathematics, engineering, or modern languages.

Air Force Academy candidates —Major H. D. Leland, spokesman in this area for the Air Force Academy, tells me that it is not too early for young men who want to enter the Academy in June 1960 to take action in order to be considered for appointment. Young men, between the ages of 17 and 22, who are interested in a career in the Air Force, should contact Major Leland at 329 West Edmonston Drive, Rockville, Maryland.

Another committee assignment —I have been nominated by the Senate Minority to serve on the Joint Committee on Defense Production. As I am a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and a member of the Senate Committee on Armed Services, both related to defense production, I am pleased to accept this new assignment, though of course it means more responsibility and more work.

State of Hawaii—In a few days or weeks, news about the Statehood - for - Hawaii question will break into headlines. Legitimate reservations about Hawaii concern its distance from the mainland—more than 2,000 miles from the West Coast—and the Communist influence there. Arguments of proponents are aimed at disposing of these reservations. Statehood has been endorsed by the Pentagon as militarily desirable. A Congressional committee of inquiry reports that Communism is under as strict surveillance there as it is here. Finally, it is argued that admission of Hawaii to statehood will greatly improve our psychological position throughout the Pacific.

Spanish Beef Cutlets

Since veal cutlets have zoomed so high in price, borrow a trick from the Spanish and make breaded cutlets of beef, sliced from top or bottom round. The beef should be sliced very thin, about ⅛ inch, then pounded with the back of a cleaver by the butcher. At home, pound the cutlets some more with the edge of a plate, working in seasoned flour. Dip each cutlet in beaten egg, then in fine dry bread crumbs and fry in Spanish olive oil until crisp on each side and fork tender. Serve with a slice of lemon over each cutlet.

Wife Preservers

Flaming Omelets For Brunch

Both the food and the drink offered at brunch fall into a category all their own. An ideal beverage to offer before the meal is a very dry Spanish sherry, either a fino, or a nutty amontillado. This may be served plain, on-the-rocks, or mixed half and half with orange or grapefruit juice. An omelet flamed with some of the same sherry will make a dramatic brunch dish. To flame the omelet, cook it in the usual way, fold over, then pour 2 tablespoons of sherry into the omelet pan and "roll" the pan so that the sherry catches fire from the burner. Bring the omelet to the table while aflame, serve as soon as the flame has died out. Serve with hot rolls, jam, and plenty of steaming coffee.

Molasses Bran Muffins

¼ cup shortening
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg
1 cup bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup finely cut dates

Blend together shortening and unsulphured molasses. Add egg; beat well. Stir in bran and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to molasses mixture with dates; stir only until blended. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 30 minutes.

YIELD: 12 small muffins.

Eggs Are Tops In Nutrition

Two eggs supply as much as 30 per cent of the high-quality protein needed daily by adult men or women! In fact, egg protein comes so near to perfection that scientists use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods. Eggs also contain substantial amounts of essential minerals and vitamins, including the anti-anemia vitamin, B-12. One of nature's most nearly perfect foods, eggs combine their heavy concentration of high-quality protein with relatively few calories, and complete digestibility, and are accepted as an important dietary requirement from infancy through the "golden age" group!

What's In An Adjective

Fragrant is literally the word for the cream Spanish sherries. The Spanish call the mellow dark brown sweeter sherries of their country "oloroso," or their word for "fragrant." It was the English who first called these same oloroso sherries "cream," because they were found to be "smooth as cream," in English parlance.

Baked Sole Amontillado

Frozen fillets of flounder or sole can become an elegant offering, prepared in the Spanish manner. Cut the frozen block in 3 squares, place in a casserole with ¼ cup each amontillado sherry and olive oil and ½ teaspoon salt. Top each square with mixture of crushed almonds (put through food grinder or electric blender) and fine dry crumbs; dot with butter. Bake at 350°, without previous defrosting, until fish flakes easily, about 40 minutes. During baking, baste once or twice with the Spanish sherry mixture in the bottom of the baking dish. One pound package of the fillets serves 3; to serve 6 use 2 packages of the fillets, double other ingredients. To make the meal extra special, serve glasses of the amontillado sherry with the dinner.

Lobster In Sour Cream

¾ pound cooked lobster meat
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 tablespoon horseradish
½ teaspoon powdered mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 egg, beaten
Toast points

Cut lobster meat into ½-inch pieces. Combine the next 6 ingredients and heat. Stir a little of the hot sauce into egg; add to remaining sauce, stirring constantly. Add lobster meat and heat. Serve on toast points. Serves 6.

Haddock Dinners Are Perfect For Lent

From the beginning of time, fishing has been the source of much of man's food. Progressing from simple nets to modern day trawlers, it has also meant a livelihood for thousands of families. Fish has been pickled, salted, dried, canned, and frozen whole. Now in the mid-twentieth century it comes to us in a popular new form . . . a complete frozen prepared dinner.

Try a haddock dinner tonight. Flaky, tender fish in a golden cream sauce. You'll find two vegetables in the container, too. Fluffy mashed potatoes and green peas are topped with fresh creamery butter making a perfect dinner for the Lenten season. And it heats in just 25 minutes in a 425°F. oven!

A salad to accompany your haddock dinners . . . is this one for:

Crystal Vegetable Mold

1 package (3 ounces) lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
Dash salt
1 teaspoon grated onion
½ cup diced cucumber
¼ cup sliced tuffed olives

In bowl, dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water, salt, and onion. Chill until syrupy. Fold in cucumber and olives. Pour into a 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve on crisp greens. Makes 4 servings.

For meals without meat . . . during Lent . . . choose frozen prepared haddock dinners often. Here you'll find fish at its best . . . flaky, tender, and of course, completely free from bones. Part of the dinners . . . a snowy white mound of potatoes and plump green peas . . . ideal companions to the fish.

New Cocktail From Spain

Americans visiting Spain have discovered a new cocktail, made with the driest type of Spanish sherry, which the Spanish call "fino," and vodka, in proportions of three or four parts vodka to one part fino sherry. It's the same type of drink as a martini but smoother and drier. Its name: a "Matador": one drink and you'll feel like fighting the brave bulls.

Eggs Are Easy To Cook

Basic egg cookery is something a youngster can master, it is so easy and uncomplicated. For the experienced cook, this means that eggs can be appetizingly prepared in minutes, in a variety of ways from soft-cooked to shirred. Eggs are ideally combined with sauces, salad ingredients, poultry and other seafood and meat foods that satisfy eager appetites without stretching the food budget . . . because eggs are economical, too!

It's Oyster Vegetable Chowder Tonight

You don't have to live near the shore nor do you have to spend half the day making a good chowder for Saturday night's supper. Try this one made with frozen oyster stew: In saucepan, cook 2 slices (halved) bacon until crisp; remove and drain. Pour off all but about 1 tablespoon drippings. Add ¼ cup chopped onion and ¼ cup chopped celery leaves; cook until just tender. Add 1 can (2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained, 1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew, and 1 soup can milk. Heat; stir now and then. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Garnish with crumbled bacon. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

People "Like Eggs"

In many consumer egg studies, it was found that people frequently purchased and used eggs "because we like them." This points up the wide acceptance of an egg's flavor, its versatility and ease of cooking. The egg, a breakfast "mainstay," is also widely used as a hearty luncheon dish, for sandwich fillings, and in combination with other foods for satisfying dinners.

From the Far East comes Egg Foo Yung, given zip by the addition of shredded cervelat. This kind of meal, besides being rich in protein, is a grand way to break the family in gradually to exotic tastes. "Serve-a-lot" with fluffy rice, crunchy relishes, and tea.

Flavor Hint For Frozen Fish

While frozen fish fillets are defrosting, brush generously with Spanish olive oil and sprinkle with a little minced chives, parsley or dried oregano and salt. The olive oil, penetrating into the fillets, tenderizees and moistens them so that the texture is more like that of fresh fish. When fillets are completely defrosted, place under broiler and cook until delicately browned on each side; during last few moments, brush 2 or 3 tablespoons of heavy sweet cream or sour cream over the fish, continue cooking until flesh flakes easily with fork.

Yams Oriental

(Makes 4-6 servings)

⅓ cup vegetable oil
4 medium-sized Louisiana yams pared and thinly sliced
1 pound ground ham
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
1 cup chicken stock or bouillon
Salt and pepper to taste
1 1-pound can bean sprouts, drained
1 5¼-ounce can water chestnuts, drained
1 10-ounce package frozen peas
¼ cup chopped chives
¼ cup blanched almonds

Heat oil. Add yams, ham and onion and cook over low heat until lightly browned. Add stock or bouillon and salt and pepper; mix well. Cook, covered, over low heat 20 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook 10 minutes.

Oyster Pie

1 pint oysters
1 cup pastry mix
⅓ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
2 cups oyster liquor and milk
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Prepare pastry mix as directed on package. Roll pastry to fit top of a 9-inch pie pan. Cook oysters in their liquor for 5 minutes or until their edges begin to curl. Drain and save liquor. Cook celery and green pepper in butter until tender. Blend in flour. Add oyster liquor and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add oysters and seasonings; heat. Pour into pie pan. Top with pastry. Bake in a hot oven, 425°F., for 15 minutes or until crust is brown. Serves 6.

Franks split, stuffed with cheese and wrapped in bacon are grilled to mouthwatering doneness for an ideal luncheon or supper dish. With salad, potato chips and relishes, they complete a "fork" meal, pop them into buns for a sandwich meal the kids will love.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

More spending, more taxes — President Eisenhower said at his news conference that if Congress wants to increase spending over and above his budget proposals, and thus unbalance the budget, it should provide for the increased cost by increasing taxes. He added that we should not have higher taxes and he believed the people of the United States agrees with him. This means, he said, that we must avoid unnecessary spending and live within our income.

Unfortunately, news stories from Washington have tended to separate the sheep from the goats. Everyone who is against the Eisenhower budget is labeled a "spender," and those who are for it are called "savers." This name-calling does not produce much economic light.

Of course, whatever is spent by the Government has to be paid by the taxpayers. A recent editorial in the Baltimore Sun draws an analogy between government spending and ordering a meal in an expensive restaurant:

"Some people think that the way to proceed is to order everything on the menu that tempts the appetite and let the cost go hang. Others, as for instance the present Administration, are unable to disregard those great big figures in the right-hand column and try to keep the cost of the meal within the capacity to pay. The first method is more fun, in a way, but can be needlessly expensive. The second method, though stodgy, avoids future embarrassment and is better for the digestion.

In presenting a balanced budget, the President did not slight our defense. As a matter of fact, the defense section of the budget was worked on personally by the President, one of the greatest military authorities of all time.

Reassurance from our defense chief—Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congressional committees last week that our combination of nuclear delivery systems gives the United States superiority over any potential enemy. By maintaining the variety of retaliatory forces, he said, the United States will continue to have superiority.

The Nation's defense chief cited Strategic Air Command's heavy and medium bomber fleets as the backbone of our retaliatory striking power to deliver big atomic payloads. Supplementing these, he pointed out, are fighter-bomber units of the Tactical Air Force which can deliver heavy nuclear charges from their advanced positions. Aboard each of our carriers are high performance aircraft capable of flying large warheads from sea bases in forward positions. In addition, we have submarines equipped to launch missiles and we have missile bases on the European continent.

Military construction in Maryland—This past week the Pentagon requested of Congress authorization for large-scale military construction in various States. Itemized projects in Maryland come to a total of $30,565,000. The Army will spend $3,530,000 on construction work in Maryland; the Navy, $4,562,000; the Air Force, $21,810,000; the Army Reserve, $448,000; the National Guard, $215,000.

The proposed military construction is urgently needed, and I believe Congress will not delay in giving the requested authorization.

Reward for brains—The Senate Committee on Armed Services, of which I am a member, has received for consideration a bill designed to encourage and stimulate inventive contributions to national defense. The bill (S. 898), introduced by Senator Saltonstall (R., Mass.), would authorize the Secretary of Defense to make monetary awards to persons whose contributions improve management methods and technical and scientific advances, and would apply to both Government employes and private citizens.

Loans for students — A new Government program of loans on easy terms to finance a college education now gets into operation. The U. S. Office of Education announces that it has parceled out 6 million dollars in funds to colleges and universities to loan to students. Each school sets its own eligibility rules, but financial need and ability to make good marks are important qualifications. The Government requires that special consideration be given students who plan to study teaching, science, mathematics, engineering, or modern languages.

Air Force Academy candidates —Major H. D. Leland, spokesman in this area for the Air Force Academy, tells me that it is not too early for young men who want to enter the Academy in June 1960 to take action in order to be considered for appointment. Young men, between the ages of 17 and 22, who are interested in a career in the Air Force, should contact Major Leland at 329 West Edmonston Drive, Rockville, Maryland.

Another committee assignment —I have been nominated by the Senate Minority to serve on the Joint Committee on Defense Production. As I am a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and a member of the Senate Committee on Armed Services, both related to defense production, I am pleased to accept this new assignment, though of course it means more responsibility and more work.

State of Hawaii—In a few days or weeks, news about the Statehood-for-Hawaii question will break into headlines. Legitimate reservations about Hawaii concern its distance from the mainland—more than 2,000 miles from the West Coast—and the Communist influence there. Arguments of proponents are aimed at disposing of these reservations. Statehood has been endorsed by the Pentagon as militarily desirable. A Congressional committee of inquiry reports that Communism is under as strict surveillance there as it is here. Finally, it is argued that admission of Hawaii to statehood will greatly improve our psychological position throughout the Pacific.

Wife Preservers

Flaming Omelets For Brunch

Both the food and the drink offered at brunch fall into a category all their own. An ideal beverage to offer before the meal is a very dry Spanish sherry, either a fino, or a nutty amontillado. This may be served plain, on-the-rocks, or mixed half and half with orange or grapefruit juice. An omelet flamed with some of the same sherry will make a dramatic brunch dish. To flame the omelet, cook it in the usual way, fold over, then pour 2 tablespoons of sherry into the omelet pan and "roll" the pan so that the sherry catches fire from the burner. Bring the omelet to the table while aflame, serve as soon as the flame has died out. Serve with hot rolls, jam, and plenty of steaming coffee.

Spanish Beef Cutlets

Since veal cutlets have zoomed so high in price, borrow a trick from the Spanish and make breaded cutlets of beef, sliced from top or bottom round. The beef should be sliced very thin, about ⅛ inch, then pounded with the back of a cleaver by the butcher. At home, pound the cutlets some more with the edge of a plate, working in seasoned flour. Dip each cutlet in beaten egg, then in fine dry bread crumbs and fry in Spanish olive oil until crisp on each side and fork tender. Serve with a slice of lemon over each cutlet.

Molasses Bran Muffins

¼ cup shortening
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg
1 cup bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup finely cut dates

Blend together shortening and unsulphured molasses. Add egg; beat well. Stir in bran and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to molasses mixture with dates; stir only until blended. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 30 minutes.

YIELD: 12 small muffins.

Eggs Are Tops In Nutrition

Two eggs supply as much as 30 per cent of the high-quality protein needed daily by adult men or women! In fact, egg protein comes so near to perfection that scientists use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods. Eggs also contain substantial amounts of essential minerals and vitamins, including the anti-anemia vitamin, B-12. One of nature's most nearly perfect foods, eggs combine their heavy concentration of high-quality protein with relatively few calories, and complete digestibility, and are accepted as an important dietary requirement from infancy through the "golden age" group!

What's In An Adjective

Fragrant is literally the word for the cream Spanish sherries. The Spanish call the mellow dark brown sweeter sherries of their country "oloroso," or their word for "fragrant." It was the English who first called these same oloroso sherries "cream," because they were found to be "smooth as cream," in English parlance.

Pickled Beans Espagnole

Whole green beans which have been marinated in a piquant sauce of Spanish olive oil and tarragon vinegar are attractive for a salad or as an hors d'oeuvres offering. Cover cooked or canned blue lake green beans or tender young whole green beans with the following mixture: ¾ cup tarragon vinegar, 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon freshly-ground pepper. To serve, drain beans, arrange bundles of the beans inside rings of thinly-sliced sweet onion, then place bundles on crisp salad greens, allowing 1 bundle of beans for each serving.

Compota Andaluz

For a delectable low-calorie dessert, make a Spanish-type compote with dried apricots and dried prunes simmered in Spanish sherry. Cover the mixed dried fruit with 3 parts water and 1 part either fino or amontillado sherry, simmer until tender in the usual way. No added sugar needed for the fruit and the fino and amontillado sherries of Spain are the driest wines in the world.

Lenten Tip To Hostess

During Lent, many people elect to give up "spirits," but wines are not usually included in this category. The wise hostess will keep a bottle of Spanish sherry on hand during the Lenten season to offer guests who are abstaining from more potent beverages.

Snowy White Topping Glistens On Fruit Pies

There's such a variety of individual frozen fruit pies available to today's homemaker. For peach and blueberry pies . . . after they've baked to a golden brown and cooled, this simple cheese topping is a cinch to make: In a small bowl, combine ½ cup cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon honey, and a dash of ground ginger; blend. Chill.

Marinated Cucumber Cubes

New idea for a cocktail appetizer: cut peeled cucumbers in small chunks, marinate in Spanish olive oil and salt for at least half an hour, then roll in finely-minced parsley. Serve on toothpicks as an hors d'oeuvres.

Glazed Molasses Ham Steak

1 1½-inch-thick slice ready-to-eat ham
4 tablespoons unsulphured molasses, divided

Slash fat edges of ham to prevent curling. Stud fat edge with whole cloves, if desired. Place in a heavy skillet. Do not add fat or water. Pan broil slowly about 5 minutes on each side, or until meat is browned. Spread 2 tablespoons of the molasses on surface of ham; turn ham in skillet and spread with remaining 2 tablespoons molasses. Cook over low heat 2 minutes longer.
YIELD: 6 servings.

Spanish Sherries Going Exurbanite

A poll of clubwomen in New York suburbs showed that more than half the women questioned served wines at least once a month, and make up their own rules about how to do it. Over 65% regularly offered Spanish sherries to guests, equally divided between the three main types, dry fino, nutty amontillado and sweet oloroso or cream sherries. Like the Spanish, many of the women like to serve the wines cool or on-the-rocks, while some also use them as cocktail and highball ingredients.

Quick Molasses Beans

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
2 cans (1 pound each) baked beans

Combine unsulphured molasses, vinegar, mustard, and Tabasco; mix well. Add to beans. Spoon into 6 individual bean pots; if desired, top each serving with ½ strip uncooked bacon. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) 30 minutes.
YIELD: 6 servings.
NOTE: If desired, mixture may be turned into a skillet and heated on top of range, 10 to 15 minutes. Omit bacon.

Welsh Rabbit Special

½ pound pasteurized process sharp cheese
⅓ cup milk
Dash curry powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of cayenne
Toast triangles
Toasted almonds, shredded

Melt the cheese in a chafing dish. Add the milk gradually, stirring constantly until the rabbit is smooth. Add the seasonings, and mix well. Serve on toast triangles and sprinkle with shredded almonds.

Pimientos Emillio

The Spanish frequently serve green or red peppers dressed simply with olive oil and salt. Place seeded raw peppers on a shallow pan, cover with Spanish olive oil and bake in moderate oven until tender, sprinkling with salt just before serving. Or serve the canned pimientos, well-drained, with a dressing of Spanish olive oil. Delicious as an hors d'oeuvres or as a salad-vegetable.

Pickled Beans Espagnole

Whole green beans which have been marinated in a piquant sauce of Spanish olive oil and tarragon vinegar are attractive for a salad or as an hors d'oeuvres offering. Cover cooked or canned blue lake green beans or tender young whole green beans with the following mixture: ¾ cup tarragon vinegar, 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon freshly-ground pepper. To serve, drain beans, arrange bundles of the beans inside rings of thinly-sliced sweet onion, then place bundles on crisp salad greens, allowing 1 bundle of beans for each serving.

Compota Andaluz

For a delectable low-calorie dessert, make a Spanish-type compote with dried apricots and dried prunes simmered in Spanish sherry. Cover the mixed dried fruit with 3 parts water and 1 part either fino or amontillado sherry, simmer until tender in the usual way. No added sugar needed for the fruit and the fino and amontillado sherries of Spain are the driest wines in the world.

Lenten Tip To Hostess

During Lent, many people elect to give up "spirits," but wines are not usually included in this category. The wise hostess will keep a bottle of Spanish sherry on hand during the Lenten season to offer guests who are abstaining from more potent beverages.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Emily and I are the same age—only she's been it longer!"

"I'm so proud of you for getting the raise, darling! When do you get the next one?"

Snowy White Topping Glistens On Fruit Pies

There's such a variety of individual frozen fruit pies available to today's homemaker. For peach and blueberry pies . . . after they've baked to a golden brown and cooled, this simple cheese topping is a cinch to make: In a small bowl, combine ½ cup cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon honey, and a dash of ground ginger; blend. Chill.

Marinated Cucumber Cubes

New idea for a cocktail appetizer: cut peeled cucumbers in small chunks, marinate in Spanish olive oil and salt for at least half an hour, then roll in finely-minced parsley. Serve on toothpicks as an hors d'oeuvres.

Glazed Molasses Ham Steak

4 tablespoons unsulphured molasses, divided

Slash fat edges of ham to prevent curling. Stud fat edge with whole cloves, if desired. Place in a heavy skillet. Do not add fat or water. Pan broil slowly about 5 minutes on each side, or until meat is browned. Spread 2 tablespoons of the molasses on surface of ham; turn ham in skillet and spread with remaining 2 tablespoons molasses. Cook over low heat 2 minutes longer.
YIELD: 6 servings.

Spanish Sherries Going Exurbanite

A poll of clubwomen in New York suburbs showed that more than half the women questioned served wines at least once a month, and make up their own rules about how to do it. Over 65% regularly offered Spanish sherries to guests, equally divided between the three main types, dry fino, nutty amontillado and sweet oloroso or cream sherries. Like the Spanish, many of the women like to serve the wines cool or on-the-rocks, while some also use them as cocktail and highball ingredients.

Quick Molasses Beans

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
2 cans (1 pound each) baked beans

Combine unsulphured molasses, vinegar, mustard, and Tabasco; mix well. Add to beans. Spoon into 6 indidivual bean pots; if desired, top each serving with ½ strip uncooked bacon. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) 30 minutes.
YIELD: 6 servings.
NOTE: If desired, mixture may be turned into a skillet and heated on top of range, 10 to 15 minutes. Omit bacon.

Welsh Rabbit Special

½ pound pasteurized process sharp cheese
⅓ cup milk
Dash curry powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of cayenne
Toast triangles
Toasted almonds, shredded

Melt the cheese in a chafing dish. Add the milk gradually, stirring constantly until the rabbit is smooth. Add the seasonings, and mix well. Serve on toast triangles and sprinkle with shredded almonds.

Pimientos Emillio

The Spanish frequently serve green or red peppers dressed simply with olive oil and salt. Place seeded raw peppers on a shallow pan, cover with Spanish olive oil and bake in moderate oven until tender, sprinkling with salt just before serving. Or serve the canned pimientos, well-drained, with a dressing of Spanish olive oil. Delicious as an hors d'oeuvres or as a salad-vegetable.

Once you've eaten scallops fried in butter and served with this easy Lemon Tartar Sauce, no reasonable facsimile will pass the test! Early in the day, combine 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon each of minced onion, sweet pickle relish and minced parsley with 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 2 teaspoons minced capers and 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel. Chill and serve with scallops or any fried fish.

Potomac Fire Company Given Permit To Sponsor Carnival

WESTERNPORT—Potomac Fire Company No. 2, has been given permission to hold a carnival here the week of July 4, by Mayor Ray L. Wilt, and town commissioners.

William Mayles who made the request for the fire company for the appearance of Thoms' Joyland Shows stated the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company had given permission for use of the ball park that week.

Several delegations appeared before the town council Wednesday. Howard Dunnivan of Stoney Run Road was spokesman for a group comprised of Leonard Murphy, Alfred Harris and Charles McCarty, who asked if the town could supply water to 25 or 30 families who live outside the corporation.

Mayor Wilt stated he thought tha the town could supply them with water at a rate charged residents of Horse Rock, forty cents per 1,000 gallons. The applicants said they would pump the water about 2,800 feet to the residence of Charles McCarty where they could build a storage tank.

The town could provide a master meter but the water consumers would have to provide their individual meters. A company or one person would be responsible for the payment of the water account for them, the mayor explained.

If the town took the area into the corporation it would refund their investment. The Mayor said council does not anticipate extending the town limits to that area.

Donald DeVore objected to paying a dollar a month for sewage service as he does not have a sewer. Mayor Wilt told him when additional sewers are constructed to take the sewage to the disposal plant he would have to pay for back months as well. People who have sewers now are paying an addition of one-third of their water account for this service. This is being done to build up an account to help pay expenses incurred when the town connects up to the sewage plant under construction at the lower end of town.

Devore also complained about the muddy condition of Wood Street extended. He was in-

Oldtown PTA Observes Anniversary

OLDTOWN—Mrs. Irvin Allen, vice-president of Oldtown Parent Teachers Association, presided at the meeting Tuesday evening.

Pictures of the PTA executive board, the PTA homeroom mothers, and the Boy Scout executive board were taken.

The membership chairman, Mrs. James Cook announced 101 members are enrolled.

Guy Evans installed a television set in the auditorium so the group could see and hear a discussion on: Child Study by Sam Levenson on the Arthur Godfrey program.

Founders Day was observed with a special program. It stressed the importance of better homes, communities, schools, and churches through the PTA. Mrs. Cook was the announcer. A Founders Day Wish was given by Floyd Wolfe. The Boy Scout pledge was given by Randy Ginevan and Elwood Ginevan. This group is sponsored by the PTA.

Attending church as a family was represented by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hercsuth and family, Mrs. Bernard Lewis and Mrs. Gerald Lewis played and sang "Burdens Are Lifted At Calvary."

Better schools were also stressed. Mrs. Joseph Steger recited a poem "School Days." Jill Allen sang "In That Little Red School House."

A playlet was presented "Suppose It Hadn't Happened." The cast included teachers, Miss Mabel Twigg, Mrs. Phyllis Bowers, and James Skidmore; parents, Mrs. Bernard Lewis, Mrs. Calvin Wolfe, Mrs. Irvin Allen, and Mrs. Wayne Twigg. Mrs. Bernard Miller was program chairman. A Founders Day gift collection was taken by four young hostesses, Deborah Wolfe, Donna Hamilton, Darla Lewis, and Peggy Walters.

Refreshments were served by the fifth and sixth grade homeroom mothers. Ice-cream was furnished by Brook Bodkin of the Department of Forests and Parks. Mrs. Lillie Confer baked a huge birthday cake.

W.Va. House Passes Mental Hospital Bill

Four Measures Sent To Senate

By BILL BARRETT
(United Press International)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The House of Delegates Thursday passed a $100,000 mental hospital bill, delayed a vote on a $3,000,000 property transfer tax and killed a move to force a $20,000,000 severance tax bill from committee.

Highlighting the busy session was approval of the bill to increase charges to voluntary, private patients in state mental hospitals from $5 a day to $8. It passed the Senate earlier and now goes to the governor.

It was the first Democratic steering committee bill enacted at the current session. The new revenue estimated at $100,000 a year or more, will be earmarked for support of mental hospitals.

A vote also had been scheduled on a bill to raise $3,000,000 through a levy of $1.10 per $1,000 valuation on property transfers recorded with county clerks.

But it was moved back to second reading, so that amendments may be considered Friday, on motion of Majority Leader T. E. Myles.

The motion to force the severance tax bill from the Finance Committee — which tabled it last week — was killed by Committee Chairman through some fast parliamentary footwork.

Minds Changed

In offering the motion Del. Nell Walker (D-Fayette), sponsor of the controversial measure reminded House Democrats that 72 of them voted at a caucus several weeks ago to have the bill brought to the floor.

Singleton replied: "The matter is not dead in the committee, it is merely on the table. Mr. Speaker, I now move to lay Mrs. Walker's motion on the table."

Barton Plans Full Study Of Water Supply

Meeting Called February 25

BARTON — Peter C. Dodge of the Sanitary Engineering, Maryland State Department of Health, spoke to citizens of Barton who are concerned about the local water problem.

Dodge said town officials will have to contact an engineer to study the problem.

He also suggested that arrangements be made to study the possibilities of getting federal aid to improve the present water situation.

Some 75 persons in attendance at the American Legion Home voted to invite Mayor Arthur Hofta and members of the town council to attend a meeting February 25.

Meanwhile, citizens decided to check into the legal procedure which can be taken to get additional water for the community, which has been without a sufficient supply for some time.

Ernest Pola d was in charge of the meeting. Joesph Shuhart Jr. arranged the program, which included a talk by Rex Dexter, resident engineer in charge of the flood control project in Cumberland. He outlined plans for a better water supply for Barton.

Also attending was Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, who suggested a complete evaluation of the water situation and the appointment of a committee to work on the project.

Oakland Senior Is DAR Good Citizen For Garrett

OAKLAND—Anita Sue Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Porter of Oakland, has been notified that she is the winner for Garrett County in the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen contest. The announcement was made by Mrs. R. Findley Thompson, chairman of the Good Citizen contest. Mrs. Thompson is a member of Cresap Chapter, Cumberland.

ANITA SUE PORTER

Miss Porter is an academic senior at Southern. This second marking period she had an all "A" record. She is active in the school's Student Council and is secretary of the organization. She was chosen last year as one of Southern's students to make the annual United Nations trip. She is a member of the high school senior band and president of the Future Teachers of America. She was chosen on the basis of her dependability, service to others, leadership and patriotism.

Three applicants were selected from both high schools in the county and each submitted questionnaires to a committee of three judges who selected Sue as the Good Citizen of Garrett County.

Sue's questionnaire will now be submitted to a second committee for final selection of Maryland's D. A. R. Good Citizen.

The state contestant will be introduced personally at the D. A. R. state conference in the spring and will be presented with a $100 US Savings Bond.

Potomac Fire Company Given Permit To Sponsor Carnival

WESTERNPORT—Potomac Fire Company No. 2, has been given permission to hold a carnival here the week of July 4, by Mayor Ray L. Wilt, and town commissioners.

William Mayles who made the request for the fire company for the appearance of Thoms' Joyland Shows stated the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company had given permission for use of the ball park that week.

Several delegations appeared before the town council Wednesday. Howard Dunnivan of Stoney Run Road was spokesman for a group comprised of Leonard Murphy, Alfred Harris and Charles McCarty, who asked if the town could supply water to 25 or 30 families who live outside the corporation.

Mayor Wilt stated he thought tha the town could supply them with water at a rate charged residents of Horse Rock, forty cents per 1,000 gallons. The applicants said they would pump the water about 2,800 feet to the residence of Charles McCarty where they could build a storage tank.

The town could provide a master meter but the water consumers would have to provide their individual meters. A company or one person would be responsible for the payment of the water account for them, the mayor explained.

If the town took the area into the corporation it would refund their investment. The Mayor said council does not anticipate extending the town limits to that area.

Donald DeVore objected to paying a dollar a month for sewage service as he does not have a sewer. Mayor Wilt told him when additional sewers are constructed to take the sewage to the disposal plant he would have to pay for back months as well. People who have sewers now are paying an addition of one-third of their water account for this service. This is being done to build up an account to help pay expenses incurred when the town connects up to the sewage plant under construction at the lower end of town.

Devore also complained about the muddy condition of Wood Street extended. He was in-

W.Va. House Passes Mental Hospital Bill

Four Measures Sent To Senate

By BILL BARRETT
(United Press International)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The House of Delegates Thursday passed a $100,000 mental hospital bill, delayed a vote on a $3,000,000 property transfer tax and killed a move to force a $20,000,000 severance tax bill from committee.

Highlighting the busy session was approval of the bill to increase charges to voluntary, private patients in state mental hospitals from $5 a day to $8. It passed the Senate earlier and now goes to the governor.

It was the first Democratic steering committee bill enacted at the current session. The new revenue estimated at $100,000 a year or more, will be earmarked for support of mental hospitals.

A vote also had been scheduled on a bill to raise $3,000,000 through a levy of $1.10 per $1,000 valuation on property transfers recorded with county clerks.

But it was moved back to second reading, so that amendments may be considered Friday, on motion of Majority Leader T. E. Myles.

The motion to force the severance tax bill from the Finance Committee — which tabled it last week — was killed by Committee Chairman through some fast parliamentary footwork.

Minds Changed

In offering the motion Del. Nell Walker (D-Fayette), sponsor of the controversial measure reminded House Democrats that 72 of them voted at a caucus several weeks ago to have the bill brought to the floor.

Singleton replied: "The matter is not dead in the committee, it is merely on the table. Mr. Speaker, I now move to lay Mrs. Walker's motion on the table."

Barton Plans Full Study Of Water Supply

Meeting Called February 25

BARTON — Peter C. Dodge of the Sanitary Engineering, Maryland State Department of Health, spoke to citizens of Barton who are concerned about the local water problem.

Dodge said town officials will have to contact an engineer to study the problem.

He also suggested that arrangements be made to study the possibilities of getting federal aid to improve the present water situation.

Some 75 persons in attendance at the American Legion Home voted to invite Mayor Arthur Hofta and members of the town council to attend a meeting February 25.

Meanwhile, citizens decided to check into the legal procedure which can be taken to get additional water for the community, which has been without a sufficient supply for some time.

Ernest Pola d was in charge of the meeting. Joesph Shuhart Jr. arranged the program, which included a talk by Rex Dexter, resident engineer in charge of the flood control project in Cumberland. He outlined plans for a better water supply for Barton.

Also attending was Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, who suggested a complete evaluation of the water situation and the appointment of a committee to work on the project.

Bar Closing Bill Entered By Four Delegates

Residents of Allegany County may get a chance to vote in 1960 on a proposal to extend by one hour the weekday selling hours in alcoholic beverage establishments.

The bill was introduced in the House yesterday under the sponsorship of Delegates Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll and William Walsh.

It was introduced at the request of the Allegany County Liquor Dealers Association.

The proposal was referred to the Alcoholic Beverages Committee, whose chairman, Del. Henry Hanna (D-Wicomico) told Del. Driscoll he will set up a hearing within the next week or so.

Only One Change

The bill would extend from midnight until 1 a. m. the weekday selling hours of alcoholic beverages.

The Saturday night midnight closing, which bans sales on Sunday, would remain the same as it is at present.

Some details of the bill were outlined in a letter written yesterday by Del. Driscoll for the four sponsors to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The letter pointed out that the law at present permits sales on weekdays until midnight, and anything bought before that time may be consumed until 1 a. m.

In essence, Del. Driscoll said, the legislation would permit dealers to sell during the time establishments are already open.

Customers, he added, can buy drinks up to midnight and sip them until the 1 a. m. closing time.

Del. Driscoll explained the proposal has been coming before the Legislature every two years and that it is time to settle it one way or another.

Rights Are Cited

The sponsoring delegates feel that the liquor dealers have the same right as any citizen to have the legislation introduced, regardless of the personal feeling of any member of the delegation.

He said the sponsors are requiring that citizens of Allegany County decide what they want in a referendum in the November 1960 election.

He said this means there would be no change in the law until after that date, and then only if it is voted by the people, adding:

"We believe this is the democratic way to handle matters of this kind."

Del. Driscoll said he believes the issue should be settled and that the citiens should decide.

Any group or citizen, he explained, has a right under the Maryland Constitution to petition the General ssembly for a redress of grievances.

Claim Revenue Loss

The liquor dealers association has complained for a number of years of the loss of one-hour selling time when Daylight Saving Time is in effect—which is for a half of the year.

Tax revenue and sales are lost to West Virginia which has a 1 a. m., EDT closing because it operates its taverns on Standard Time, and to Pennsylvania, where during weekdays bars can stay open until 3 a. m. Daylight Time. The deadline there is 2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

No local legislation concerning alcoholic beverages is handled by the delegation acting as a committee.

Emergency Bill Passes

The State Senate yesterday enacted House Bill 204, sponsored by the delegation, that would allow the county commissioners to contract for services of a professional nature without competitive bidding.

This is an emergency measure and will become law upon signature by Gov. Tawes. The county commissioners have to hire an engineer to make a survey of the sewage problems of the Georges Creek section, under orders of the State Board of Health.

The Senate yesterday passed Senate Bill 284 sponsored by Sen. Charles M. See that would authorize the county commissioners to expend $2,000 for a survey of physically handicapped children in Allegany County.

Del. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said the group today expects to give a favorable report to the Oldtown fire aid bill.

The proposal, SB 223, would direct the county to contribute $938.40 toward the support of the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company.

The bill has already been piloted through the Senate by Senator See, its sponsor.

McMullen Gets Appointment To Planning Group

A commission designating John J. McMullen, new chairman of the State Roads Commission, as member of the State Planning Commission for the remainder of a four-year term ending June 1, was received here yesterday at the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The State Planning Commission, established in 1933, includes seven members appointed by the governor. One of the seven members must be either the chief engineer or a member of the State Roads Commission. Mr. McMullen will succeed Robert O. Bonnell, whom he also succeeds as chairman of the SRC.

First commissions received at the Court House bearing the signatures of the new governor, J. Millard Tawes and the new secretary of state, Thomas B. Finan, were for two new forest wardens in Allegany County.

James E. Snelson, Midland, and Owen B. Robeson, 28 Powells Lane, Frostburg, were named forest wardens for two-year terms starting February 10.

Amicable Plan Is Reached On SRC Pay Issue

ANNAPOLIS (AP)— The State Roads Commission has agreed to pay certain of its employes back overtime since last March 13 without the need for legislating such payments, it was announced Thursday.

Charles Harris, counsel for the Maryland Classified Employes Assn., told the Senate Finance Committee that the matter had been resolved "amicably" with SRC officials and he would like to keep it that way.

The committee had under study a bill by Sen. See (R - Allegany) which spelled out that those employes due cash overtime since last March when a new 40-hour week bill went into effect would receive it.

Some of them reportedly had been listed as supervisory employes without actually supervising workers and were not receiving overtime payments until they were reclassified by the SRC.

At the request of Harris and Sen. See the bill was held in committee since the issue had been resolved.

Carl Wannen, comptroller of the SRC, said checks totaling $64,000 would go out to the employes next week.

Harris said the policy worked out with the roads commission is to pay them cash for overtime involved for Mondays through Fridays and compensating time off for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Craftsmen Unit Will Plan For District Event

Cumberland Council No. 53 Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers, will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the Junior Order Hall, to complete plans for a district meeting here April 4.

Eugene C. Park, district deputy grand chief of Maryland, said committees will present plans for the conclave which will be attended by up to 175 delegates.

Representatives from councils in Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, the District of Columbia and Canada will attend.

The meeting is being set up to formulate plans for the Grand Council session in Chicago August 7-9.

The Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers is a Masonic organization which promotes the education and elevation of engineers and craftsmen.

Dr. Church Cites Objectives Of Russian Education

Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of Potomac State College in Keyser, yesterday told the Cumberland Kiwanis Club that he found manifestation of good will toward Americans among the masses of Russian people wherever he went in that land during a five-week visit last year to study the Russian system of education.

The college president was one of 73 persons from 24 states, Puerto Rico and England, who arrived by plane in Moscow last August 18. He recalled the near-panic which affected large segments of the United States immediately after the Russians put the first Sputnik in orbit.

This tour in which Dr. Church participated was designed to learn the facts about the Russian system of education. One of his observations was that not all Russian students are great scientists or mathematicians.

He contended that it is impossible to compare the Russian and American systems of education because their backgrounds and purposes are so different. Russian officials do not care about boys and girls as individuals but only as to how they will fit into the socialistic pattern. In this country, we tend to think of each individual as a child of God and through education try to assist him in finding his own place in society, said Dr. Church.

Dr. Church emphasized that Russia has made vast strides in education since the 1917 revolution and has virtually wiped out illiteracy. This was a stark necessity in a land which was being transformed from an agricultural economy to an industrial giant.

Russian schools lay great stress on foreign languages and the physical sciences. There is no place in their system for such subjects as social studies, political science and economics. There is a course on the history of the Communist Party, which is always taught by a party member.

The Potomac State president cited three major conclusions. The first is that the Russian people themselves are a friendly people and greater exchange of tourists between the two countries should be mutually beneficial. Second, he emphasized the importance of the United States always being able to deal with Soviet Russia from a position of strength. Finally, he said the United States must strive to make democracy really work and must keep its moral and spiritual defenses strong.

Bar Closing Bill Entered By Four Delegates

Residents of Allegany County may get a chance to vote in 1960 on a proposal to extend by one hour the weekday selling hours in alcoholic beverage establishments.

The bill was introduced in the House yesterday under the sponsorship of Delegates Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll and William Walsh.

It was introduced at the request of the Allegany County Liquor Dealers Association.

The proposal was referred to the Alcoholic Beverages Committee, whose chairman, Del. Henry Hanna (D-Wicomico) told Del. Driscoll he will set up a hearing within the next week or so.

Only One Change

The bill would extend from midnight until 1 a. m. the weekday selling hours of alcoholic beverages.

The Saturday night midnight closing, which bans sales on Sunday, would remain the same as it is at present.

Some details of the bill were outlined in a letter written yesterday by Del. Driscoll for the four sponsors to Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The letter pointed out that the law at present permits sales on weekdays until midnight, and anything bought before that time may be consumed until 1 a. m.

In essence, Del. Driscoll said, the legislation would permit dealers to sell during the time establishments are already open.

Customers, he added, can buy drinks up to midnight and sip them until the 1 a. m. closing time.

Del. Driscoll explained the proposal has been coming before the Legislature every two years and that it is time to settle it one way or another.

Rights Are Cited

The sponsoring delegates feel that the liquor dealers have the same right as any citizen to have the legislation introduced, regardless of the personal feeling of any member of the delegation.

He said the sponsors are requiring that citizens of Allegany County decide what they want in a referendum in the November 1960 election.

He said this means there would be no change in the law until after that date, and then only if it is voted by the people, adding: "We believe this is the democratic way to handle matters of this kind."

Del. Driscoll said he believes the issue should be settled and that the citiens should decide.

Any group or citizen, he explained, has a right under the Maryland Constitution to petition the General ssembly for a redress of grievances.

Claim Revenue Loss

The liquor dealers association has complained for a number of years of the loss of one-hour selling time when Daylight Saving Time is in effect—which is for a half of the year.

Tax revenue and sales are lost to West Virginia which has a 1 a. m., EDT closing because it operates its taverns on Standard Time, and to Pennsylvania, where during weekdays bars can stay open until 3 a. m. Daylight Time. The deadline there is 2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

No local legislation concerning alcoholic beverages is handled by the delegation acting as a committee.

Emergency Bill Passes

The State Senate yesterday enacted House Bill 204, sponsored by the delegation, that would allow the county commissioners to contract for services of a professional nature without competitive bidding.

This is an emergency measure and will become law upon signature by Gov. Tawes. The county commissioners have to hire an engineer to make a survey of the sewage problems of the Georges Creek section, under orders of the State Board of Health.

The Senate yesterday passed Senate Bill 284 sponsored by Sen. Charles M. See that would authorize the county commissioners to expend $2,000 for a survey of physically handicapped children in Allegany County.

Del. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said the group today expects to give a favorable report to the Oldtown fire aid bill.

The proposal, SB 223, would direct the county to contribute $938.40 toward the support of the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company.

The bill has already been piloted through the Senate by Senator See, its sponsor.

McMullen Gets Appointment To Planning Group

A commission designating John J. McMullen, new chairman of the State Roads Commission, as member of the State Planning Commission for the remainder of a four-year term ending June 1, was received here yesterday at the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The State Planning Commission, established in 1933, includes seven members appointed by the governor. One of the seven members must be either the chief engineer or a member of the State Roads Commission. Mr. McMullen will succeed Robert O. Bonnell, whom he also succeeds as chairman of the SRC.

First commissions received at the Court House bearing the signatures of the new governor, J. Millard Tawes and the new secretary of state, Thomas B. Finan, were for two new forest wardens in Allegany County.

James E. Snelson, Midland, and Owen B. Robeson, 28 Powells Lane, Frostburg, were named forest wardens for two-year terms starting February 10.

Amicable Plan Is Reached On SRC Pay Issue

ANNAPOLIS (AP)— The State Roads Commission has agreed to pay certain of its employes back overtime since last March 13 without the need for legislating such payments, it was announced Thursday.

Charles Harris, counsel for the Maryland Classified Employes Assn., told the Senate Finance Committee that the matter had been resolved "amicably" with SRC officials and he would like to keep it that way.

The committee had under study a bill by Sen. See (R - Allegany) which spelled out that those employes due cash overtime since last March when a new 40-hour week bill went into effect would receive it.

Some of them reportedly had been listed as supervisory employes without actually supervising workers and were not receiving overtime payments until they were reclassified by the SRC.

At the request of Harris and Sen. See the bill was held in committee since the issue had been resolved.

Carl Wannen, comptroller of the SRC, said checks totaling $64,000 would go out to the employes next week.

Harris said the policy worked out with the roads commission is to pay them cash for overtime involved for Mondays through Fridays and compensating time off for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Dr. Church Cites Objectives Of Russian Education

Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of Potomac State College in Keyser, yesterday told the Cumberland Kiwanis Club that he found manifestation of good will toward Americans among the masses of Russian people wherever he went in that land during a five-week visit last year to study the Russian system of education.

The college president was one of 73 persons from 24 states, Puerto Rico and England, who arrived by plane in Moscow last August 18. He recalled the near-panic which affected large segments of the United States immediately after the Russians put the first Sputnik in orbit.

This tour in which Dr. Church participated was designed to learn the facts about the Russian system of education. One of his observations was that not all Russian students are great scientists or mathematicians.

He contended that it is impossible to compare the Russian and American systems of education because their backgrounds and purposes are so different. Russian officials do not care about boys and girls as individuals but only as to how they will fit into the socialistic pattern. In this country, we tend to think of each individual as a child of God and through education try to assist him in finding his own place in society, said Dr. Church.

Dr. Church emphasized that Russia has made vast strides in education since the 1917 revolution and has virtually wiped out illiteracy. This was a stark necessity in a land which was being transformed from an agricultural economy to an industrial giant.

Russian schools lay great stress on foreign languages and the physical sciences. There is no place in their system for such subjects as social studies, political science and economics. There is a course or the history of the Communist Party, which is always taught by a party member.

The Potomac State president cited three major conclusions. The first is that the Russian people themselves are a friendly people and greater exchange of tourists between the two countries should be mutually beneficial. Second, he emphasized the importance of the United States always being able to deal with Soviet Russia from a position of strength. Finally, he said the United States must strive to make democracy really work and must keep its moral and spiritual defenses strong.

Fort Hill High Faces Allegany In Crucial Class A Battle

Camper Win Would Knot Cage Series

Fort Hill Triumph Would Put Sentinels In District Tourney

Fort Hill's Sentinels get an opportunity to sew up the Allegany County Class A championship and Allegany High's Campers get the chance to tie up the race when the teams conclude their annual series tonight at 8 o'clock at Campobello.

If Allegany wins a playoff game will be necessary to determine Allegany County's representative in the district tournament at North High School, Hagerstown, March 6 and 7. North Hagerstown, Frederick's Cadets and Southern's Highlanders from Garrett County are the other schools that will vie for district honors next month. The winner of that tourney advances to the state championship event at College Park the following weekend.

Fort Hill Leads 3-0

Fort Hill's defending county, district and state champions, lead in the Class A race with a 3-0 record. Coach Wayne Boor's Sentinels have beaten Allegany, 55-50, and defeated Beall twice, 68-67, and 74-39. Allegany owns a 2-1 record with wins over Beall 81-58 and 62-59 in overtime and a loss at the hands of Fort Hill.

Coach Chet Payne's Campers have had the winning habit lately and Fort Hill might find Allegany tough to whip at Campobello. In their last four outings the Paynemen have knocked off Mt. Savage, Beall, Valley and Bruce.

It's the final game of the W. M.I. season for Allegany (6-3) while Fort Hill (5-3) still has a postponed game with Mt. Savage. Allegany's overall record is 9-8 and Fort Hill's 11-6.

49th Game Of Series

This will be the 49th game of the series between the city rivals who began shooting it out in 1937. Allegany holds a 32-16 edge in victories. Tonight's game will be their last on the present Campobello court as Allegany's new gym will be the scene of action next season.

Bill Lightner and Joe Hartle, of Hagerstown, will officiate.

In other W.M.I. League action tonight, Valley's newly crowned champions, will host Bruce High's Bulldogs while Mt. Savage will oppose Beall at Frostburg.

Fort Ashby At LaSalle

LaSalle (10-10) has four more games on its schedule and the first is with Fort Ashby High School's Eagles tonight at SS. Peter & Paul gym. Coach Quentin Sayers' Mineral Countians lost the series opener to LaSalle, 71-68 and could make it rough for the Explorers. The Eagles recently whipped Romney, 68-67, and gave Keyser a great battle before bowing 74-72.

The P.V.C. slate tonight includes Franklin at Elk Garden, Capon Bridge at Romney, Wardensville at Mathias and Ridgeley at Moorefield. Keyser locked up the title in the 17-school circuit by whipping Piedmont on Wednesday night.

Garrett Teams Clash

Garrett County's cage crown is at stake tonight when Southern's Highlanders and Northern's Huskies windup their series at Oakland. Southern (11-7) won the first game, 74-67. The race will end in a deadlock if the Huskies (10-7) bag this one.

In other Friday night tilts, Hyndman plays at Everett, Hillsboro is at Circleville, Mountaineer at Belington, Charles Town at Berkeley Springs, Oldtown at Paw Paw, Bayard at Pickens, Bedford at Saxton-Liberty and Frederick at South Hagerstown in a C.V.A.L. engagement.

St. Michael's cagers of Frostburg kept their second half championship race record unblemished in the Catholic Youth Basketball League by nosing out St. Patrick's last night at SS. Peter & Paul gym by the score of 30-27.

Frank DeLuca and Gary Werner sparked the first half champions to their eighth win of the second half and the 14th victory in a row by ringing up nine and eight points, respectively.

Mickey Lantz was high scorer for St. Patrick's with 10 points on two goals and 6-12 at the foul line.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Thirteen thoroughbreds may contest Saturday's $100,000-added Widener but Calumet Farm's Bardstown is certain to be favored in the first big handicap race for older horses this year.

Despite his age—7—and his impost—124 pounds, the Calumet gelding was 8-5 in the early line for the mile and a quarter Hialeah feature.

A Dragon Killer, under 113 pounds and Nadir, 120, were 5-2.

Then come Air Pilot, 114; Talent Show, 110; Hoop Band, 117; Victory Morn, 112, and One-Eyed King, 110.

Eight out of 10 trainers here think Bardstown will win.

Fights Mark Syracuse Win Over Boston

Referee Belted As Nationals Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Fists flew almost as often as basketballs as the Syracuse Nationals scored their fourth triumph of the year over the Boston Celtics, 113-105, Thursday night.

With the Nats in front, 89-71, after three periods, Referee Sid Borgia became engaged in a slugfest with a front row fan, whom Borgia accused of abusing him all night.

Then with Syracuse in front, 102-84, George Dempsey fouled Bill Russell and the latter retaliated with a looping left hand punch. Both benches emptied and entered the fray.

With one minute left, Tom Heinsohn and Dolph Schayes engaged in a pushing match and Heinsohn wound up punching Borgia after the referee had parted the pair. Syracuse Coach Paul Seymour came out and landed several punches on Heinsohn and took a few in return after the Celtic had sent Nat Bob Hopkins sprawling.

After the game, on the way to the dressing room, Boston's Gene Conley and Heinsohn engaged in a tussle with fans. Again police were forced to intervene.

As for the game itself, Syracuse led throughout. Schayes led the Nats with 33 points. Heinsohn had 24 for Boston. Syracuse and St. Louis are the only teams with four victories against Boston this season.

Colts' Ray Berry Caught Most Passes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ray Berry of Baltimore and Pete Retzlaff of Philadelphia caught the most passes in the 1958 National Football League season but Del Shofner of Los Angeles gained the most yards this way.

Shofner caught five less passes but made them good for 1,097 yards and eight TDs.

Canadian Players Told To "Go Home"

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI)—The Belleville MacFarlands, who will defend Canada's title in the World Amateur ice hockey championships in Czechoslovakia next month, were told Thursday by Finnish newspapers to "go home and learn the ABC book of sportsmanship."

Bob Pence scored 20 points to pace the Old Exports. Donnie Madden and Marty Mullaney with 18 and 15 tallies were the leading scorers for the Caseys.

Ellsworth Lambert scored 15 of his 36 points in the second period to lead Chaney's to victory. He collected a total of 14 field goals and 8-10 at the foul line. Bill Day, Ed Parsons and Herb Howe garnered 11 points each for the Forty and Eight Club. Box scores:

Redmen Defeat Niagara Quint By Score 87-78

New York U. Routs Villanova, 78-60

NEW YORK (UPI)—Allan Selden scored 31 points to pace St. John's to an 87-78 victory over Niagara Thursday night and Tom Sanders tallied 28 to lead New York University to a 78-60 rout of Villanova in a college basketball doubleheader before 10,125 at Madison Square Garden.

The victory undoubtedly clinched a National Invitation Tournament bid for N.Y.U. and Niagara retained its chance for an invitation despite the defeat. St. John's and Villanova already have accepted bids to the tournament beginning March 12.

Seiden, a five-foot, 11-inch backcourt star, scored 18 of St. John's last 30 points to help give the Redmen their 14th victory in 19 games. He scored seven points in a 12-2 burst that produced a 70-56 St. John's lead at the 10-minute mark of the second half and scored seven of the Redmen's last 10 points after Niagara had crept to a 77-74 deficit with 3:12 to go.

Larry Jackson scored 27 points and Gus Alfieri had 12 for St. John's while Al Butler tallied 19, including 14 in the first half, for Niagara. The loss was Niagara's fifth in 19 games.

Fort Hill High Faces Allegany In Crucial Class A Battle

Fort Hill Triumph Would Put Sentinels In District Tourney

Fort Hill's Sentinels get an opportunity to sew up the Allegany County Class A championship and Allegany High's Campers get the chance to tie up the race when the teams conclude their annual series tonight at 8 o'clock at Campobello.

If Allegany wins a playoff game will be necessary to determine Allegany County's representative in the district tournament at North High School, Hagerstown, March 6 and 7. North Hagerstown, Frederick's Cadets and Southern's Highlanders from Garrett County are the other schools that will vie for district honors next month. The winner of that tourney advances to the state championship event at College Park the following weekend.

Fort Hill Leads 3-0

Fort Hill's defending county, district and state champions, lead in the Class A race with a 3-0 record. Coach Wayne Boor's Sentinels have beaten Allegany, 55-50, and defeated Beall twice, 68-67, and 74-39. Allegany owns a 2-1 record with wins over Beall 81-58 and 62-59 in overtime and a loss at the hands of Fort Hill.

Coach Chet Payne's Campers have had the winning habit lately and Fort Hill might find Allegany tough to whip at Campobello. In their last four outings the Paynemen have knocked off Mt. Savage, Beall, Valley and Bruce.

It's the final game of the W. M.I. season for Allegany (6-3) while Fort Hill (5-3) still has a postponed game with Mt. Savage. Allegany's overall record is 9-8 and Fort Hill's 11-6.

49th Game Of Series

This will be the 49th game of the series between the city rivals who began shooting it out in 1937. Allegany holds a 32-16 edge in victories. Tonight's game will be their last on the present Campobello court as Allegany's new gym will be the scene of action next season.

Bill Lightner and Joe Hartle, of Hagerstown, will officiate.

In other W.M.I. League action tonight, Valley's newly crowned champions, will host Bruce High's Bulldogs while Mt. Savage will oppose Beall at Frostburg.

Fort Ashby At LaSalle

LaSalle (10-10) has four more games on its schedule and the first is with Fort Ashby High School's Eagles tonight at SS. Peter & Paul gym. Coach Quentin Sayers' Mineral Countians lost the series opener to LaSalle, 71-68 and could make it rough for the Explorers. The Eagles recently whipped Romney, 68-67, and gave Keyser a great battle before bowing 74-72.

The P.V.C. slate tonight includes Franklin at Elk Garden, Capon Bridge at Romney, Wardensville at Mathias and Ridgeley at Moorefield. Keyser locked up the title in the 17-school circuit by whipping Piedmont on Wednesday night.

Garrett Teams Clash

Garrett County's cage crown is at stake tonight when Southern's Highlanders and Northern's Huskies windup their series at Oakland. Southern (11-7) won the first game, 74-67. The race will end in a deadlock if the Huskies (10-7) bag this one.

In other Friday night tilts, Hyndman plays at Everett, Hillsboro is at Circleville, Mountaineer at Belington, Charles Town at Berkeley Springs, Oldtown at Paw Paw, Bayard at Pickens, Bedford at Saxton-Liberty and Frederick at South Hagerstown in a C.V.A.L. engagement.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(UPI)—As a West Point undergraduate, Earl (Red) Blaik, former Army football coach, was the first cadet ever to compete against Navy in three different sports — football, baseball and basketball.

BULLET BOB WORKS OUT—New York Yankee top hurler Bob Turley as he pitched in a light opening day workout yesterday at Miller Huggins Field, St. Petersburg, Fla. Turley was a 21-game winner last year, plus a World Series performance that gave the Yankees the world championship. Pitching coach Jim Turner, right, is enjoying the show. (AP Photofax).

Then come Air Pilot, 114; Talent Show, 110; Hoop Band, 117; Victory Morn, 112, and One-Eyed King, 110.

Eight out of 10 trainers here think Bardstown will win.

Fights Mark Syracuse Win Over Boston

Referee Belted As Nationals Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Fists flew almost as often as basketballs as the Syracuse Nationals scored their fourth triumph of the year over the Boston Celtics, 113-105, Thursday night.

With the Nats in front, 89-71, after three periods, Referee Sid Borgia became engaged in a slugfest with a front row fan, whom Borgia accused of abusing him all night.

Then with Syracuse in front, 102-84, George Dempsey fouled Bill Russell and the latter retaliated with a looping left hand punch. Both benches emptied and entered the fray.

With one minute left, Tom Heinsohn and Dolph Schayes engaged in a pushing match and Heinsohn wound up punching Borgia after the referee had parted the pair. Syracuse Coach Paul Seymour came out and landed several punches on Heinsohn and took a few in return after the Celtic had sent Nat Bob Hopkins sprawling.

After the game, on the way to the dressing room, Boston's Gene Conley and Heinsohn engaged in a tussle with fans. Again police were forced to intervene.

As for the game itself, Syracuse led throughout. Schayes led the Nats with 33 points. Heinsohn had 24 for Boston. Syracuse and St. Louis are the only teams with four victories against Boston this season.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

IN AN ATTEMPT to keep baseball the No. 1 sport in popularity (and pro football's moving right along), several suggestions have been made, aimed at pleasing the fans.

The length of the game has been discussed over a few years and to many baseball fans this is one reason why they stay away.

Where baseball games formerly were played in a little over two hours some of them now run over three hours and most of them well over two hours.

Putting a stop watch on the pitcher's delivery of the ball was tried but it didn't seem to help much.

DICK BUTLER, president of the Texas league, comes up with another suggestion and this one, to us, has plenty of merit. It is to eliminate tossing four pitches to a batter who is being purposely passed and just put him on base automatically.

The plan was referred to the Rules Committee, headed by Jim Gallagher, but he frowned on giving the Texas league permission to do it, unless all baseball was legislated into that rule.

Gallagher, in a recent comment in The Sporting News, pointed out that only 1,530 batters were purposely passed in 2,494 games played in the last four seasons in the Texas league.

Even so, it appears to us, by eliminating the pitching of the four balls to the charity cases and putting them on automatically, considerable time would have been saved, time that irks a spectator.

THERE ARE other slow-up parts of our national game, too, and these include the frequent changing of pitchers and their warm-ups.

While the use of automobiles to transport incoming pitchers from the bullpen has helped, the Yankees, for example, still refuse to ride and they walk in from the outfield confines.

Then, adding to the time consumed, a pitcher continues to warm up on the mound. It has been suggested that a pitcher be given less than the eight preparatory throws (supposed to take not more than one minute) but this, also, is still being considered.

Much of the delay in a ball game is caused by a pitcher-batter battle of wits. The batter takes his time, knocks the dirt from his spikes, gets set and then the pitcher goes into his act, sometimes waiting so long before he throws the ball that the batter walks out of the box, delaying the game.

IF BASEBALL INTENDS to speed up the action, there certainly are ways to do it. But baseball makes few rule changes. It continues to go on in its old, traditional way.

Morris Harvey, West Va. Tech Upset Victims

D. & E., Glenville Provide Surprises

By ALBERT AUVIL
(United Press International)

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI) —Both second - seeded Morris Harvey and third - seeded West Virginia Tech were jolted from the State Conference basketball tournament Thursday by a couple of virtual unknown players by the names of Bobby Ferrell and Larry Barker.

Ferrell, stand-in for Davis & Elkins Paul Wilcox who was ejected from the game, scored a goal in the last 20 seconds to give D&E a 74-72 win over Morris Harvey and Barker's last-second tip-in enabled Glenville to stun Tech 71-70.

First - seeded West Virginia Wesleyan became an even more solid favorite to win the title as a result. The Bobcats breezed to a 100-70 victory over Concord and fourth-seeded Bluefield downed Beckley 78-56 in the other quarterfinal games.

In Friday night's semifinals starting at 7, Wesleyan (28-1) plays Glenville (8-19) and D&E (15-11) takes on Bluefield (18-6).

Neither Barker nor Ferrell is among the leading scorers on his team, but each had it when it counted. Ferrell's tip-in dropped through the net as the final buzzer went off after Glenville broke up a Tech stall. And Ferrell might not have gotten in the game had it not been for the ejection of Wilcox five minutes after the opening of the second half. Wilcox, the nation's scoring leader, was banished for hitting a MH player but still got 25 points in his 25 minutes' work.

Wesleyan's Ken Remley gave another "big" performance, scoring 25 points and tying an all-time tourney rebounding record with 27 grabs. For Bluefield, there was no individual standout as the Big Blues completely outclassed Beckley.

Spahn Agrees To Sign Pact

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Warren Spahn, one of the National League's most consistent winners for the past decade, agreed to terms with the Milwaukee Braves Thursday, and said he would be in camp for the beginning of spring training Saturday.

Spahn, who okayed the pact in a long distance telephone conversation with Executive Vice President George (Birdie) Tebbetts, said at his Hartshorne, Okla., ranch home that he received a pay raise "satisfactory to both parties."

Agreement came after the southpaw ace had balked at Tebbetts' first offerings, and with neither Spahn nor Tebbetts willing to mention figures, best guesses put the salary at $65,000.

It will be "Spahnnie's" 18th season in the majors, and one in which he aims for more records to adorn his career. Spahn, who will be 38 in April, won 22 and lost 11 last year to become the first major league lefthander to win 20 or more contests in nine seasons.

Agreement came after the southpaw ace had balked at Tebbetts' first offerings, and with neither Spahn nor Tebbetts willing to mention figures, best guesses put the salary at $65,000.

It will be "Spahnnie's" 18th season in the majors, and one in which he aims for more records to adorn his career. Spahn, who will be 38 in April, won 22 and lost 11 last year to become the first major league lefthander to win 20 or more contests in nine seasons.

Morris Harvey, West Va. Tech Upset Victims

D. & E., Glenville Provide Surprises

By ALBERT AUVIL
(United Press International)

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI) —Both second - seeded Morris Harvey and third - seeded West Virginia Tech were jolted from the State Conference basketball tournament Thursday by a couple of virtual unknown players by the names of Bobby Ferrell and Larry Barker.

Ferrell, stand-in for Davis & Elkins Paul Wilcox who was ejected from the game, scored a goal in the last 20 seconds to give D&E a 74-72 win over Morris Harvey and Barker's last-second tip-in enabled Glenville to stun Tech 71-70.

First - seeded West Virginia Wesleyan became an even more solid favorite to win the title as a result. The Bobcats breezed to a 100-70 victory over Concord and fourth-seeded Bluefield downed Beckley 78-56 in the other quarterfinal games.

In Friday night's semifinals starting at 7, Wesleyan (28-1) plays Glenville (8-19) and D&E (15-11) takes on Bluefield (18-6).

Neither Barker nor Ferrell is among the leading scorers on his team, but each had it when it counted. Ferrell's tip-in dropped through the net as the final buzzer went off after Glenville broke up a Tech stall. And Ferrell might not have gotten in the game had it not been for the ejection of Wilcox five minutes after the opening of the second half. Wilcox, the nation's scoring leader, was banished for hitting a MH player but still got 25 points in his 25 minutes' work.

Wesleyan's Ken Remley gave another "big" performance, scoring 25 points and tying an all-time tourney rebounding record with 27 grabs. For Bluefield, there was no individual standout as the Big Blues completely outclassed Beckley.

Schoendienst's Status In 1960 Still Uncertain

"Red" Undergoes Lung Surgery

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst underwent major lung surgery Thursday to speed his recovery from tuberculosis. His doctors repeated their belief it's unlikely the Milwaukee Braves' star second baseman can play this year, and they remain uncertain about 1960.

This leaves the pennant-winning Braves without a likely second-base replacement for spring training.

Mel Roach had been regarded as the most probable substitute for Schoendienst, the play-making team leader who just turned 36. But Roach, 26, still is limping on a left knee damaged in a collision last August. There is doubt he will be ready on opening day.

A tubercular portion of Schoendienst's right lung was removed in a three-hour operation at Mount St. Rose Hospital. He has been a patient there since his ailment was diagnosed, shortly after the World Series in which he starred in a losing cause.

"Everything went according to plan," said Dr. William A. Werner, one of Schoendienst's physicians.

The surgery should give Schoendienst a better chance for a normal life, Dr. Werner said.

As for the redhead's returning to action in 1960, the physician said: "That's a bit too far ahead to say."

Schoendienst recently signed a 1959 contract for almost the same salary he made last year.

If Roach isn't ready for the start of this season, the second base job may fall to utility man Felix Mantilla or possibly to Casey Wise.

Fullmer Fights Wilfie Greaves

Middleweight Bout Billed For Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and Wilfie Greaves collide in a televised 10-round fight in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is unbeaten since he lost the 160-pound division crown to Sugar Ray Robinson early in 1957. He is the 12-5 favorite.

Despite the odds, Greaves, the Canadian champion now fighting out of Detroit, is confident he will rack up his 14th consecutive triumph.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point point system also will be used to break draws. The winner of each round gets from one to four points, the loser none.

Ilsa Konrads, 14, Sets Swim Record

HOBART, Australia (UPI)—Ilsa Konrads, 14, reacting to a sparkling women's 880-yard freestyle swim by Sylvia Ruuska of Berkeley, Calif., lowered her world record to 10 minutes, 11.4 seconds in winning the event Thursday night at the Australian championships.

Ilsa clipped four-tenths of a second off her former mark of 10:11.8 for 800 meters and 880 yards. Miss Ruuska, 16, was second in 10:20.0, the fastest 880-yard freestyle ever produced by a United States woman.

Ilsa and Sylvia matched strokes for the first 440 yards. Then Ilsa, a husky, 140 - pound youngster, shifted gears and churned ahead to win by 8.6 seconds and 12 yards.

Sports Car Race Dates Announced

7th Annual Event Set For May 15-17

Announcement was made yesterday that the seventh annual Cumberland National Championship Sports Car Races will be held May 15, 16 and 17.

This year's meeting again will be staged at the Cumberland Municipal Airport and co-sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club Foundation and Steel Cities Region, Sports Car Club of America.

One of the highlights of the 1959 meeting will be races for novice drivers and temporary license holders. These events will be staged on Saturday, May 16.

Senior drivers will make their bids for coveted silver trophies and points for national recognition on Sunday. A card of eight events featuring foreign and domestic cars in the various displacement classes is scheduled to get under way early May 17.

Cumberland Championship Races again will attract a great deal of attention from U.S. and European automobile manufcaturers who have been using the Cumberland course as an official testing grounds for competition machinery.

Steel Cities Region, which has helped promote the Cumberland Races since its inception in 1953, will handle the technical duties connected with the vast race operation, while the Cumberland Lions Club will serve as project administrators.

All proceeds will be used by the Cumberland Lions Foundation for its extended charitable youth programs.

Duncan, Iowa Star, To Play In Canada

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Randy Duncan, Iowa's All-America quarterback, Thursday signed a professional football contract with British Columbia of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Duncan is serving six months in the Army at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Terms of the contract were not revealed. It was estimated that he will receive about $35,000 for the two years.

Tigers Offer To Trade Yost, Kuenn, Hoeft

Would Swap Three For Maris, Lopez

NEW YORK (UPI)—Anxious to add more power to their lineup, the Detroit Tigers have offered Harvey Kuenn to Kansas City in an effort to land Roger Maris as part of a five-man package, the United Press International learned Thursday.

General Manager Parke Carroll of the Athletics confirmed a report that Kansas City had been offered "a package deal" by Detroit General Manager Rick Ferrell from the Tigers' training base at Lakeland, Fla.

Carroll refused to disclose any names, but it was definitely established Detroit has offered Kuenn, southpaw pitcher Billy Hoeft and newly acquired third baseman Eddie Yost in exchange for the long-ball hitting Maris and infielder Hector Lopez.

Chief Hitch at the moment is Kansas City's unwillingness to part with Maris, who slammed 28 homers and drove in 80 runs last season even though he batted only .240.

Baltimore Signs Pilarcik, Hansen

BALTIMORE (AP)—Al Pilarcik, Baltimore's little outfielder who tumbled to one of his worst seasons last year, has signed his '59 contract with the Orioles.

Young Ron Hansen, who figures to be in strong contention for the shortstop berth, also signed for the year, bringing the number of Birds in the coop to 32.

Pilarcik, 28, hit for an average of .435 during spring training last year, then tumbled to a yearly average of .243. However, he led the club in stolen bases—7—for the second straight year.

Hansen, 20, injured his back while playing winter ball, but an examination by four Baltimore doctors last week indicated it simply was a pulled muscle and not a recurrence of the spinal disc trouble which kept him out of baseball in 1957.

Nature has carved hundreds of bridges and arches in Utah and Arizona, but Rainbow Bridge dwarfs them all. Rising 309 feet to a graceful, arching span of 278 feet, it is almost broad enough to frame the United States Capitol, says the National Geographic Magazine.

Aysha Sets New Record At Hialeah

Hartack Scores Aboard Natalie

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP)—Hasty House Farm's Aysha established a track record for a mile and a sixteenth on the turf course while romping to a six-length victory in the $5,000 Andros Purse today at Hialeah.

Aysha covered the route in 1:43, one fifth of a second faster than the previous mark. The old standard was held jointly by Grasshopper II and Royal Governor.

The $4 favorite of the 18,537 spectators, Aysha went to the front at the start and never was threatened under Lois Cook's alert handling.

Ajaccio, owned by Anselmo A. Dorato, took place by three lengths from George D. Widener's Amergris. C. Mahlon Kline's Adare 2nd was a half length out of the money.

The record run marked Aysha's second straight victory. The Chilean importation tallied by four and a half lengths in her last outing, also over the grass.

Claiborne Farm's Natalie accounted for her third straight triumph in the $5,000 Cay Sal Purse. The promising three-year old closed fast to take a length and a half decision over Wheatley Stable's High Bid.

Narrissa, representing the Darby Dan Farm, was a length and a half behind High Bid and a nose in advance of Spring Hill Farm's Annsie Pie.

Cain Hoy Stable's Wayward Miss, the 3 to 1 public pick, was outrun and finished last in a dull performance. She had no visible excuse.

Natalie paid $10.50 after running seven furlongs in 1:24 2/5 for Bill Hartack.

Fail To Get Visas

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Thursday dropped its efforts to get a ski team into the United States. The team had wanted to participate in a pre-Olympic meet at Squaw Valley Feb. 21 - March 3. But the U.S. State Department refused to grant visas, saying eight of the 14 team members appeared to be Communists.

War Bracelet Wins By Photo In Bowie 7th

Beats Lord Gregor Over Seven Furlongs

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 19 (AP) — War Bracelet won by a neck in a four-horse photo finish today in the $4,500 Hyattsville Purse at Bowie Race Course.

Clairborne B. Carter's entry held gamely to the lead through the long stretch of the seven-furlong contest to beat Melvin H. Schlosberg's Lord Gregor, who closed with a rush.

Lord Gregor was a nose in front of Mrs. Milton Erlanger's V.S.O.P., who was the same scant margin ahead of Keystone Stable's Agha Alibhai.

It was the best finish of the 11-day-old meeting and War Bracelet had to round the fast track in 1:25 3/5 to win under Apprentice Jimmy Kirk. It was the fastest seven furlongs of the meeting.

War Bracelet paid $11.60, $6.80 and $4.00; Lord Gregor $4.20 and $2.80 and V.S.O.P. $3.60.

The sky was sunny but freezing temperatures kept the crowd of 8,164 shivering. Betting for nine races was $712,138.

Schoendienst's Status In 1960 Still Uncertain

"Red" Undergoes Lung Surgery

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst underwent major lung surgery Thursday to speed his recovery from tuberculosis. His doctors repeated their belief it's unlikely the Milwaukee Braves' star second baseman can play this year, and they remain uncertain about 1960.

This leaves the pennant-winning Braves without a likely second-base replacement for spring training.

Mel Roach had been regarded as the most probable substitute for Schoendienst, the play-making team leader who just turned 36. But Roach, 26, still is limping on a left knee damaged in a collision last August. There is doubt he will be ready on opening day.

A tubercular portion of Schoendienst's right lung was removed in a three-hour operation at Mount St. Rose Hospital. He has been a patient there since his ailment was diagnosed, shortly after the World Series in which he starred in a losing cause.

"Everything went according to plan," said Dr. William A. Werner, one of Schoendienst's physicians.

The surgery should give Schoendienst a better chance for a normal life, Dr. Werner said.

As for the redhead's returning to action in 1960, the physician said: "That's a bit too far ahead to say."

Schoendienst recently signed a 1959 contract for almost the same salary he made last year.

If Roach isn't ready for the start of this season, the second base job may fall to utility man Felix Mantilla or possibly to Casey Wise.

Fullmer Fights Wilfie Greaves

Middleweight Bout Billed For Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and Wilfie Greaves collide in a televised 10-round fight in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is unbeaten since he lost the 160-pound division crown to Sugar Ray Robinson early in 1957. He is the 12-5 favorite.

Despite the odds, Greaves, the Canadian champion now fighting out of Detroit, is confident he will rack up his 14th consecutive triumph.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point point system also will be used to break draws. The winner of each round gets from one to four points, the loser none.

Ilsa Konrads, 14, Sets Swim Record

HOBART, Australia (UPI)—Ilsa Konrads, 14, reacting to a sparkling women's 880-yard freestyle swim by Sylvia Ruuska of Berkeley, Calif., lowered her world record to 10 minutes, 11.4 seconds in winning the event Thursday night at the Australian championships.

Ilsa clipped four-tenths of a second off her former mark of 10:11.8 for 800 meters and 880 yards. Miss Ruuska, 16, was second in 10:20.0, the fastest 880-yard freestyle ever produced by a United States woman.

Ilsa and Sylvia matched strokes for the first 440 yards. Then Ilsa, a husky, 140 - pound youngster, shifted gears and churned ahead to win by 8.6 seconds and 12 yards.

Sports Car Race Dates Announced

7th Annual Event Set For May 15-17

Announcement was made yesterday that the seventh annual Cumberland National Championship Sports Car Races will be held May 15, 16 and 17.

This year's meeting again will be staged at the Cumberland Municipal Airport and co-sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club Foundation and Steel Cities Region, Sports Car Club of America.

One of the highlights of the 1959 meeting will be races for novice drivers and temporary license holders. These events will be staged on Saturday, May 16.

Senior drivers will make their bids for coveted silver trophies and points for national recognition on Sunday. A card of eight events featuring foreign and domestic cars in the various displacement classes is scheduled to get under way early May 17.

Cumberland Championship Races again will attract a great deal of attention from U.S. and European automobile manufcaturers who have been using the Cumberland course as an official testing grounds for competition machinery.

Steel Cities Region, which has helped promote the Cumberland Races since its inception in 1953, will handle the technical duties connected with the vast race operation, while the Cumberland Lions Club will serve as project administrators.

All proceeds will be used by the Cumberland Lions Foundation for its extended charitable youth programs.

Duncan, Iowa Star, To Play In Canada

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Randy Duncan, Iowa's All-America quarterback, Thursday signed a professional football contract with British Columbia of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Duncan is serving six months in the Army at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Terms of the contract were not revealed. It was estimated that he will receive about $35,000 for the two years.

Tigers Offer To Trade Yost, Kuenn, Hoeft

Would Swap Three For Maris, Lopez

NEW YORK (UPI)—Anxious to add more power to their lineup, the Detroit Tigers have offered Harvey Kuenn to Kansas City in an effort to land Roger Maris as part of a five-man package, the United Press International learned Thursday.

General Manager Parke Carroll of the Athletics confirmed a report that Kansas City had been offered "a package deal" by Detroit General Manager Rick Ferrell from the Tigers' training base at Lakeland, Fla.

Carroll refused to disclose any names, but it was definitely established Detroit has offered Kuenn, southpaw pitcher Billy Hoeft and newly acquired third baseman Eddie Yost in exchange for the long-ball hitting Maris and infielder Hector Lopez.

Chief Hitch at the moment is Kansas City's unwillingness to part with Maris, who slammed 28 homers and drove in 80 runs last season even though he batted only .240.

Baltimore Signs Pilarcik, Hansen

BALTIMORE (AP)—Al Pilarcik, Baltimore's little outfielder who tumbled to one of his worst seasons last year, has signed his '59 contract with the Orioles.

Young Ron Hansen, who figures to be in strong contention for the shortstop berth, also signed for the year, bringing the number of Birds in the coop to 32.

Pilarcik, 28, hit for an average of .435 during spring training last year, then tumbled to a yearly average of .243. However, he led the club in stolen bases—7—for the second straight year.

Hansen, 20, injured his back while playing winter ball, but an examination by four Baltimore doctors last week indicated it simply was a pulled muscle and not a recurrence of the spinal disc trouble which kept him out of baseball in 1957.

Nature has carved hundreds of bridges and arches in Utah and Arizona, but Rainbow Bridge dwarfs them all. Rising 309 feet to a graceful, arching span of 278 feet, it is almost broad enough to frame the United States Capitol, says the National Geographic Magazine.

Aysha Sets New Record At Hialeah

Hartack Scores Aboard Natalie

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP)—Hasty House Farm's Aysha established a track record for a mile and a sixteenth on the turf course while romping to a six-length victory in the $5,000 Andros Purse today at Hialeah.

Aysha covered the route in 1:43, one fifth of a second faster than the previous mark. The old standard was held jointly by Grasshopper II and Royal Governor.

The $4 favorite of the 18,537 spectators, Aysha went to the front at the start and never was threatened under Lois Cook's alert handling.

Ajaccio, owned by Anselmo A. Dorato, took place by three lengths from George D. Widener's Amergris. C. Mahlon Kline's Adare 2nd was a half length out of the money.

The record run marked Aysha's second straight victory. The Chilean importation tallied by four and a half lengths in her last outing, also over the grass.

Claiborne Farm's Natalie accounted for her third straight triumph in the $5,000 Cay Sal Purse. The promising three-year old closed fast to take a length and a half decision over Wheatley Stable's High Bid.

Narrissa, representing the Darby Dan Farm, was a length and a half behind High Bid and a nose in advance of Spring Hill Farm's Annsie Pie.

Cain Hoy Stable's Wayward Miss, the 3 to 1 public pick, was outrun and finished last in a dull performance. She had no visible excuse.

Fail To Get Visas

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany Thursday dropped its efforts to get a ski team into the United States. The team had wanted to participate in a pre-Olympic meet at Squaw Valley Feb. 21 - March 3. But the U.S. State Department refused to grant visas, saying eight of the 14 team members appeared to be Communists.

War Bracelet Wins By Photo In Bowie 7th

Beats Lord Gregor Over Seven Furlongs

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 19 (AP) — War Bracelet won by a neck in a four-horse photo finish today in the $4,500 Hyattsville Purse at Bowie Race Course.

Clairborne B. Carter's entry held gamely to the lead through the long stretch of the seven-furlong contest to beat Melvin H. Schlosberg's Lord Gregor, who closed with a rush.

Lord Gregor was a nose in front of Mrs. Milton Erlanger's V.S.O.P., who was the same scant margin ahead of Keystone Stable's Agha Alibhai.

It was the best finish of the 11-day-old meeting and War Bracelet had to round the fast track in 1:25 3/5 to win under Apprentice Jimmy Kirk. It was the fastest seven furlongs of the meeting.

War Bracelet paid $11.60, $6.80 and $4.00; Lord Gregor $4.20 and $2.80 and V.S.O.P. $3.60.

The sky was sunny but freezing temperatures kept the crowd of 8,164 shivering. Betting for nine races was $712,138.

Nepal charges mountain climbers an admission fee of $630 to assault 29,028-foot Mount Everest. Anyone attempting to scale 26,811-foot Dhaulagiri, the earth's highest known unconquered peak, must pay the same; but lower peaks may be tackled for bargain prices.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Sterling Hayden has been contacted in Tahiti (yes, that's where he is on his boat with his children) about co-starring with James Mason in "Mato Grasso," meaning "great jungle," in Brazil.

Before Sterling hit the headlines by kidnaping his own children, or this is what his wife charged, he had talked about this project with Sandy Howard, TV producer who is turning movie director for "Mato Grasso." Hayden said he wanted to see the script and told Howard where he would be. The script has been airmailed.

Money for the venture is being put up by two South American millionaires, Steve Barclay and Emanual Aruza. If Hayden accepts he won't have to be in Brazil in too much of a hurry as James Mason has to complete a picture in London before heading for South America.

My friend "Hank" Fonda hasn't been able to get that smile off his face since he talked long distance to his daughter, Jane, in New York and she told him she's being tested by Josh Logan for a part in "Parrish," the Mildred Savage best-selling novel which Josh will direct for Warners.

Twenty-year-old Jane was quick to tell her father that she didn't take advantage of the fact that Henry used to room with Josh to get this break. An equally famed director, Elia Kazan, coached her for the part and recommended her to Logan.

I am going to take exception right now to Al Zugsmith using the title "Nymphlet." To me that's one of the most disgusting words in a disgusting book, "Lolita." He's making a picture with that title.

He has been negotiating with Eleanor Donahue for that "Nymphlet" and for "Girl's Town." Eleanor is a lovely young girl who plays the daughter of Robert Young in "Father Knows Best," one of the cleanest, nicest shows on TV.

Few people in our town know Ingrid Bergman's husband, Lars Schmidt, but those who do speak of him as being charming and a regular guy. Schmidt is producing "My Fair Lady" in Stockholm, and Alan J. Lerner and Frederick Loewe of "Fair Lady" and "Gigi" fame, received the following cable from him:

"Your 'Lady' is a triumph. Thank you. Lars."

The King and Queen of Sweden attended the gala first night, and the production received an ovation at the end. If Ingrid was with Schmidt this was a far different night in Sweden from the one a few years ago when she starred in a play and the press tore her apart. The audience was very unenthusiastic.

It was good to see Robert Dix and his young wife, the former Janet Lake, together at the teen-age party Sunday. They had been divorced during the year, but the divorce is not final and they have now reconciled. I asked young Robert, who is the son of the late Richard Dix, what was the trouble.

He said, "I think it's the same trouble that faces all young married people today. The economic situation and the trouble over finances. We love our little daughter, Jana, 15-months-old, and we love each other, so we're going to do our best to work it out.' Here's hoping they do.

The idea of showing one-half of "Say One for Me" with Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Bob Wagner, was an inspired thought on the part of Harry Brand and his publicity department. The half show just made everybody want to see more.

Twentieth Century-Fox came up with a luncheon after the showing of the first half of the picture, as well as a "live" scene in which Debbie Reynolds danced with Bob Wagner. I couldn't get away from my office at noon, because that's the time I'm writing my column, but my representative who attended was most enthusiastic.

When you stand, do you make an attractive picture?

Day-Long Comfort

Do you stand much of the time? If so, you have an added reason besides your looks and your health for constantly checking your posture: Your day-long comfort!

Several times a day, try to pull your whole body up toward the ceiling. Imagine that an invisible hand is pulling you up firmly by the hair until your neck is out of your shoulders, your waist out of your hips and your weight lightly centered on the balls of your feet. In this way, you can make every part of your body carry its own weight instead of burdening your feet with the entire responsibility. From this position you can assume with safety any comfortable pose that occurs to you.

Just to give you an idea of several graceful and correct stander-uppers practice the following before your mirror if you can:

1. Place your feet together with your heels about six inches from a wall. Lean backward slowly until your head and shoulders just touch the wall. Be sure your back is in a straight line from shoulder to heel. Clasp your hands behind you at waist level. Then feel how the strain goes out of your shoulders.

2. Stand sidewise to and about four inches away from the back of a chair and place your right forearm on it delicately. Put all your weight on the ball of your right foot as you draw your left heel into your right instep with the toe pointed. Now, you'll feel the strain leave your left hip and leg. Of course, you can reverse the position and give your right side the same rest.

3. Cross your ankles keeping your weight evenly divided as you hug your waist at both sides between your thumbs and forefingers. Tuck your hips way under by tilting your pelvis and your back will thank you.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠.

South put on a real virtuoso performance in his treatment of today's hand. His bidding was highly imaginative, and his play revealed a canniness that completely foiled his adversaries.

North opened with one club and South chose one diamond as his response. This was not in the nature of psychic bid but rather a matter of convenience. Obviously the hand is too good for a single raise in clubs but it does not contain sufficient high cards for a double raise. The temporizing call is therefore the best choice. After North rebid one spade, again a bidding problem was presented. South finally chose two no trump as the least of evils and North carried on to game. Holding a reasonably good heart stopper himself, South felt that North might not be able to proceed in no trump if he raised clubs vigorously.

West opened the nine of spades and declarer made a crafty play when he ducked. Going up with an honor might expose him to the loss of four spades and the ace of hearts. East won with the ten of spades and returned the eight of hearts. If declarer plays low, the hand is lost for when East gets in with the ace of spades another heart return will net three tricks in the suit. But, reading the situation correctly, South went up with the queen and the contract was assured. If West returns a heart it runs to declarer's ten. If he returns anything else, South is assured of at least nine tricks, six clubs, a spade, a heart and a diamond.

South had the satisfaction of making in succession two winning plays at tricks one and two. He pointed out subsequently that he might have had a somewhat more difficult decision to make if East at trick two had returned the four of hearts.

Too Old For Surgery

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Physicians have decided retired stone mason Peter Wiseman is too old for surgery.

He is 105.

He was admitted to a hospital last Saturday and prostrate gland surgery was scheduled for Monday, but postponed.

"FREE" WHEELING ROMEO

ALESSANDRIA, Italy (UPI)—Police Thursday held Giovanni Pratesi, 20, on charges of stealing and abandoning 18 cars in a month. Police said Pratesi stole a car every time he wanted to take his girl friend for a drive. He then abandoned the auto in the countryside, occasionally stealing and selling the spare tire to buy gasoline for the next ride.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Light In Dark Corners

One area that our journalists cover hardly at all is journalism itself and I'm happy to report that some of journalism's dark corners are now being explored on a program called "The Press and the People." "The Press and the People" is produced by WGBH in Boston, Mass. by means of a grant from the Fund from the Republic and is now carried on some forty other stations around the nation (in New York, it's on WPIX at noon on Fridays).

Journalism has its share—and maybe more than its share—of attractive personalities and it also, God knows, has more than its share of problems in this complex age and this program is designed to shed a little light on those. One of the guests on this program one day was Edwin Lahey, a dry, earthy, knowledgeable character I could see much more of on television. Lahey, who is chief of the Washington Bureau of the Knight newspapers including "The Detroit Free Press," "The Miami Herald," "The Charlotte Observer" and "The Akron Beacon Journal," was uttering a few homely truths on the almost insurmountable task of getting the facts on our foreign military assistance.

"This will go on forever," said Lahey. "The Defense Department says that it doesn't object to a country-by-country breakdown of foreign military assistance. So you call the State Department. They say they cannot give a country-by-country figure for military assistance. So you say: 'Well, who said you can't?' Then you go from one payroller to another to find out who made the administrative determination that this would not be revealed to the public. And I defy anyone to put somebody in a corner who will say: 'I made that determination.' You just cannot find it. There are 10,000 people you have to talk to and you get worn down." And Lahey wrapped it all up in one salty phrase: "It's like getting bitten to death by a duck, to find out a thing like that."

Here Lahey has put his finger on one of the most agonizing frustrations newsmen experience — the sheer size of government, the sheer size of the task of covering it. At another point, the moderator of the discussion, Louis Lyons, declared that the reporter's job, the newspaper's job is becoming "an impossible job with all the complexities, let alone secrecy and censorship."

"That is right," said Lahey. "At any given moment in a local room, a state capital bureau, a Washington bureau, or a foreign bureau, there is more to do than is humanly possible to do. I have never had a day in Washington when that was not true."

Size, in short, is an enormous and increasing problem of its own and some of the other newsmen on this show have complained about it. Sheer immensity is a kind of stumbling block to the reporter because it's quite possible for a story to get so big it gets ignored altogether — which is a new kind of censorship.

A different aspect of this problem of size was brought out by Eric Sevareid and Martin Agronsky, who represented television's news commentators, the equivalent of a newspaper's columnists. Agronsky pointed out that TV costs are so high that "only the greatest corporations can afford it." The greatest corporations, faced with that kind of cost are inclined, he said, to put the money in a shoot-em-up Western which would have a bigger audience.

Sevareid put the problem in more trenchant terms, which deserve scrutiny. "I think," he said, "that courage of controversy, courage of innovation in the realm of ideas goes in inverse ratio to size of the establishment. And that's very simple. I think it is because, first, that the investment in any given item that is produced, whether it is a TV program or a Hollywood movie, or the big mass magazines, is such an enormous investment that they must find a great denominator in terms of audience, whether it is the lowest common denominator or not."

In other words, size tends to drive us toward the trivial—or towards ignoring the news altogether. Lahey pointed out, for example, that the hardest story to write and the worst-covered story of our time is inflation, which must surely be one of the most important stor s of our day. It's a little frightening, the thought that as the stories get gigantic the headlines dwindle and finally vanish altogether.

Dinner To Be Held Sunday To Aid LaSalle Retreat

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will sponsor a spaghetti supper Sunday, in St. Patrick's Social Center, according to James F. Quinn, faithful navigator.

The dinner will be served from 3 to 7 p. m., Quinn said, adding that the meal will be prepared and served by the LaSalle Mothers Club.

Proceeds from the affair will be used to finance retreats for Catholic high school boys in this area, Quinn explained. The retreat this year will be held May 12-14 at the Archdiocesan Retreat House, Manresa on the Severn, near Annapolis.

Quinn has appointed Jack J. Rorick as general chairman of the event. Other chairmen assisting are John W. Kreidler and Arthur F. Young, tickets; Norman P. Fearnow, floor; John H. Lindner, arrangements; Joseph H. Webb, publicity and Francis Werner, games.

Also assisting are Joseph Soethe, grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus; Paul Jackson, grand knight of Frostburg Council 1442; James Brailer, grand knight of Mt. Savage Council 1058, and Raymond Becker, grand knight of Piedmont Council 685.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Vocke has been selected as general chairman of the LaSalle Mothers Club committee. Co-chairmen of the kitchen committee are Mrs. Samuel Esposito, Mrs. Frank Lepore and Mrs. Ralph Indolphi, while Mrs. Raphael Firlie, Mrs. Andrew Saliga and Mrs. Charles Simpson are in charge of the dining room workers.

Quinn said the retreat project has been endorsed by the pastors of the area Catholic churches, the principal of LaSalle High and the provincial of the Christian Brothers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Sterling Hayden has been contacted in Tahiti (yes, that's where he is on his boat with his children) about co-starring with James Mason in "Mato Grasso," meaning "great jungle," in Brazil.

Before Sterling hit the headlines by kidnaping his own children, or this is what his wife charged, he had talked about this project with Sandy Howard, TV producer who is turning movie director for "Mato Grasso." Hayden said he wanted to see the script and told Howard where he would be. The script has been airmailed.

Money for the venture is being put up by two South American millionaires, Steve Barclay and Emanual Aruza. If Hayden accepts he won't have to be in Brazil in too much of a hurry as James Mason has to complete a picture in London before heading for South America.

My friend "Hank" Fonda hasn't been able to get that smile off his face since he talked long distance to his daughter, Jane, in New York and she told him she's being tested by Josh Logan for a part in "Parrish," the Mildred Savage best-selling novel which Josh will direct for Warners.

Twenty-year-old Jane was quick to tell her father that she didn't take advantage of the fact that Henry used to room with Josh to get this break. An equally famed director, Elia Kazan, coached her for the part and recommended her to Logan.

I am going to take exception right now to Al Zugsmith using the title "Nymphlet." To me that's one of the most disgusting words in a disgusting book, "Lolita." He's making a picture with that title.

He has been negotiating with Eleanor Donahue for that "Nymphlet" and for "Girl's Town." Eleanor is a lovely young girl who plays the daughter of Robert Young in "Father Knows Best," one of the cleanest, nicest shows on TV.

Few people in our town know Ingrid Bergman's husband, Lars Schmidt, but those who do speak of him as being charming and a regular guy. Schmidt is producing "My Fair Lady" in Stockholm, and Alan J. Lerner and Frederick Loewe of "Fair Lady" and "Gigi" fame, received the following cable from him:

"Your 'Lady' is a triumph. Thank you. Lars."

The King and Queen of Sweden attended the gala first night, and the production received an ovation at the end. If Ingrid was with Schmidt this was a far different night in Sweden from the one a few years ago when she starred in a play and the press tore her apart. The audience was very unenthusiastic.

It was good to see Robert Dix and his young wife, the former Janet Lake, together at the teen-age party Sunday. They had been divorced during the year, but the divorce is not final and they have now reconciled. I asked young Robert, who is the son of the late Richard Dix, what was the trouble.

He said, "I think it's the same trouble that faces all young married people today. The economic situation and the trouble over finances. We love our little daughter, Jana, 15-months-old, and we love each other, so we're going to do our best to work it out.' Here's hoping they do.

The idea of showing one-half of "Say One for Me" with Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Bob Wagner, was an inspired thought on the part of Harry Brand and his publicity department. The half show just made everybody want to see more.

Twentieth Century-Fox came up with a luncheon after the showing of the first half of the picture, as well as a "live" scene in which Debbie Reynolds danced with Bob Wagner. I couldn't get away from my office at noon, because that's the time I'm writing my column, but my representative who attended was most enthusiastic.

When you stand, do you make an attractive picture?

Day-Long Comfort

Do you stand much of the time? If so, you have an added reason besides your looks and your health for constantly checking your posture: Your day-long comfort!

Several times a day, try to pull your whole body up toward the ceiling. Imagine that an invisible hand is pulling you up firmly by the hair until your neck is out of your shoulders, your waist out of your hips and your weight lightly centered on the balls of your feet. In this way, you can make every part of your body carry its own weight instead of burdening your feet with the entire responsibility. From this position you can assume with safety any comfortable pose that occurs to you.

Just to give you an idea of several graceful and correct stander-uppers practice the following before your mirror if you can:

1. Place your feet together with your heels about six inches from a wall. Lean backward slowly until your head and shoulders just touch the wall. Be sure your back is in a straight line from shoulder to heel. Clasp your hands behind you at waist level. Then feel how the strain goes out of your shoulders.

2. Stand sidewise to and about four inches away from the back of a chair and place your right forearm on it delicately. Put all your weight on the ball of your right foot as you draw your left heel into your right instep with the toe pointed. Now, you'll feel the strain leave your left hip and leg. Of course, you can reverse the position and give your right side the same rest.

3. Cross your ankles keeping your weight evenly divided as you hug your waist at both sides between your thumbs and forefingers. Tuck your hips way under by tilting your pelvis and your back will thank you.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠.

South put on a real virtuoso performance in his treatment of today's hand. His bidding was highly imaginative, and his play revealed a canniness that completely foiled his adversaries.

North opened with one club and South chose one diamond as his response. This was not in the nature of psychic bid but rather a matter of convenience. Obviously the hand is too good for a single raise in clubs but it does not contain sufficient high cards for a double raise. The temporizing call is therefore the best choice. After North rebid one spade, again a bidding problem was presented. South finally chose two no trump as the least of evils and North carried on to game. Holding a reasonably good heart stopper himself, South felt that North might not be able to proceed in no trump if he raised clubs vigorously.

West opened the nine of spades and declarer made a crafty play when he ducked. Going up with an honor might expose him to the loss of four spades and the ace of hearts. East won with the ten of spades and returned the eight of hearts. If declarer plays low, the hand is lost for when East gets in with the ace of spades another heart return will net three tricks in the suit. But, reading the situation correctly, South went up with the queen and the contract was assured. If West returns a heart it runs to declarer's ten. If he returns anything else, South is assured of at least nine tricks, six clubs, a spade, a heart and a diamond.

South had the satisfaction of making in succession two winning plays at tricks one and two. He pointed out subsequently that he might have had a somewhat more difficult decision to make if East at trick two had returned the four of hearts.

Too Old For Surgery

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Physicians have decided retired stone mason Peter Wiseman is too old for surgery.

He is 105.

He was admitted to a hospital last Saturday and prostrate gland surgery was scheduled for Monday, but postponed.

"FREE" WHEELING ROMEO

ALESSANDRIA, Italy (UPI)—Police Thursday held Giovanni Pratesi, 20, on charges of stealing and abandoning 18 cars in a month. Police said Pratesi stole a car every time he wanted to take his girl friend for a drive. He then abandoned the auto in the countryside, occasionally stealing and selling the spare tire to buy gasoline for the next ride.

Television and Radio

Light In Dark Corners

One area that our journalists cover hardly at all is journalism itself and I'm happy to report that some of journalism's dark corners are now being explored on a program called "The Press and the People." "The Press and the People" is produced by WGBH in Boston, Mass. by means of a grant from the Fund from the Republic and is now carried on some forty other stations around the nation (in New York, it's on WPIX at noon on Fridays).

Journalism has its share—and maybe more than its share—of attractive personalities and it also, God knows, has more than its share of problems in this complex age and this program is designed to shed a little light on those. One of the guests on this program one day was Edwin Lahey, a dry, earthy, knowledgeable character I could see much more of on television. Lahey, who is chief of the Washington Bureau of the Knight newspapers including "The Detroit Free Press," "The Miami Herald," "The Charlotte Observer" and "The Akron Beacon Journal," was uttering a few homely truths on the almost insurmountable task of getting the facts on our foreign military assistance.

"This will go on forever," said Lahey. "The Defense Department says that it doesn't object to a country-by-country breakdown of foreign military assistance. So you call the State Department. They say they cannot give a country-by-country figure for military assistance. So you say: 'Well, who said you can't?' Then you go from one payroller to another to find out who made the administrative determination that this would not be revealed to the public. And I defy anyone to put somebody in a corner who will say: 'I made that determination.' You just cannot find it. There are 10,000 people you have to talk to and you get worn down." And Lahey wrapped it all up in one salty phrase: "It's like getting bitten to death by a duck, to find out a thing like that."

Here Lahey has put his finger on one of the most agonizing frustrations newsmen experience — the sheer size of government, the sheer size of the task of covering it. At another point, the moderator of the discussion, Louis Lyons, declared that the reporter's job, the newspaper's job is becoming "an impossible job with all the complexities, let alone secrecy and censorship."

"That is right," said Lahey. "At any given moment in a local room, a state capital bureau, a Washington bureau, or a foreign bureau, there is more to do than is humanly possible to do. I have never had a day in Washington when that was not true."

Size, in short, is an enormous and increasing problem of its own and some of the other newsmen on this show have complained about it. Sheer immensity is a kind of stumbling block to the reporter because it's quite possible for a story to get so big it gets ignored altogether — which is a new kind of censorship.

A different aspect of this problem of size was brought out by Eric Sevareid and Martin Agronsky, who represented television's news commentators, the equivalent of a newspaper's columnists. Agronsky pointed out that TV costs are so high that "only the greatest corporations can afford it." The greatest corporations, faced with that kind of cost are inclined, he said, to put the money in a shoot-em-up Western which would have a bigger audience.

Sevareid put the problem in more trenchant terms, which deserve scrutiny. "I think," he said, "that courage of controversy, courage of innovation in the realm of ideas goes in inverse ratio to size of the establishment. And that's very simple. I think it is because, first, that the investment in any given item that is produced, whether it is a TV program or a Hollywood movie, or the big mass magazines, is such an enormous investment that they must find a great denominator in terms of audience, whether it is the lowest common denominator or not."

In other words, size tends to drive us toward the trivial—or towards ignoring the news altogether. Lahey pointed out, for example, that the hardest story to write and the worst-covered story of our time is inflation, which must surely be one of the most important stor s of our day. It's a little frightening, the thought that as the stories get gigantic the headlines dwindle and finally vanish altogether.

Dinner To Be Held Sunday To Aid LaSalle Retreat

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will sponsor a spaghetti supper Sunday, in St. Patrick's Social Center, according to James F. Quinn, faithful navigator.

The dinner will be served from 3 to 7 p. m., Quinn said, adding that the meal will be prepared and served by the LaSalle Mothers Club.

Proceeds from the affair will be used to finance retreats for Catholic high school boys in this area, Quinn explained. The retreat this year will be held May 12-14 at the Archdiocesan Retreat House, Manresa on the Severn, near Annapolis.

Quinn has appointed Jack J. Rorick as general chairman of the event. Other chairmen assisting are John W. Kreidler and Arthur F. Young, tickets; Norman P. Fearnow, floor; John H. Lindner, arrangements; Joseph H. Webb, publicity and Francis Werner, games.

Also assisting are Joseph Soethe, grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus; Paul Jackson, grand knight of Frostburg Council 1442; James Brailer, grand knight of Mt. Savage Council 1058, and Raymond Becker, grand knight of Piedmont Council 685.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Vocke has been selected as general chairman of the LaSalle Mothers Club committee. Co-chairmen of the kitchen committee are Mrs. Samuel Esposito, Mrs. Frank Lepore and Mrs. Ralph Indolphi, while Mrs. Raphael Firlie, Mrs. Andrew Saliga and Mrs. Charles Simpson are in charge of the dining room workers.

Quinn said the retreat project has been endorsed by the pastors of the area Catholic churches, the principal of LaSalle High and the provincial of the Christian Brothers.

Phone Company Ups Wage Offer In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Chesapeake & Potomatc Telephone Co. Thursday upped slightly its wage offer in negotiations with the Communications Workers of America for a new contract to cover its West Virginia employes.

The union took the proposals under study and will give its answer at another bargaining session scheduled to start Friday at 10 a. m. The company said it offered a weekly hike ranging from $2 to $4.50 for top craftsmen and raised slightly for some locations a $1 to $2.50 raise for operators.

The old contract covering some 4,100 union employes of C&P expired last Friday midnight. The union has threatened a strike and the Parkersburg area local already has approved a walkout. The big Charleston area local was reported Thursday taking a 6trike vote.

The union had asked for pay raises of $1.59 to $5.50 a week and fringe benefits for its members, plus elimination of the last of six classifications of cities. This would give automatic raises to employes in 31 Class 6 cities.

The company had offered boosts ranging from $1 to $4 but was reported strongly against reducing the number of classifications of cities, where pay ceilings are different.

W.Va. Student Faces Hearing In Bomb Hoax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Another Charleston High School student was arrested Thursday for pulling a bomb hoax at the school last week and will face hearing Friday before Kanawha County Juvenile Court Judge Herbert Richardson.

But Richardson's stern action of Wednesday in sentencing two other CHS students to the state boys reformatory for similar fake bomb threats did not halt the acts in this area. Both the high school and junior high at nearby Dunbar were evacuated after hoaxes Thursday.

Richardson, meanwhile, defended his action in sentencing the boys so abruptly. The Charleston Gazette editorially questioned the severeity of the penalties. Richardson said both boys had previous records.

He also indicated strongly two of three boys arrested at Nitro in connection with two hoaxes there early this week would have reform school sentence. He said they have previous arrest records, too. The third has no record and a probation officer is studying his case.

The third of four hoaxes at Charleston High last week was solved with the arrest of the latest youth, a 15-year-old. Police admitted, during a routine question of some students, that he made one of the phony bomb threat calls.

Changed Guard Setup Urged

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill introduced in the State Senate Thursday provides for the naming of three general officers for the West Virginia National Guard instead of the present single adjutant general.

The measure, introduced by Senate Minority leader John Carrigan (R-Marshall) and Sen. William Mitchell (D - McDowell), would also up the AG to the rank of major general instead of the present brigadier general.

The other two officers would both be brigadier generals, one commanding the NG ground troops and the other the Air Guard.

Other provisions are aimed at streamlining the guard and modernizing guard statutes, including sections to spell out the authority of the governor in time of limited emergency in the state.

Sens. Carl Gainer (D-Nicholas) and O.G. Hedrick (D-Marion), introduced a bill to increase the state parimutuel race track tax from 5 per cent to 6.

Among the 14 other measures introduced was one by Del. W.T. Brotherton Jr. (D-Kanawha) to set up state schools for circuit and county clerks under the administration of state tax commissioner.

Other bills would:

—Allow the Public Service Commission to require $25,000 liability insurance of motor carriers under its jurisdiction. (Graziani).

—Require municipalities and county courts to put their employes under the workman's compensation law. (Brotherton).

—Allow the payment of mileage to jurors for each trip made to a court during a term of court instead of the present payment of mileage for one trip during the term. (Brotherton).

Nurse Drowns

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI)—A nurse at the Man Memorial Hospital drowned Thursday when her car went out of control on W. Va. 10 near here and plunged into the Guyandotte River.

Authorities said Mrs. Bessie Estep, 38, of Chapmanville, was on the way to work at the time of the accident.

Potomac Fire

John Armentrout and Lacey Tinsley Jr. stated when the town laid a new sewer on Main Street extended, that they were charged for a sewer tap although they paid for a sewer tap on the former sewer. The council did not change its original order.

It was reported parking fees for the past two weeks amounted to $85.51 as follows: Parking Lot I, $57.68; Number 2 $16.60 and street meters $11.23.

Leaves Hospital

FSTC Hostesses Are Entertained

FROSTBURG—A recent dinner meeting for hostesses to students living in local homes, sponsored by supervisors of residence halls of Frostburg State Teachers college was held in Frost Hall dining room.

The purpose was to have hostesses become better acquainted with the college. President Hardesty was introduced to the group by Mrs. Mary Carter, chairman. He spoke briefly on increasing enrollment of the college. He praised and thanked the hostesses for their fine cooperation and help in housing students. He also brought out the fact there would be more homes needed in September.

President Hardesty introduced Dr. Martin Rothstein, college physician, who spoke briefly on the health program concerning students in local homes. Mrs. Martha Flickinger, college nurse also talked concerning the health program.

Attending the dinner were Mrs. George McLuckie, Mrs. Kirkwood Jones, Mrs. E. R. Erwin, Mrs. Earl Glough, Mrs. Glyn Geis, Mrs. Russell Lancaster, Mrs. Kear Hosken, Mrs. Charles Richardson, Mrs. Cora Stewart, Mrs. Earl Kerr and Mrs. Emma Price.

W.Va. House

Speaker Harry R. Pauley immediately called for the ayes and nays — before Mrs. Walker could demand a roll call or continue the debate — and ruled that Singleton's motion had carried.

Delegates also approved and sent to the Senate four other bills, including measures to:

—Provide a 1-to-5 year prison term for second offenders under the obscene literature laws. The bill also provides that mere possession of such literature, unless it is for purposes of sale, shall no longer be a law violation.

—Allow pregnant girls under 18 to obtain marriage licenses even without the consent of their parents or guardian.

The House concurred in Senate amendments to a bill providing that county sheriffs must hold parole violators until they are returned to prison or discharged by the parole board, with maintenance costs to be borne by the institution to which they are returned. The bill now goes to the governor.

Bond Sale Proposed

A proposed constitutional amendment calling for a $200,000,000 road bond issue, plus repeal of the 1920 $50,000,000 revolving road bond amendment, was submitted by Dels. W. T. Brotherton (D-Kanawha) and Singelton.

The measure, backed by the State Chamber of Commerce, provides for a vote on the question in the 1960 election.

Advanced to a final House vote Friday were 13 bills and a proposed constitutional amendment to include a reference to the Deity in the preamble of the West Virginia constitution.

The House will meet at 10:30 a. m. Friday to clear the way for early weekend adjournment.

The Senate set its session for 1 p. m., an hour ahead of the usual time, and President Ralph J. Bean said the chamber may meet Saturday for the first time since the Legislature convened Jan. 14.

Service Announced

FROSTBURG—Rev. Ellis Hemingway, assistant superintendent of the Middle Atlantic Conference will conduct the 11 a. m. services Sunday at First Congregational United Church of Christ, Bowery Street. All members are urged to attend this service as it is in regard to obtaining a new minister.

Phone Company Ups Wage Offer In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Chesapeake & Potomatc Telephone Co. Thursday upped slightly its wage offer in negotiations with the Communications Workers of America for a new contract to cover its West Virginia employes.

The union took the proposals under study and will give its answer at another bargaining session scheduled to start Friday at 10 a. m. The company said it offered a weekly hike ranging from $2 to $4.50 for top craftsmen and raised slightly for some locations a $1 to $2.50 raise for operators.

The old contract covering some 4,100 union employes of C&P expired last Friday midnight. The union has threatened a strike and the Parkersburg area local already has approved a walkout. The big Charleston area local was reported Thursday taking a 6trike vote.

The union had asked for pay raises of $1.59 to $5.50 a week and fringe benefits for its members, plus elimination of the last of six classifications of cities. This would give automatic raises to employes in 31 Class 6 cities.

The company had offered boosts ranging from $1 to $4 but was reported strongly against reducing the number of classifications of cities, where pay ceilings are different.

W.Va. Student Faces Hearing In Bomb Hoax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Another Charleston High School student was arrested Thursday for pulling a bomb hoax at the school last week and will face hearing Friday before Kanawha County Juvenile Court Judge Herbert Richardson.

But Richardson's stern action of Wednesday in sentencing two other CHS students to the state boys reformatory for similar fake bomb threats did not halt the acts in this area. Both the high school and junior high at nearby Dunbar were evacuated after hoaxes Thursday.

Richardson, meanwhile, defended his action in sentencing the boys so abruptly. The Charleston Gazette editorially questioned the severeity of the penalties. Richardson said both boys had previous records.

He also indicated strongly two of three boys arrested at Nitro in connection with two hoaxes there early this week would have reform school sentence. He said they have previous arrest records, too. The third has no record and a probation officer is studying his case.

The third of four hoaxes at Charleston High last week was solved with the arrest of the latest youth, a 15-year-old. Police admitted, during a routine question of some students, that he made one of the phony bomb threat calls.

Piney Plains PTA Sees Safety Film

LITTLE ORLEANS—The Piney Plains School Parent Teacher Association met at the school Monday night with Homer Creek, vice president in charge.

Thirty eligible persons have signed for the Red Cross first aid course to be conducted at the school each Tuesday night.

The PTA will meet again March 9 and will make plans for a PTA community supper.

Changed Guard Setup Urged

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill introduced in the State Senate Thursday provides for the naming of three general officers for the West Virginia National Guard instead of the present single adjutant general.

The measure, introduced by Senate Minority leader John Carrigan (R-Marshall) and Sen. William Mitchell (D - McDowell), would also up the AG to the rank of major general instead of the present brigadier general.

The other two officers would both be brigadier generals, one commanding the NG ground troops and the other the Air Guard.

Other provisions are aimed at streamlining the guard and modernizing guard statutes, including sections to spell out the authority of the governor in time of limited emergency in the state.

Sens. Carl Gainer (D-Nicholas) and O.G. Hedrick (D-Marion), introduced a bill to increase the state parimutuel race track tax from 5 per cent to 6.

Among the 14 other measures introduced was one by Del. W.T. Brotherton Jr. (D-Kanawha) to set up state schools for circuit and county clerks under the administration of state tax commissioner.

Other bills would:

—Allow the Public Service Commission to require $25,000 liability insurance of motor carriers under its jurisdiction. (Graziani).

—Require municipalities and county courts to put their employes under the workman's compensation law. (Brotherton).

—Provide that county courts can declare special holidays with the concurrence of circuit judges. (Brotherton).

—Allow the payment of mileage to jurors for each trip made to a court during a term of court instead of the present payment of mileage for one trip during the term. (Brotherton).

Nurse Drowns

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI)—A nurse at the Man Memorial Hospital drowned Thursday when her car went out of control on W. Va. 10 near here and plunged into the Guyandotte River.

Authorities said Mrs. Bessie Estep, 38, of Chapmanville, was on the way to work at the time of the accident.

Potomac Fire

formed some repairs would be made.

John Armentrout and Lacey Tinsley Jr. stated when the town laid a new sewer on Main Street extended, that they were charged for a sewer tap although they paid for a sewer tap on the former sewer. The council did not change its original order.

It was reported parking fees for the past two weeks amounted to $85.51 as follows: Parking Lot I, $57.68; Number 2 $16.60 and street meters $11.23.

Leaves Hospital

Service Announced

FROSTBURG—Rev. Ellis Hemingway, assistant superintendent of the Middle Atlantic Conference will conduct the 11 a. m. services Sunday at First Congregational United Church of Christ, Bowery Street. All members are urged to attend this service as it is in regard to obtaining a new minister.

FSTC Hostesses Are Entertained

FROSTBURG—A recent dinner meeting for hostesses to students living in local homes, sponsored by supervisors of residence halls of Frostburg State Teachers college was held in Frost Hall dining room.

The purpose was to have hostesses become better acquainted with the college. President Hardesty was introduced to the group by Mrs. Mary Carter, chairman. He spoke briefly on increasing enrollment of the college. He praised and thanked the hostesses for their fine cooperation and help in housing students. He also brought out the fact there would be more homes needed in September.

President Hardesty introduced Dr. Martin Rothstein, college physician, who spoke briefly on the health program concerning students in local homes. Mrs. Martha Flickinger, college nurse also talked concerning the health program.

Attending the dinner were Mrs. George McLuckie, Mrs. Kirkwood Jones, Mrs. E. R. Erwin, Mrs. Earl Glough, Mrs. Glyn Geis, Mrs. Russell Lancaster, Mrs. Kear Hosken, Mrs. Charles Richardson, Mrs. Cora Stewart, Mrs. Earl Kerr and Mrs. Emma Price.

Speaker Harry R. Pauley immediately called for the ayes and nays — before Mrs. Walker could demand a roll call or continue the debate — and ruled that Singleton's motion had carried.

Delegates also approved and sent to the Senate four other bills, including measures to:

—Provide a 1-to-5 year prison term for second offenders under the obscene literature laws. The bill also provides that mere possession of such literature, unless it is for purposes of sale, shall no longer be a law violation.

—Allow pregnant girls under 18 to obtain marriage licenses even without the consent of their parents or guardian.

The House concurred in Senate amendments to a bill providing that county sheriffs must hold parole violators until they are returned to prison or discharged by the parole board, with maintenance costs to be borne by the institution to which they are returned. The bill now goes to the governor.

Bond Sale Proposed

A proposed constitutional amendment calling for a $200,000,000 road bond issue, plus repeal of the 1920 $50,000,000 revolving road bond amendment, was submitted by Dels. W. T. Brotherton (D-Kanawha) and Singelton.

The measure, backed by the State Chamber of Commerce, provides for a vote on the question in the 1960 election.

Advanced to a final House vote Friday were 13 bills and a proposed constitutional amendment to include a reference to the Deity in the preamble of the West Virginia constitution.

The State Senate passed only one local bill during a brief session, to let Raleigh County pay jail prisoners $1 a day for work on the courthouse.

The House will meet at 10:30 a. m. Friday to clear the way for early weekend adjournment.

The Senate set its session for 1 p. m., an hour ahead of the usual time, and President Ralph J. Bean said the chamber may meet Saturday for the first time since the Legislature convened Jan. 14.

Stock Market Pushes Toward Record Highs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks made a new assault on the record highs that lifted market values more than two-and-one-half billion dollars on the most active trading in three weeks.

The advance, featuring individual gains of a point to more than 3 points, pushed the industrial average to a level less than 3 points from the all-time high set on Jan. 21, and less than 5 points from the 600 mark which it has been repeatedly unable to crack.

The rise came on increased activity—4,160,000 shares compared with 3,480,000 Wednesday — and took in virtually all groups: The chemicals, steels, motors, oils, coppers, drugs, tires and the rails.

Auto stocks were the center of interest. American Motors fell 1½ points on the day's heaviest turnover on indications it soon will be meeting small car competition from the "big three" auto makers.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains hung in lower tones throughout the day and closed weak and heavy on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ⅜ to ⅞ cent; corn (old) up ⅛ cent; (new) up ¼ to off ⅜ cent; oats off ⅜ to ⅝ cent; rye off ½ to 4⅞ cents; soybeans off 1⅜ to 3½ cents.

Prices broke sharply at the opening Thursday when the announcement of government support rates sent the pits into vigorous selling. Average prices fell almost 2 cents on the bushel; rye dropped almost to a 5 cent dip. Rallying factors had little effect on the plunging market.

Wheat never recovered its losses. Deferred September and December managed to reach a steady tone, but March dropped ⅝ cent, and May 1⅛ cents. Commercial buying of March and commission house demand for May gave only nominal support; offerings were more than sufficient.

Distant corn positions tumbled further than nearby. September and December fell ⅜ to ½ cent a bushel. Nearby March and May lost only ⅛. The reason was apparently the larger corn acreage expected this year because of lower support for soybeans and other feed grains. Export houses took May on the decline. The spot trading basis was stronger and managed to remain steady.

In oats, the reduced loan price caused similar selling. A 1½ cent drop was recovered in September; March lost ¾. Stop-loss orders were finally uncovered towards the end of the day.

Rye fell hard. September lost 4⅞ cents, July 3⅜ and May 2¼ a bushel.

Beans tried to recover, but closed off 1⅜ to 3⅜ cents. The market remained unsettled throughout the session and commission houses continued to sell September and November deliveries.

Grains at outside markets were easy. The range:

Stock Market Pushes Toward Record Highs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks made a new assault on the record highs that lifted market values more than two-and-one-half billion dollars on the most active trading in three weeks.

The advance, featuring individual gains of a point to more than 3 points, pushed the industrial average to a level less than 3 points from the all-time high set on Jan. 21, and less than 5 points from the 600 mark which it has been repeatedly unable to crack.

The rise came on increased activity—4,160,000 shares compared with 3,480,000 Wednesday — and took in virtually all groups: The chemicals, steels, motors, oils, coppers, drugs, tires and the rails.

The rails showed an even bigger percentage rise than industrials in their average, reflecting chiefly improvement of 2 points in Atlantic Coast Line and 2½ in Norfolk & Western.

Auto stocks were the center of interest. American Motors fell 1½ points on the day's heaviest turnover on indications it soon will be meeting small car competition from the "big three" auto makers.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains hung in lower tones throughout the day and closed weak and heavy on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ⅛ to ⅜ cent; corn (old) up ⅛ cent; (new) up ¼ to off ⅜ cent; oats off ⅜ to ¾ cent; rye off ½ to 4¼ cents; soybeans off 1⅜ to 3½ cents.

Prices broke sharply at the opening Thursday when the announcement of government support rates sent the pits into vigorous selling. Average prices fell almost 2 cents on the bushel; rye dropped almost to a 5 cent dip. Rallying factors had little effect on the plunging market.

Wheat never recovered its losses. Deferred September and December managed to reach a steady tone, but March dropped ⅝ cent, and May 1⅛ cents. Commercial buying of March and commission house demand for May gave only nominal support; offerings were more than sufficient.

Distant corn positions tumbled further than nearby. September and December fell ⅜ to ½ cent a bushel. Nearby March and May lost only ⅛. The reason was apparently the larger corn acreage expected this year because of lower support for soybeans and other feed grains. Export houses took May on the decline. The spot trading basis was stronger and managed to remain steady.

In oats, the reduced loan price caused similar selling. A 1½ cent drop was recovered in September; March lost ¾. Stop-loss orders were finally uncovered towards the end of the day.

Rye fell hard. September lost 4⅞ cents, July 3⅜ and May 2⅛ a bushel.

Beans tried to recover, but closed off 1⅝ to 3⅛ cents. The market remained unsettled throughout the session and commission houses continued to sell September and November deliveries.

Grains at outside markets were easy. The range:

House Passes Bill To Change SRC Makeup

Tawes Program Sent To Senate

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate Thursday an administration bill to revolutionize the makeup of Maryland's Roads Commission.

The 114-2 vote on final passage came just one week after Gov. Tawes presented the measure in fulfillment of a campaign promise to revise the state's biggest money spending agency.

It would replace the present three-man commission with a seven-member unit. Six members would be named on a geographic basis. The seventh would be from the state at large and would serve as commission chairman and director of highways.

House passage of the bill was marked by only one main speech, an explanation by Majority Leader Boone (D-Balto County) of the speedy action on the bill. This had been criticized by some newspaper editorial writers and Boone drew a round of handclapping when he emphasized that his explanation was in reply to this criticism.

Action Not "Hasty"

"I don't think the Ways and Means Committee acted hastily," Boone boomed into a microphone. "I think the committee acted with dispatch."

He said the committee needed no more than a few days to process the bill because "there was no request for a hearing."

But even some members who voted for the measure had admitted privately their hearts weren't in it. They feel the new commission setup will encourage the playing of local politics with the state's 15-year billion-dollar roads program.

These silent dissenters explained, however, they considered it impolitic to oppose an administration bill before the governor sends down his list of job appointments for the new term. It is due next Wednesday.

Two Negative Votes

In the showdown, the two-vote opposition turned out to be bipartisan — Del. Bacharach (D-Balto 5th) and Del. Mathias (R-Frederick).

"I think it's a step backward—a big mistake," Bacharach later told newsmen.

Tawes said the measure was "aimed at modernizing and centralizing the State Roads Commission so that Maryland will be able to accomplish its construction schedule of interstate, primary and secondary highways as rapidly and efficiently as possible."

The governor envisions the highway director as the controlling state official in the location and building of roads on the interstate and primary roads systems. The geographically named commissioners would have jurisdiction over the secondary or feeder roads system.

Of this latter provision, Bacharach said, "if we don't watch it every secondary road will lead to a politicians' privy."

Improve Management

Del. Latham (D-Talbot) told the House he was proud to vote for the bill because he felt it would eliminate a recurrence of what he called "mismanagement" under the outgoing commission appointed by former Gov. McKeldin, a Republican.

Latham cited the construction of approach roads for a Kent Island shopping center developed by David Nichols, then a member of the commission, and the acquisition of excessive rights of way for minor roads.

Since the Democratic governor presented the new roads commission plan last week there had been little doubt that the Legislature, in which his party holds a 26-3 edge over Republicans in the Senate and 116-7 margin in the House, would give it a smooth ride to enactment.

Drury Retires, 3 Other PPG Officials Promoted

John B. White, manager of the local plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, announced last night that a number of maintenance personnel changes have been made at the Cumberland plant.

Roy W. Yunker, assistant plant engineer, has taken over Mr. Drury's position of plant engineer. John G. Lucas Jr. was named assistant plant engineer, and L. Donnell Mahew was appointed chief electrician at Works Seven.

Mr. Drury was first employed by the company in 1916 at the Ford City, Pa., plate glass plant. He became a machinist apprentice at Ford City in 1917, served in the armed forces during World War I, and returned to the Ford City plant as an apprentice.

In 1920 he left the company to further his education in the engineering field. Upon receiving his degree in mechanical engineering, he rejoined the company in 1923 as a draftsman in the General Offices at Pittsburgh.

He transferred to Works Nine at Crystal City, Mo., in 1935 as a project engineer, and in 1954 he rejoined the General Office engineering staff. On April 1, 1956 he was named to the position of plant engineer at Cumberland. Mr. Drury and his wife, Eva, will leave February 24 for their home at Daytona Beach, Florida.

Roy W. Yunker, new plant engineer, joined the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in 1947 at Works One in Creighton, Pa. A native of Chicago, he was graduated from the University of Illinois with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and received a master's degree in general engineering from the University of Pittsburgh.

He was transferred from the firm's Creighton plant to Cumberland in February 1956 as assistant plant engineer.

John G. Lucas Jr., newly appointed assistant plant engineer, was employed at the Crystal City plant in 1949 as an electrical engineer. He was transferred to the General Offices of the firm in 1954 as a design engineer for the new Cumberland plant. On May 1, 1956 he was appointed Works Seven electrical engineer. Mr. Lucas is a 1938 graduate of Pennsylvania State College with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering.

He was transferred to the Cumberland plant in February 1956 to become general foreman of the electric shop. Mr. Mahew recently completed 31 years' service with the company.

Glass Begins Rolling From Works 7 Plant

Glass was being rolled last night at Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant here.

It was the first production at the plant since operations were halted by a strike at midnight October 7.

Crews last night began rolling glass from the tank, which had been kept hot during the lengthy strike. Other crews began operating the polishers last evening as glass began moving into the wareroom.

Plans were being made to begin operating the plant's polishers today.

A plant spokesman said the start-up procedure was temporary and that it will take several days before a continuous ribbon of glass is moving through the plant.

Five hundred fifty of the 571 hourly paid employes have been called back to their jobs and all will be back by the first of next week.

Plant officials have been making every possible effort to get the North Branch plant back into production.

Some glass that has been stored in the wareroom has been shipped this week to customers.

The company is offering $100 loans to those employes desiring them to tide them over until the first pay day.

Assay Commission Report Given At Coin Club Meet

Mrs. Sara R. Beneman, 802 Fayette Street, one of the 16 members appointed to the Assay Commission by President Eisenhower, gave a report on the findings and functions of the commission during a regular meeting of the Western Maryland Coin Club Wednesday at City Hall.

The function of the commission is to make a test of coins taken at random from the Philadelphia and Denver mints throughout the preceding year to determine whether there has been uniformity as to the requirement of the law with respect to weight and fineness of coins.

Mrs. Beneman pointed out that none of the members selected made application; the origin of the commission is lost in antiquity; and the commission is divided into three committees to weigh, count and carry the coins.

The coins, she said, are weighed by the head of the Bureau of Standards after a ceremony of the breaking of the seals of the box containing the weights. Mrs. Beneman, who said the commission meets on February 11, concluded her report by saying that the commission found only one coin, a dime, which was perfect in all respects, the first such coin in 11 years, according to the head of the Bureau of Standards.

But she assured the Coin Club members they need have no fear or apprehension concerning the quality of United States coins.

Mrs. Beneman said she deems it an honor and a privilege to serve on the commission.

She showed the members a letter of appointment from the President, a book of historical background and a medallion struck in honor of this year's commission with her name inscribed around the outer edge of the medal.

The club decided to participate in National Coin Week April 12-18. The theme this year is "Portrayal of Lincoln Through Numismatics." An auction of Buffalo nickels was conducted by John Dorn, program director.

See Will Drop Court Bill Into Hopper Today

Deletes Cumberland $2,500 Contribution

State Senator Charles M. See will drop his bill to eliminate Cumberland's $2,500 a year contribution to the Allegany County Juvenile Court into the Legislature's hopper today.

He said the bill will leave the Juvenile Court legislation exactly as it is today except for deleting provisions requiring the City of Cumberland to contribute toward the salaries of the magistrate for juvenile causes and the clerk of the court.

It will provide, he said, that all costs of the court will be borne by Allegany County after June 1.

The bill states, Senator See said, that the Juvenile Court is as much a county function as the Circuit Court.

The law under which the city is required to contribute $2,500 a year, he said, was passed before he entered the General Assembly.

Mutual agreement has been reached on the proposal by city and county officials.

Resolution Passes

The Senate yesterday unanimously adopted Senate Joint Resolution 6, sponsored by Senator See.

It requests the State Roads Commission to use all available means to get the Federal Bureau of Roads to include Route 40 from Hancock to the Pennsylvania line into the Interstate Road System.

He said Senate Bill 58, which would provide $50 a month supplemental pensions to teachers who retire after July 1, will be up for its third reading in the Senate today.

It provides for the sheriff to have free rent and maintenance in living quarters adjacent to the county jail.

Sends Regrets

It also would allow deputies to eat their meals at the jail when they are on duty, and authorizes the appointment of a clerk-stenographer.

Senator See said he has wired Republican officials and city and county officials he will be unable to attend the Lincoln Day dinner tonight or the city-county conference Monday due to a commitment made three weeks ago.

He reported, however, that he will go along with any proposal on which the city and county agree.

Case Goes To Appeals Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals Thursday took under advisement a suit in which Philip T. Christ of Cumberland sought reversal of a judgment denying four damage suits.

The suits were against Raymond J. Wempe, also of Cumberland.

Christ is the father of Mrs. Patricia L. Trenton, a 28-year-old divorcee who was fatally injured when a car driven by Wempe ran off a wet mountain road in Garrett County and hit a tree.

Christ brought the suits as administrator of Mrs. Trenton's estate and as guardian of his granddaughter who was injured in the 1957 accident. A jury in Baltimore Superior Court, where the case was moved for trial, found Wempe was innocent of negligence.

A spokesman for the Cumberland Recreation Department said yesterday that the rink will be open from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Mrs. Lauren Lapp, president of the playground association, will be in charge of refreshments. The rink was flooded Wednesday night and should be in good shape for skating this evening.

Keating, who had served five terms in the House of Representatives before being elected to the U.S. Senate last November, will be introduced by former Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde who represented the Sixth District for three terms.

Boys Admit Equipment Vandalism

Three local boys, ranging in age from nine to 15, reportedly have admitted to city police that they are responsible for vandalism which caused considerable damage to equipment owned by the George F. Hazelwood Company here.

Detective Lieutenant James E. Van said the three boys have been placed in custody of their parents pending action of the construction firm officials.

Police received a complaint Monday from a superintendent of the company, who said windows were broken out in a shovel, gas pumps and trucks and that dirt was put in the oil fill of a tractor.

The superintendent reported that the dirt mover motor was started up and left running all night. Registration cards were taken from the vehicles and papers were thrown on the floors of the trucks.

The equipment is being used on construction work for the Cumberland Thruway from State Route 51 to Laing Avenue.

Mayors' Gallery To Be Placed In Council Chamber

Portraits of Cumberland's chief executives will be given places of honor in the Council Chamber, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

The portraits were recently placed in the mayor's office and the gallery will be completed as soon as portraits of Mayor Keech and Former Mayors Thomas S. Post and Roy W. Eves are taken.

Several of the portraits were placed in the legislative chamber yesterday and all are expected to be up within two weeks.

The Mayor said several souvenirs of the Cumberland Bicentennial will also be placed in the Council Chamber where all can see them.

A fellowship meeting was held at the Elks Home, at which time the enlargement of the club was discussed.

Mr. Madden, who is head of the Chesapeake District, was accompanied by Malcolm Moore, district secretary-treasurer, according to Richard L. Blake, local club president.

Salvation Army Civic Dinner Planned Today

Brigadier Cone Will Be Speaker

New officers and members of the Salvation Army Advisory Board will be installed at the group's annual civic dinner meeting at 6:30 o'clock this evening at Central YMCA.

Captain Daniel K. Biggs, commanding officer of the Salvation Army Citadel on North Mechanic Street, said that Brigadier Carl E. Cone of Baltimore will install the new officers and members.

New officers are Robert D. Garner, chairman; Duard H. Little, vice chairman; Earl M. Nonnenmann, re-elected secretary, and J. Wallace Close, re-elected treasurer. New members of the 24-man board are Woodrow W. Gurley, George R. Hughes Jr., Ernest A. Lindsay, Glenn L. Morris and Louis V. Shinnamon. Two other members of the present board, Milton Bernstein and Mr. Close, have been re-elected to new three-year terms.

Brigadier Cone, who has been commander of the Salvation Army's Maryland and Northern West Virginia Division since last June 26, will be the principal speaker at tonight's session. A native of Florida, he became a Salvation Army officer 30 years ago.

He came to his present position from the Salvation Army Southern Territorial Headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., where he served for three and one-half years as public relations secretary for the 15 southern states. He is married and has four children, one of whom is an officer of the Salvation Army stationed in Santiago, Chile.

Robert M. Hainsfurther, who served as chairman of the board during 1958, plans to return from Pittsburgh, Pa., to preside at the beginning of tonight's meeting.

Lewis J. Ort, life member and former chairman of the board, is scheduled to introduce guests. Mr. Garner will submit a report on the operation of the Salvation Army and Capt. Biggs also will have a brief report. Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, will give the invocation.

Growers Urged To Join Fight On Hail Loss

Allegany County fruit growers yesterday were urged to join in the cooperative program to combat hail damage to orchards in the productive four-state area which includes parts of Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

This appeal was made yesterday at the annual fruit growers' meeting held at the LaVale Fire Hall. It came from Harvey Beeler of Paw Paw, W.Va., who is a salesman for the Consolidated Orchard Company.

Two airplanes will be based at Martinsburg, W.Va., in this proposed program. They will be alerted upon the approach of hail storms and will drop a substance upon the clouds designed to break up hail storms.

Total cost of this program will be about $60,000 and Mr. Beeler said more than $20,000 has been collected or pledged. Theodore Stegmaier, Christie Road orchardist, is the only Allegany County orchardist signed up in the program, it is understood. The Consolidated Orchard Company, one of the leaders in the hail control program, also owns orchards in this county.

Mr. Beeler was the only surprise speaker among six heard yesterday at the meeting arranged by County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Man Burned In Explosion At Oldtown

A Paw Paw, W. Va., area man was burned and the basement of an Oldtown residence was damaged by fire yesterday morning when a small gasoline blowtorch exploded.

Ivan Smith, 28, was treated at Memorial Hospital for first and second degree burns about the head and face when the explosion occurred in the basement of the home of M. R. Lewis.

Mr. Smith, who drives a school bus in the Oldtown area, was installing a bathroom in the Lewis residence basement when he was burned.

Some 10 members of Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company answered the alarm at 11:30 a.m. and were able to confine the fire to the basement area.

District 16 Fire Company at North Branch responded to the call with six men and two pieces of equipment, but the blaze was under control when they arrived.

Several teachers and employes at the Oldtown School also helped fight the fire with extinguishers from the school building.

Mr. Lewis, who operates a store in Oldtown, estimated the damage in his home to be about $500.

No Beatniks For Me, Says Senator See

ANNAPOLIS (AP)— There are all kinds of poets, says Sen. Charles M. See (R-Allegany), and he wants to make sure the governor appoints the right type as poet laureate of Maryland.

"We don't want any rock-and-roll poet or cha-cha poet," See told the Senate Thursday. "He should be a classical writer and not just a rhymer."

The Allegany senator offered amendments to the House-passed bill which could create the non-paying job. He specified that the governor would select a Maryland citizen "who is currently writing or being published widely in Maryland and in other states as a poet," and that he be selected from recommendations by a committee of Marylanders with literary background.

Norman D. Smith, 18, of RD 2, Bedford, yesterday morning was hospitalized with injuries sustained when a car he was driving collided with a diesel unit of a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the Wolfsburg crossing about three miles west of Bedford.

Attaches of Bedford County Memorial Hospital said last night that Smith's condition is good. The youth sustained abrasions of his face, arms and hands and possible head injuries. X-rays were taken, attaches said.

State Police at Bedford said the accident occurred about 10 a.m. yesterday as Smith was traveling north on Township Route 469 in the direction of Altoona.

They reported the driver failed to see the train and ran into the side of one of two diesel units on the train, which was traveling west toward Somerset. The coupe driven by Smith was demolished and there was about $50 damage to the diesel unit, police said.

The engineer of the train, which runs daily from Altoona to Ellerslie, was H. S. Lybarger, 62, of Altoona. The train consisted of two diesel units, two boxcars and two covered hoppers, police said. Smith was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Sub-Freezing Weather Is To Continue

The temperature is expected to dip to zero early this morning in the mountains of Western Maryland as the weatherman keeps an icy grip on the area.

Mostly sunny weather, windy and cold with temperature readings of 18 to 25 degrees are forecast for the west portion of Maryland today.

By 9 o'clock last night the mercury dipped to six degrees above zero in Oakland where the weather was blizzard-like as high winds whipped snow through Garrett County.

Ralph Weber, official weather observer, said that if the winds died down the mercury would probably plummet to zero or lower. Gusts of high wind accompanied by swirling snow caused poor visibility for motorists.

The highways in that county were slippery yesterday morning but were rather clear last night. About two inches of light snow has fallen in Garrett County since Wednesday afternoon, he said.

Robert Golden, superintendent of Constitution Park, who observes the weather here, said last night that the temperature reading about 9 o'clock was 13 degrees above zero.

He said the skies were clear and gusts of wind up to 30 miles per hour were blowing through the area. Some snow flurries fell at about 6 p.m.

The official low yesterday was 12 degrees and the official high reading was 21, Mr. Golden said. State Police at LaVale said the temperature at the barracks about 9 p.m. was nine above zero.

Up to four inches of snow had fallen in Elkins yesterday and some two inches were reported at Thomas.

House Passes Bill To Change SRC Makeup

Tawes Program Sent To Senate

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate Thursday an administration bill to revolutionize the makeup of Maryland's Roads Commission.

The 114-2 vote on final passage came just one week after Gov. Tawes presented the measure in fulfillment of a campaign promise to revise the state's biggest money spending agency.

It would replace the present three-man commission with a seven-member unit. Six members would be named on a geographic basis. The seventh would be from the state at large and would serve as commission chairman and director of highways.

House passage of the bill was marked by only one main speech, an explanation by Majority Leader Boone (D-Balto County) of the speedy action on the bill. This had been criticized by some newspaper editorial writers and Boone drew a round of handclapping when he emphasized that his explanation was in reply to this criticism.

Action Not "Hasty"

"I don't think the Ways and Means Committee acted hastily," Boone boomed into a microphone. "I think the committee acted with dispatch."

He said the committee needed no more than a few days to process the bill because "there was no request for a hearing."

But even some members who voted for the measure had admitted privately their hearts weren't in it. They feel the new commission setup will encourage the playing of local politics with the state's 15-year billion-dollar roads program.

These silent dissenters explained, however, they considered it impolitic to oppose an administration bill before the governor sends down his list of job appointments for the new term. It is due next Wednesday.

Two Negative Votes

In the showdown, the two-vote opposition turned out to be bipartisan — Del. Bacharach (D-Balto 5th) and Del. Mathias (R-Frederick).

"I think it's a step backward—a big mistake," Bacharach later told newsmen.

Tawes said the measure was "aimed at modernizing and centralizing the State Roads Commission so that Maryland will be able to accomplish its construction schedule of interstate, primary and secondary highways as rapidly and efficiently as possible."

The governor envisions the highway director as the controlling state official in the location and building of roads on the interstate and primary roads systems. The geographically named commissioners would have jurisdiction over the secondary or feeder roads system.

Of this latter provision, Bacharach said, "if we don't watch it every secondary road will lead to a politicians' privy."

Improve Management

Del. Latham (D-Talbot) told the House he was proud to vote for the bill because he felt it would eliminate a recurrence of what he called "mismanagement" under the outgoing commission appointed by former Gov. McKeldin, a Republican.

Latham cited the construction of approach roads for a Kent Island shopping center developed by David Nichols, then a member of the commission, and the acquisition of excessive rights of way for minor roads.

Since the Democratic governor presented the new roads commission plan last week there had been little doubt that the Legislature, in which his party holds a 26-3 edge over Republicans in the Senate and 116-7 margin in the House, would give it a smooth ride to enactment.

Drury Retires, 3 Other PPG Officials Promoted

John B. White, manager of the local plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, announced last night that a number of maintenance personnel changes have been made at the Cumberland plant.

Roy W. Yunker, assistant plant engineer, has taken over Mr. Drury's position of plant engineer. John G. Lucas Jr. was named assistant plant engineer, and L. Donnell Mahew was appointed chief electrician at Works Seven.

Mr. Drury was first employed by the company in 1916 at the Ford City, Pa., plate glass plant. He became a machinist apprentice at Ford City in 1917, served in the armed forces during World War I, and returned to the Ford City plant as an apprentice.

In 1920 he left the company to further his education in the engineering field. Upon receiving his degree in mechanical engineering, he rejoined the company in 1923 as a draftsman in the General Offices at Pittsburgh.

He transferred to Works Nine at Crystal City, Mo., in 1935 as a project engineer, and in 1954 he rejoined the General Office engineering staff. On April 1, 1956 he was named to the position of plant engineer at Cumberland. Mr. Drury and his wife, Eva, will leave February 24 for their home at Daytona Beach, Florida.

Roy W. Yunker, new plant engineer, joined the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in 1947 at Works One in Creighton, Pa. A native of Chicago, he was graduated from the University of Illinois with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and received a master's degree in general engineering from the University of Pittsburgh.

He was transferred from the firm's Creighton plant to Cumberland in February 1956 as assistant plant engineer.

John G. Lucas Jr., newly appointed assistant plant engineer, was employed at the Crystal City plant in 1949 as an electrical engineer. He was transferred to the General Offices of the firm in 1954 as a design engineer for the new Cumberland plant. On May 1, 1956 he was appointed Works Seven electrical engineer. Mr. Lucas is a 1938 graduate of Pennsylvania State College with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering.

He was transferred to the Cumberland plant in February 1956 to become general foreman of the electric shop. Mr. Mahew recently completed 31 years' service with the company.

Glass Begins Rolling From Works 7 Plant

Glass was being rolled last night at Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant here.

It was the first production at the plant since operations were halted by a strike at midnight October 7.

Crews last night began rolling glass from the tank, which had been kept hot during the lengthy strike. Other crews began operating the polishers last evening as glass began moving into the wareroom.

Plans were being made to begin operating the plant's polishers today.

A plant spokesman said the start-up procedure was temporary and that it will take several days before a continuous ribbon of glass is moving through the plant.

Five hundred fifty of the 571 hourly paid employes have been called back to their jobs and all will be back by the first of next week.

Plant officials have been making every possible effort to get the North Branch plant back into production.

Some glass that has been stored in the wareroom has been shipped this week to customers.

The company is offering $100 loans to those employes desiring them to tide them over until the first pay day.

Assay Commission Report Given At Coin Club Meet

Mrs. Sara R. Beneman, 802 Fayette Street, one of the 16 members appointed to the Assay Commission by President Eisenhower, gave a report on the findings and functions of the commission during a regular meeting of the Western Maryland Coin Club Wednesday at City Hall.

The function of the commission is to make a test of coins taken at random from the Philadelphia and Denver mints throughout the preceding year to determine whether there has been uniformity as to the requirement of the law with respect to weight and fineness of coins.

Mrs. Beneman pointed out that none of the members selected made application; the origin of the commission is lost in antiquity; and the commission is divided into three committees to weigh, count and carry the coins.

The coins, she said, are weighed by the head of the Bureau of Standards after a ceremony of the breaking of the seals of the box containing the weights. Mrs. Beneman, who said the commission meets on February 11, concluded her report by saying that the commission found only one coin, a dime, which was perfect in all respects, the first such coin in 11 years, according to the head of the Bureau of Standards.

But she assured the Coin Club members they need have no fear or apprehension concerning the quality of United States coins.

Mrs. Beneman said she deems it an honor and a privilege to serve on the commission.

She showed the members a letter of appointment from the President, a book of historical background and a medallion struck in honor of this year's commission with her name inscribed around the outer edge of the medal.

The club decided to participate in National Coin Week April 12-18. The theme this year is "Portrayal of Lincoln Through Numismatics." An auction of Buffalo nickels was conducted by John Dorn, program director.

See Will Drop Court Bill Into Hopper Today

Deletes Cumberland $2,500 Contribution

State Senator Charles M. See will drop his bill to eliminate Cumberland's $2,500 a year contribution to the Allegany County Juvenile Court into the Legislature's hopper today.

He said the bill will leave the Juvenile Court legislation exactly as it is today except for deleting provisions requiring the City of Cumberland to contribute toward the salaries of the magistrate for juvenile causes and the clerk of the court.

It will provide, he said, that all costs of the court will be borne by Allegany County after June 1.

The bill states, Senator See said, that the Juvenile Court is as much a county function as the Circuit Court.

The law under which the city is required to contribute $2,500 a year, he said, was passed before he entered the General Assembly.

Mutual agreement has been reached on the proposal by city and county officials.

Resolution Passes

The Senate yesterday unanimously adopted Senate Joint Resolution 6, sponsored by Senator See.

It requests the State Roads Commission to use all available means to get the Federal Bureau of Roads to include Route 40 from Hancock to the Pennsylvania line into the Interstate Road System.

He said Senate Bill 58, which would provide $50 a month supplemental pensions to teachers who retire after July 1, will be up for its third reading in the Senate today.

The Senator will report out Senate Bill 319 today for its second reading.

It provides for the sheriff to have free rent and maintenance in living quarters adjacent to the county jail.

Sends Regrets

It also would allow deputies to eat their meals at the jail when they are on duty, and authorizes the appointment of a clerk-stenographer.

Senator See said he has wired Republican officials and city and county officials he will be unable to attend the Lincoln Day dinner tonight or the city-county conference Monday due to a commitment made three weeks ago.

He reported, however, that he will go along with any proposal on which the city and county agree.

Case Goes To Appeals Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals Thursday took under advisement a suit in which Philip T. Christ of Cumberland sought reversal of a judgment denying four damage suits.

The suits were against Raymond J. Wempe, also of Cumberland.

Christ is the father of Mrs. Patricia L. Trenton, a 28-year-old divorcee who was fatally injured when a car driven by Wempe ran off a wet mountain road in Garrett County and hit a tree.

Christ brought the suits as administrator of Mrs. Trenton's estate and as guardian of his granddaughter who was injured in the 1957 accident. A jury in Baltimore Superior Court, where the case was moved for trial, found Wempe was innocent of negligence.

Boys Admit Equipment Vandalism

Three local boys, ranging in age from nine to 15, reportedly have admitted to city police that they are responsible for vandalism which caused considerable damage to equipment owned by the George F. Hazelwood Company here.

Detective Lieutenant James E. Van said the three boys have been placed in custody of their parents pending action of the construction firm officials.

Police received a complaint Monday from a superintendent of the company, who said windows were broken out in a shovel, gas pumps and trucks and that dirt was put in the oil fill of a tractor.

The superintendent reported that the dirt mover motor was started up and left running all night. Registration cards were taken from the vehicles and papers were thrown on the floors of the trucks.

Mayors' Gallery To Be Placed In Council Chamber

Portraits of Cumberland's chief executives will be given places of honor in the Council Chamber, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

The portraits were recently placed in the mayor's office and the gallery will be completed as soon as portraits of Mayor Keech and Former Mayors Thomas S. Post and Roy W. Eves are taken.

But Mayor Keech believes they should grace the Council Chamber as a source of inspiration available to all citizens.

Several of the portraits were placed in the legislative chamber yesterday and all are expected to be up within two weeks.

The Mayor said several souvenirs of the Cumberland Bicentennial will also be placed in the Council Chamber where all can see them.

Growers Urged To Join Fight On Hail Loss

Allegany County fruit growers yesterday were urged to join in the cooperative program to combat hail damage to orchards in the productive four-state area which includes parts of Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

This appeal was made yesterday at the annual fruit growers' meeting held at the LaVale Fire Hall. It came from Harvey Beeler of Paw Paw, W.Va., who is a salesman for the Consolidated Orchard Company.

Two airplanes will be based at Martinsburg, W.Va., in this proposed program. They will be alerted upon the approach of hail storms and will drop a substance upon the clouds designed to break up hail storms.

Total cost of this program will be about $60,000 and Mr. Beeler said more than $20,000 has been collected or pledged. Theodore Stegmaier, Christie Road orchardist, is the only Allegany County orchardist signed up in the program, it is understood. The Consolidated Orchard Company, one of the leaders in the hail control program, also owns orchards in this county.

Mr. Beeler was the only surprise speaker among six heard yesterday at the meeting arranged by County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Man Burned In Explosion At Oldtown

A Paw Paw, W. Va., area man was burned and the basement of an Oldtown residence was damaged by fire yesterday morning when a small gasoline blowtorch exploded.

Ivan Smith, 28, was treated at Memorial Hospital for first and second degree burns about the head and face when the explosion occurred in the basement of the home of M. R. Lewis.

Mr. Smith, who drives a school bus in the Oldtown area, was installing a bathroom in the Lewis residence basement when he was burned.

Some 10 members of Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company answered the alarm at 11:30 a.m. and were able to confine the fire to the basement area.

District 16 Fire Company at North Branch responded to the call with six men and two pieces of equipment, but the blaze was under control when they arrived.

Several teachers and employes at the Oldtown School also helped fight the fire with extinguishers from the school building.

Mr. Lewis, who operates a store in Oldtown, estimated the damage in his home to be about $50.

No Beatniks For Me, Says Senator See

ANNAPOLIS (AP)— There are all kinds of poets, says Sen. Charles M. See (R-Allegany), and he wants to make sure the governor appoints the right type as poet laureate of Maryland.

"We don't want any rock-and-roll poet or cha-cha poet," See told the Senate Thursday. "He should be a classical writer and not just a rhymer."

The Allegany senator offered amendments to the House-passed bill which could create the non-paying job. He specified that the governor would select a Maryland citizen "who is currently writing or being published widely in Maryland and in other states as a poet," and that he be selected from recommendations by a committee of Marylanders with literary background.

The Senate, which had twice delayed passage of the bill while See prepared amendments, put off any further debate on it until Monday night.
